

Illinois Banks Co-operating with Their Communities

The banks of Illinois today are working more closely than ever before with the people of their communities. Combining leadership with strength, they are preparing confidently — and helping others to prepare — for the period of recovery which every thoughtful individual knows is certain to come to this country.

Now is the time for you to take full advantage of the facilities and the co-operation which your bank offers you.

For better management of your financial affairs, for your own larger success, you will benefit by making more use of your bank. You will find your banker ready to co-operate with you in every safe and practical way.
