George W. Rossetter to Lead Attack on Governmental Waste

Small, highly organized, wire pulling minorities at Washington are the leading foes of taxpayers who are fighting for a reduction in the cost of government, George W. Rossetter said last Thursday in his inaugural address in assuming the presidency of the Chicago Association of Commerce for his second consecutive term.

He added that tardiness in trimming federal expenses to income and in cutting down the tax burden is holding back America's financial recovery.

Mr. Rossetter spoke to 500 business executives at the Hotel LaSalle at the installing meeting. He is head of the National Organization to Reduce Public Expenditures, and his address served as a curtain raiser for a meeting in Chicago Friday of midwest leaders in the campaign to reduce bureaucracy and to carve at least 750 million dollars out of the federal budget.

About 40 cents of every dollar of national income in 1932 was absorbed by taxation, federal, state and local, Mr. Rossetter said in describing the tremendous growth of the tax burden and the drying up of income and taxation sources.

"Our organization to reduce public expenditures will bring all the help it can to congress," he said. "The men in congress are trying to do the right thing. But anyone acquainted with Washington, knows the power of organized minorities."

"Business is paying in taxation, the price of these minorities which over a period of years have supplanted conservative administration with thoughtless and costly bureaucracy.

"In 1890 the cost of all government, national, state and local, was about 855 million. Last year it was 15 billion. In these years, the cost of government increased seventeen times, while population just about doubled. And the public debt, now 21 billion dollars, has sustained an 800 per cent increase in the last 20 years."

"Last year our national income was about 37 1/2 billion dollars, and expenditures by federal, state and local governments were 15 billion dollars—in other words about 40 per cent of all income was expended by government."

"We cannot afford to stop the effort to put sanitary and common sense back into government by reducing expenditures. Unless this is accomplished, I have grave doubts whether our country can live."

Charles Ward Seabury, as toastmaster, remarked that Mr. Rossetter agreed to serve a second term as head of the Association of Commerce in order to give the fullest swing to the N. O. R. P. E., which was sponsored by the association.

Contract Tournament Successfully Staged

The first of a series of contract bridge tournaments which will be a weekly feature of entertainment at the Moraine hotel, was held on Thursday evening, January 19. There was a large attendance, not only of Highland Park players, but from the neighboring communities on the North Shore. Winners of top honors North and South were: Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs.

Leppel; East and West, A. J. Weisberger and James Weber, J. L. Haas and E. N. Ball.

The next tournament was held on the evening of January 31, and on each Tuesday thereafter at the Moraine hotel. Entrance fee will be $1.50 which includes dinner at the hotel and cards or $1.00 for tournament play alone. There will be prizes for top score honors in each section and a grand prize for the winners of the highest number of points in the series; provided the players have competed in at least six of the weekly tournaments.

The tournaments on January 31 and February 7 will be the qualifying rounds for a free nineteen day cruise to Central America and the West Indies which leaves Chicago March 3. Players who fail to qualify in the first tournament are eligible to compete in the second. Winners in these qualifying rounds will then compete with other sectional winners in the Chicago district. Other features to be introduced at these tournaments will be a benefit night for the social welfare; play against par and the north shore championship in which teams from the Deschappelle club of Evanston, the Racine Bridge club, Milwaukee Bridge club and others have already asked for entry blanks.
