

Shan-Kar, the Famous Hindu Dancer, Makes Appearance on Nov. 13

Shan-Kar, famous Hindu dancer, his charming and beautiful French partner, Simkie, a troupe of 15 dancers, and Hindu musicians who play on 110 native instruments, will make what promises to be a triumphant first appearance on the North Shore on Monday evening, Nov. 13, at the Deerfield-Shields High School auditorium in Highland Park.

So great has been the enthusiastic response of North Shore patrons of music and the dance, that it is almost certain Shan-Kar will be greeted by a capacity house. Reserved seat tickets are selling rapidly at Gsell's Drug stores, Highland Park and Ravinia. The box office at the school will be open on the day of the performance.

Uday Shan-Kar, conceded by all critics to be a dancer of great distinction, has selected for his North Shore appearance his most popular and most colorful dances. Program notes will carry brief stories of the dances, so that they will be understood, but even without such notes audiences are quick to find entertainment and a stimulating sense of exhilaration in the dances, for the art of Shan-Kar freshens the jaded appetites of concert-goers. Hindu dances and Hindu music overwhelm the Occidental senses with their primitive splendor.

Shan-Kar became the partner of the immortal Pavlova, who persuaded him to join her when he was a famous young Hindu painter. Always Shan-Kar had hesitated between music and dancing, and painting. He had graduated in 1923 from the Royal College of Arts, and had taken part in numerous Hindu plays, ballets and concerts which his father had produced in London from 1914 to 1924. After his graduation he painted, but found time to dance and play on various Hindu musical instruments from his friends. It was inevitable that Pavlova should hear of him, and being tremendously interested herself in the art of India, should persuade him to arrange the Radha-Krishna ballet and to dance opposite her as the romantic Krishna.

Deciding to devote his entire time, energy and creative ability for delving deeper still into the richness of the Hindu dance, Shan-Kar left Pavlova's ballet, went to Paris and worked and starved for four years until at last destiny smiled upon him. A few patrons in Paris presented him in recital, and his success was so encouraging that he immediately received invitations to dance in different countries of Europe. Although he had ovation after ovation, he was still dissatisfied. He dismissed his Western orchestra and went to India, where he selected and trained native musicians to play the Hindu music. He chose a company of Hindu dancers and returned to Paris. For the past two years he has danced in all of the major cities of Europe, creating sensations wherever he has appeared.

Highland Park Young Men's Club Wins From Lake Forest Sunday

The strong Highland Park Young Men's Club football team successfully stopped the Lake Forest Young Men's Club in a game at the Deerfield-Shields High School athletic field in Highland Park last Sunday afternoon, 7-0.

A pass from Lutz to Becker in the early part of the game gave the Highland Park team victory, despite the spirited fight put up throughout the entire game by Lake Forest. Highland Park was playing without the services of Ernest "Pug" Gantner, former Northwestern University star.

The Highland Park line showed up well in last Sunday's game, and all eleven men on both teams fought every minute of the contest. Lake Forest will have a chance to even the score, when the two teams play on Thanksgiving Day.

Mrs. Raymond Dobbins will be hostess to the Arzene Club on Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Raymond Meyer and daughter, Mary Ann, returned home Wednesday evening from the Highland Park Hospital, where three little brothers were waiting to welcome their new sister.

I took the red from my hands and put it in my cheeks

COLOR FAST PROCESS

WHITE FACE and red hands, it used to be; but now it's just the other way 'round. My soft white hands are the envy of the card club; and my rose-petal complexion doesn't come from the store.

"Really, there's no secret about it. I send our family washing to the laundry! I used to think I was saving money when I dutifully drudged through a weekly wash day. But I didn't count the cost of a severe cold, an aching back; jangled nerves.

"Then finally one week I simply had to send our things to the laundry. I was pleased to find there was a service that just met our needs. But the real surprise came when the work was beautifully done. I, who had prided myself on my washing, had to admit that laundry-washed clothes really were cleaner than I could hope to get them.

"Now the laundry routeman stops regularly at our home. I'd never dream of going back to the old-fashioned wash day. Not while the laundry sells Youth and Freedom at trifling cost!"

Wouldn't this be a good time for you to get the facts about our modern laundry service?

The present-day power laundry has solved the biggest household problem for millions of women as exacting—as modern-minded—as yourself. These women found, in our variety of laundry services, one that exactly met their needs, at a price they could well afford to pay.

A telephone call will bring a laundry routeman. Begin at once—this very week, to enjoy the leisure—the freedom—that the laundry offers on such tempting terms.
