HUNDREDS OF REAL VALUES NEXT WEEK

Dollar Day Bargains Will Be Broadcast in Special Press Edition

Hundreds of bargains will be offered by Highland Park merchants in next week's issue of The Highland Park Press as their part in the first semi-annual Dollar Days event of 1933. These great bargain days are sponsored by the Highland Park Chamber of Commerce and will be Friday and Saturday of next week, Feb. 10 and 11.

Next week's issue of The Highland Park Press, announcing the bargains offered on the two Dollar Days by the local merchants, will go into every home in Highland Park, Ravinia, Highwood and Deerfield, and the country west of Deerfield, so that buyers from this entire trade area may see the offerings of the Highland Park stores for those two days.

Local merchants are making elaborate plans to offer exceptional values on the last two days of next week, and lower levels in prices, compared to other years, are expected this month because of the low level of retail prices everywhere.

Previous Dollar Day sales here have proved that when Highland Park merchants undertake a project of this character they carry it out successfully by giving their patrons the best values for the money anywhere—values which cannot be surpassed elsewhere.

The members of the Highland Park Merchants Dollar Day committee of the Chamber of Commerce are Sam Fell, of Fell's Men's Shop; Julian Smith, of Smith's Dry Goods Store; and J. L. Werheim, of the J. B. Garnett Dry Goods company.

The Dollar Day committee says: "Here is an extraordinary opportunity for the thrifty buyer to make his or her dollar go the farthest. Just now the dollar will buy much more than was possible last year, or the year before, or several years before that, as prices are at present at a lower level than for a dozen years. On top of the prevailing lower trend in prices, Dollar Day merchants plan to cut still deeper, offering values never before equaled here."

Chicago Police Rescue Ft. Sheridan Corporal From "Sense of Duty"

At 1 p.m. Monday an olive drab army sedan drew up at the Union station in Chicago and Brig. Gen. Frank C. Bolles, Fort Sheridan commandant, alighted with his wife, whom he was taking to a train.

"Wait for me," the general said to his chauffeur, Corp. Harry Reed, smartly neat and starchily stiff in the front seat. The corporal saluted.

The general emerged from the station about an hour later. At 4:20 o'clock Lieut. W. K. Liebel of Fort Sheridan telephoned the Des Plaines street police.

"Gen. Bolles and his chauffeur became separated about 2 o'clock," the lieutenant said. "Will you please find the chauffeur and tell him to return to the fort immediately, that the general is back. He ought to be near the Union station."

Gen. Bolles, the police learned, had searched for Reed, had not found him and had returned alone to the fort.

At 6:20 p.m. Lieut. Liebel again telephoned the police. "The general's chauffeur is still missing," he said. "Will you please extend the search?"

This call spurred the police to greater efforts. Several squads circled the Union station. Squad 155 spotted an olive drab car in the short stretch of pavement between the station and the river. At the wheel, still smartly neat and starchily stiff, sat Corp. Reed. He had been there since 1 o'clock, more than six hours, waiting for the general.

"Just a good soldier," reported Squad 155 to the station after instructing Corp. Reed to return to Fort Sheridan.—Chicago Tribune.

Local Boys Injured In Auto Collision Thursday Last Week

James Anderson, of 166 Beech st., Highland Park, and Eddie Jacks, of Highwood, were injured in an auto accident Thursday evening of last week at 7:20 at the intersection of South St. Johns avenue and Sheridan road in this city. The auto in which they were driving south on St. Johns avenue was struck by a car driven north on the same street by James E. Farrell, of Kenosha, who failed to make the stop at the intersection, striking the car driven by James Anderson as it turned on to Sheridan road.

James, a Deerfield-Shields high school student, received a broken arm and other injuries, and Eddie Jacks, son of Dr. Robert R. Jacks, of Highwood, received cuts and bruises. Mr. Farrell was uninjured. Several minor auto accidents were reported to the Highland Park police during the past week, caused principally by slippery streets and worn tires on automobiles. The officials of the police department are suggesting to car owners in this city that they should replace tires which are worn slick, with new casings, which are at their lowest price in years at the present time. Good tires on cars, they suggest, will eliminate the danger of accidents and the expense and possibility of loss of life which accompany such accidents.

