LEGION COUNCIL TO COMBAT PROPAGANDA

Starts Campaign to Offset Misleading Reports; Monthly Session Held

By Dan Hunt

An active campaign to combat the flood of misleading propaganda attacking the character and integrity of the American Legion was announced on Friday, Oct. 21 at the Lake County Council meeting of the Legion held in St. James Hall, in Highwood. Such men as State Commander James Ringley, Ed Hayes of Decatur, Dr. Schott of Chicago, past state commander Ivan Elliott, and other prominent Legionnaires are members of the Illinois section of this national movement.

Lake county members of the state committee include Charles C. Kapschull of Deerfield, now senior vice-commander of the Illinois state department, Mancell Talcott, Waukegan, junior state vice-commander, and Leonard D. Hook of Grayslake, 8th district commander.

Ben Hadad, junior vice-commander of the county organization, and commander of the Lake Villa post, introduced a resolution scoring Admiral Sims for his attitude and expressions of a derogatory nature concerning all war veterans.

A lengthy but interesting report of the national convention was given by Mancel Talcott, delegate from Lake county. He reported that the western hospitality was in every particular as it was reported to be. He praised the Chicago and North Western railroad for their splendid "convention train" and all its unusual features designed to make the trip one to be remembered. He dwelled considerably on the Gibbons-Hurley episode and claimed that the matter had been grossly distorted and misrepresented by certain reports. Talcott said that when Mr. Hurley rose to make his impromptu speech he was greeted with boos and catcalls but when he finished he was enthusiastically cheered and cheered.

Louis Smith of the Baxter-Evans post in Waukegan, extended an invitation to all Legionnaires to attend the first public installation of the post which would take place in the County building Tuesday, Oct. 25, with Mancel Talcott as the installing officer.

Committee reports were heard as follows: publicity, Dan Hunt of Deerfield; national defense, Herbert Beeler of Grays Lake; membership, John Harris, Lake Forest; hospital relations, Robert Gullic, North Chicago.

Commander Len Hook closed the session with an announcement of membership quota allotted to each post in the regular yearly drive.

Auxiliary member of the Evans-Watkins and Stupey-Smith posts served refreshments after the meeting.
