Sportsman Whose Boat Was Hit by Fire from Camp Logan May Sue

Wellington Quirk, wealthy Evanston sportsman, last week indicated he may attempt to force an investigation as the result of a recent shooting of a young woman guest on his craft that passed too close to shore adjacent to the Camp Logan rifle range.

The shooting victim was Miss Rosa Peterson, 704 Hinman avenue, Evanston, who was wounded in both legs when bullets from the rifle range spattered the boat sides and whizzed over the passengers' heads.

Quirk charges that the range is not adequately marked with danger signs on the lake or on shore adjoining the range to show the danger zone. On the other hand, Captain E. S. Hopps, range officer at Camp Logan, stated that the range is clearly marked and that Quirk violated maritime laws coming within the danger zone. Captain Hopps said that all yacht clubs and coast guard stations were notified of the opening of rifle practice and that hours of the shooting each day were explained.

Quirk indicated he would seek legal advice to find what steps can be taken to force an investigation.

COURT DECISION TO AFFECT ALL SCHOOLS

Holds Constitutional Law Providing for Payment of Taxes; Effects

The decision rendered last week by the supreme court holding constitutional the amendment to Section 154 of the Revenue Act of Illinois, effects all school districts in the state heretofore financed through the sale of tax anticipation warrants and presents a serious problem in Waukegan and throughout the entire state, says the News-Sun.

The law provides that taxes shall be collected by the county treasurer in gold and silver coin, United States legal tender notes and in current national bank notes, and in no other currency unless otherwise specially provided for. Provided however, that the taxes for the educational purposes of any school district may also be collected in the orders or warrants payable out of the educational fund for the wages of teachers and other employees of the board of education.

Prior to the enactment of the law referred to, only tax anticipation warrants could be accepted by the county treasurer in payment of taxes, and then only in an amount not exceeding 75% of the levy, and the tax warrants so issued were a prior lien on the taxes collected. There is no limit to the amount of orders a school district may issue, and the school orders may be used in payment of taxes. The Waukegan teachers are holding $140,000 in promise orders for May and June salaries, all of which may now be used to pay taxes.

Officials of districts throughout the state who are members of the State School Board association, receive copies of all proposed legislation effecting schools. Senate Bill No. 152, which later became a law, did not amend any school law then in force, but did amend a section of the Revenue Act. No one connected with any of the official school organizations of the state called the attention of any school official to the proposed amendment, and it was not discovered until after the legislature had adjourned.