BOARD OF HEALTH ISSUES WARNINGS

Scarlet Fever, Although Not Epidemic, Should Be Watched Closely

Although there are several cases of scarlet fever in Highland Park this week (19 on Monday), at no time to date has this disease approached epidemic proportions, reports the Highland Park Board of Health.

Many requests have been received by the Board of Health concerning the scarlet fever situation, and the board has compiled a report which presents exact facts. This report, issued Monday, is as follows:

"At the present time there are 19 cases of scarlet fever in the city, 3 of which are being cared for at out-of-town contagious hospitals. Of this number 11 of the total have been reported from the Lincoln School district. At no time to date has this disease approached epidemic proportions, the cases for the most part being widely scattered, and not having contact with a definite known case of scarlet fever. The majority of the cases this year have been extremely light and uncomplicated, but this fact makes the situation more difficult, as many of them are passing unrecognized under the home diagnosis of influenza, and children are being returned to school in a contagious state.

Places of Congregating
"It has not been the policy of the local health department to close either school rooms or entire schools as a precautionary measure, because it is believed that keeping the school children in one group under the supervision of the school nurse will hinder rather than accelerate the spread of the disease. Past experience has demonstrated that children released from school will find many places of congregating, causing a more widespread appearance of the cases.

"The minimum quarantine in Highland Park for a case of scarlet fever is twenty-eight days from the onset of the last cast in a given family, and this period of time is, of course, lengthened by the development of complications. Scarlet (Continued on page 2)

Art League To Visit Deering Library

On Friday evening, Feb. 10, members of the North Shore Art League and friends will visit the new Chas. Deering memorial library at Northwestern university as guests of Mr. Theodore Wesley Koch, librarian of the university, and Mr. and Mrs. Jasper King. Mr. Koch will show the library, emphasizing interesting architectural features of the most recent addition to the modern gothic buildings of the north shore. The interesting windows contain medallions depicting the story of books and learning, were planned by Mr. Koch, as were the beautiful carvings in wood and stone which have been done for the interior.

After seeing the library the group will go to the "treasure room" and there view an exhibition of illuminated manuscripts from the collection of C. L. Ricketts, (father of Mrs. A. T. Goodman and Mrs. King). The collection, modeled after collections of J. Pierpont Morgan in New York and that in the Huntington library at Pasadena, Calif., is the most extensive collection of Latin illuminated manuscripts in the United States. Mr. Ricketts bought the manuscripts together over a period of forty years and they form an unique collection in that they have been brought together on the basis of their artistic interest and merit rather than from the historical or antiquarian or collector's point of view.

TOWN COMMENTS THE "NEW" PRESS

Many Business, Civic Leaders Congratulate Newspaper in Regular Form

Scores of prominent men and women in Highland Park, leaders in business and civic life, have voiced their approval of the change in style of The Highland Park Press, and are commending the paper on its new form.

Social leaders, and men prominent in Chicago business and civic affairs have added their congratulations to the increasing list of commendations we have received since The Press appeared in regular newspaper form last week, after more than three years of publication in the small magazine style.

The theme of these congratulations and commendations has been that "Highland Park now has a real newspaper—a newspaper that looks like a newspaper, and is a newspaper!"

"As You Were" Typical of the comments we have received during the past week is this one from Everett L. Millard Jr.: "One of the better things of the week is The Press as a real newspaper again. Highland Park is an outstanding community in many ways, among them the old—and new—Press. I think everyone is glad to see it 'as you were!'"

L. R. Rigdon, of Lincoln, Ill., says: "We were certainly happy to receive The Press dressed up like a newspaper should be."

J. M. Appel, president of the Highland Park State Bank; Clarence Witt, manager of the Highland Park branch of the Bowman Dairy Company; and T. S. Duffy, prominent furniture dealer, were among the first to congratulate the Press on its new appearance.

Without a newspaper! Fritz Bahr, newspaper artist, was glad to see the Press return to regular newspaper style. Mr. Bahr said he has felt that Highland Park was without a newspaper, as long as The Press was printed in magazine style!

Mrs. Constant C. Hopkins called to tell the publishers of The Press that she approved heartily of the change.

Miss Warner, of the Bell Telephone Company, said she liked the new paper very much.

Julian Smith and J. B. Garnett, well-known merchants, were glad of the change, and pointed out the better advertising possibilities of The Press in its new form.

C. A. Sanborn remarked that The Press "looks more like a newspaper now" and many others voiced the same sentiments as few we have quoted.
