UNCENSORED PICTURES of WORLD WAR

RAW WAR

The pictures of war hitherto have been romance painted in oils. The recruiting posters show clean shaven soldiers in smart uniforms, polished boots, pipe-clayed helmets.

But RAW WAR is tragedy painted in blood.

RAW WAR is the result of raw, uninformed opinion; alternating gusts of jingo and pacifist hysteria. Its raw horrors are made even more hideous by the sacrifice of untrained men upon its altars.

Until the world declares for universal disarmament the United States can take no middle ground. The cheapest deal with circumstance is Preparedness.

The nation, then, must look at war in the raw. Without prejudice, it must weigh war's ghastly price.

To that end The Chicago Daily News is publishing each Saturday a photogravure section devoted to RAW WAR. They are authentic, uncensored, and in many cases hitherto unpublished pictures of the World War, appearing in chronological order.

This series of Daily News photogravure sections has definite historical and educational value, and the sections have been printed in a size adapted to convenient handling and preservation. They are not Art. They are History. You will wish to keep them.

A permanent binder has been prepared for the complete series, which may be obtained for 10 cents—or by mail for 15 cents. These binders, together with back copies of the sections, are available at offices of The Chicago Daily News Personal Service Bureau, Daily News Plaza and 9 West Madison street, Chicago.
