WORTHWHILE THOUGHTS

Some people are introverts. They live largely within themselves.

Other people are extraverts. They see and hear nearly everything that goes on about them.

But most people are between those two extremes, and some are well balanced between the two.

It is a good thing for any person to know where he stands between being introvert and extravert—and if too much one or the other, to try to develop a better balance between the two. For one supplements the other in making a success of life.

Here in our business we want to see you and hear you clearly in an extravert manner to know your wishes. We also want to think about ourselves in an introvert manner as to more things we can do to make your wishes as our customers all come true. BETHANY CHURCH HAS NEW STAFF MEMBERS

R. E. Marks, Fredrick E. Bieler Assisting With Work Here

Bethany Evangelical Church has secured the services of two young men who will give their time in helping Rev. H. F. Siemsen, pastor, and the congregation carry through the program of Bethany Church in this city.

Rev. R. E. Marks comes to Bethany from the Evangelical Theological Seminary of Naperville and will hold the position of associate pastor. The seminary of Naperville is sending each member of the senior class to one of the Evangelical churches of the Chicago area, for two days each week, where they are to receive practical experience for the ministry. The Seminary provides transportation and the expenses of these young men so that they are of no direct cost to the churches that cooperate in the plan. During the time that Mr. Marks comes to the Highland Park church, the local pastor is, to see to it that he is assigned to every phase of church work; he will be given an opportunity to preach at least four times, to make calls, to supervise certain activities, attend the various board meetings, and participate in many of the other functions of the church.

Mr. Marks' chief interests will center in the young people's work. Since Mr. Marks is a young man himself, he knows young people and understands their problems. He will be great help in directing them in their spiritual needs. The Bethany Church now has a splendid young people's organization. With their new counselor it is believed that their membership will far exceed 50 within the next few months. In addition to having a fine Christian character, and a good theological training, Mr. Marks has participated in various activities that give him the qualities of a good leader. He formerly was president of a young people's organization at Marshall, Minn., for a number of years he has been an executive in an organization of young men preparing themselves for the ministry, he is a graduate of North Central College, while he was at North Central he was elected as the publisher of the weekly paper, also taking honors as a track man while there.

Frederick E. Bieler, a student at Northwestern University, is also giving of his time, by directing the Bethany choir. He, too, is giving his service gratis to the church. During the past four years Mr. Bieler directed a choir of over 60 voices in an Evangelical Church in eastern Pennsylvania. At present he is enrolled in the music department of N.U. specializing in pipe organ and choir directing. His coming to Bethany will greatly enrich the musical features of the Church. Bethany choir in the past years has established a record of being one of the strong musical organizations of the community. It has attracted many to the Sunday vespers on the last Sunday afternoon of the month. It is the plan of the choir to continue these vespers again this year.

D.A.R. Better Films Committee Review

Helen Hayes and Robert Montgomery in "Another Language" will be on the screen for the last time tonight (Thursday). Two evenings is almost too short a time for such an excellent film.

"The Man Who Dared" will be shown Friday and Saturday. An interesting portrayal of the life of a young immigrant. Starting in the coal mines and working up through political steps to mayoralty and assassination. The early day scenes of Chicago are good. Hero & Heroine, engaging and convincing.

Sunday and Monday "Richard Dix" in "No Marriage Ties."

Hospital Certificate Campaign Draws Near The Close This Week

The work of selling service certificates in the Highland Park Hospital drive has been continuing this week, but the workers and captains have been urged to complete their solicitation so that the final reports may be made by Friday night. Every dollar is needed to insure the success of the campaign and to assure to the community the continued existence of the hospital.

Every worker is earnestly urged to do the part assigned to him, realizing that unless he contacts the prospects on his list, he will be standing in the way of the success of this campaign.

Every citizen who has not yet purchased service certificates and who wishes to share this important community responsibility is asked to phone the hospital office, and certificates will be delivered. If a worker has not yet called, please take the initiative and call the office, is the plea.

"The hospital belongs to the community and no one knows but that he or a member of his family may be the next one who will need the services of the hospital, and then it will be very important and comforting to have the hospital close at hand."

LOCAL GRIDDERS TO TACKLE PRO SQUAD

Young Men's Club, With Aid of "Pug" Rentner, Win Over Cicero on Sunday

Semi-professional football isn't strong enough to stop the Highland Park Young Men's Club, so it has scheduled a game with a real pro outfit — The Fuka Professionals of Chicago.

In getting this game the members of the Young Men's Club had to go to the southwest side of Chicago where "da guys ain't a scart of nobody." Although the personnel of this team is unknown, we can truthfully say that it is the strongest squad that the Young Men's Club has tackled in some time. The Fuka Professionals are almost a new team. Last year they played under the name of the Fuka Menswear, but this season they have turned pro, revamping the squad, and developing into one of the toughest teams in Chicago.

Last week-end this team traveled to Hammond, Ind., where they met the town team in their first out-of-state game. The Hammond team, made up of several Purdue and Indiana University gridgers, boasted of being one of the strongest teams in the state and were favored to beat the Chicago team, but were lucky to get away with an 0-0 tie.

YMCA to Use Same Lineup

Practically the same lineup that was used last Sunday against Cicero will be used again this Sunday. The line averages a little better than 190 pounds and the backfield averages approximately 181 pounds. The personnel of the team now numbers 30 players and two coaches, and that's (Continued on page 4)
