What Others Say

Labor
Inasmuch as most good things are produced by labor it follows that all such things ought to belong to those whose labor has produced them. But it has happened in all ages of the world that some have labored, and others, without labor, have enjoyed a large proportion of the fruits. This is wrong, and should not continue. To secure to each laborer the whole product of his labor as nearly as possible is a worthy object of any good government.—Abraham Lincoln.

Life Too Seriously
Take life too seriously, and what is it worth?
If the morning wake us to no new joys, if the evening bring us not the hope of new pleasures, is it worth while to dress and undress? Does the sun shine on me today that I may reflect on yesterday? That I may endeavor to foresee and to control what can neither be foreseen nor controlled—the destiny of tomorrow?—Goethe.

All that is unpleasant and unfavorable is foreign to its atmosphere; there is no place in friendship for harsh criticism or fault-finding. We will "take less" from a friend than we will from one who is indifferent to us.—Randolph S. Bourne.

Fear
Fear is lack of faith. Lack of faith is ignorance. Fear can only be cured by vision.
Give the world eyes. It will see. Give it ears. It will hear. Give it a right arm. It will act.
Man needs time and room. Man needs soil, sunshine and rain. Needs a chance.
Open all your doors and windows. Let everything pass freely in and out, out and in.
Even the eel. Let it pass out and in, in and out.
No man hates the truth. But most men are afraid of the truth. Make the truth easier than a lie. Make the truth welcome than its counterfeit.
The man will no longer be afraid. Being afraid is being ignorant. Being ignorant is being without faith.—Horace Traubel.

Success
He has achieved success who has lived well, laughed often and loved much; who has gained the respect of intelligent men and the love of little children; who has filled his niche and accomplished his task; who has left the world better than he found it whether by an improved poppy, a perfect poem or a rescued soul; who has never lacked appreciation of earth's beauty or failed to express it; who has looked for the best in others and given the best he had; whose life was an inspiration; whose memory is a benediction.—Mrs. A. J. Stanley.

Man
It is of dangerous consequence to represent to man how near he is to the level of beasts without showing him at the same time his greatness. It is likewise dangerous to let him see his greatness without his meanness. It is more dangerous yet to leave him ignorant of either; but very beneficial that he should be made sensible of both.—Pascal.

"The kilt still has its supporters in Scotland." It would certainly be embarrassing if it didn't.—Louisville Times.

Weak Friendship
Fine as friendship is, there is nothing irrevocable about it. The bonds of friendship are not iron bonds, proof against the strongest of strains and the heaviest of assaults. A man by becoming your friend has not committed himself to all the demands which you may be pleased to make upon him. Foolish people like to test the bonds of their friendships, pulling upon them to see how much strain they will stand. When they snap, it is as if friendship itself had been proved unworthy. But the truth is that good friendships are fragile things and require as much care in handling as any other fragile and precious things. For friendship is an adventure and a romance, and in adventure it is the unexpected that happens. It is the zest of peril that makes the excitement of friendship.

"How do you like your new publicity agent?" asked the firm star's friend.
"Oh, he's wonderful," she cried, beaming with enthusiasm. "We've been robbed twice, our house has been burned, our car has been wrecked, and I have had my life threatened by an anonymous enemy since we employed him."—Calgary Albertan.

A Chicago actress came into a lawyer's office and said, "I want a divorce."
"Certainly," said the lawyer. "For a nominal fee I will institute proceedings."
"What is the nominal fee?"
"Five hundred dollars," he replied.
"Nothing doing," retorted the lady. "I can have him shot for ten."

We Are Co-operating with President Roosevelt

WE are in hearty accord with the vigorous action of the President and his recent proclamation asking for support of the National Recovery Act.

We had already labored with the other members of our industry to produce a fitting code, which is now being presented at Washington, in accordance with the requests of the Administrator. We have also increased the number of our employees, shortened the working hours, and have established minimum wage figures — to be helpful to you, ourselves and the country.

We pledge ourselves to co-operate to the utmost in bringing the President's plans to their successful conclusion — which will mean restored prosperity and opportunity for all.
