The Gospel of Thrift

by Mr. J. M. Appel,
We are reminded that this is Thrift Week. If ever there was a time when the blessings of thrift were demonstrated clearly, when the lessons of thrift were brought home to us forcibly, and when the gospel of thrift needs to be preached daily and internationally, it is right now when the world appears upside down in the throes of an unprecedented depression.

The bank's savings department tells a daily and interesting thrift story. Those who saved during the palmy days now step up to the savings window for their daily needs, whereas, those who squandered are on the way to the office of the Social Service. Those who are employed, having learned the lessons of thrift, are providing for the future by continuing regular and persistent deposits. The Christmas club has developed into a national and popular institution, because it has proved a powerful incentive toward thrift.

Why not during this Thrift Week, pause and consult some of our leading authorities on thrift and saving, and profit by their words of wisdom?

Benjamin Franklin, the leading apostle of thrift, tells us, "If you do not learn to save, then all else you learn will be of little value." Again, "If you know how to spend less than you get, you have the philosopher's stone."

Abraham Lincoln, the great Emancipator, left us this message: "Teach economy, it is one of the greatest virtues, it begins with saving money."

An ancient Japanese philosopher spoke thus: "Success and happiness are the beautiful flowers that spring from the plain, brown bulbs of saving, thrift and industry."

Next appears our distinguished statesman, philosopher and popular idol, the Honorable Andrew Gump. In admonishing his son, Chester, he spoke these wise and momentous words: "It is easier to save it while you are young than to beg it when you are old."

Entertain Former Y. W. Board Members Jan. 31

The board of directors of the Young Women's Christian association are giving a luncheon, in honor of all those who were at any time members of the local board, Tuesday, Jan. 31, at 1 o'clock at the Association House. Invitations will be issued to all those who served on the board after the year of 1914. Previous records were destroyed in the fire in 1922, which makes it impossible to notify those who served earlier, however, we are especially anxious that these people be present. Your presence is essential in making this a happy and successful reunion.
