

gave his last one at the morning
Sundays.
A plane was presented to Rev.
Taylor by the congregation, F. C.
Bremer making the presentation.

Read the Want-Ads

ALL FALL RATES
ALL CITIES

AIR BUSES - FREQUENT SERVICE
Grand Rapids.....	3.00
Huskegon.....	3.00
St. Joe.....	1.50
Flint.....	4.50
Toledo.....	3.00
Wichita.....	5.00
	8.70

FINALS COMPANY
Tel. Wabash 4740-37SEE!!
“URE
Druggist”in today's (Thursday's) Daily News for our
k-End Specials
E LIGHT LUNCHEONST W. PEASE
Pharmacist
hns Ave. Phone 143
LIVERY SERVICEyou pay all any IANCEis January $2 down sale on pliance in your home NOW
tity to buy at moderate price our own "Home Equipping ulars."Comfort to you'll have water

DT water the spice and your are smoothly.
re that your will supply hot e dependable.
ervice you need and con-attention. It are unusually ll needs. Askic Gas eater
n-Easy Terms

PANY NRA

All types and sizes

VOLUME XXII

TAXPAYERS GROUP IS AGAINST BOND ISSUEDeerfield Township Body In Following Article Cites
Reasons For Stand

The Deerfield Township Taxpayers' Association is opposing the proposed bond issue for the construction of a high school in Lake Forest, which will be voted upon in Shields and Deerfield Townships on Saturday. The organization submits the following reasons for its opposition. This expression does not necessarily mean that this newspaper is in accord with the complete stand of this organization — it means that the columns of this newspaper are open to both sides of a question of important public interest.

The article, written by the officers of the Taxpayers' Association, follows:

On Saturday, Jan. 20, there will be submitted to the voters of the Deerfield-Shields High School District, a ballot on the proposition of a bond issue for $275,000 for the building of a high school in Lake Forest which would operate under the same jurisdiction as the present Deerfield-Shields High School.

In an election held last spring a majority of the voters of Lake Forest voted down the proposition of building a branch or associate high school in that city.

According to the Deerfield-Shields High School Board of Education, the United States Government would lend this amount of money and, in addition, make a free grant of about $75,000. This free allotment is made because the labor and material to

(Continued on page 5)

D. A. R. Better Films
Committee Review

"Hell and High Water," Jan. 18, featuring Richard Arlen and Judith Allen. Story by Max Miller. Captain Jericho, an illiterate but ambitious owner of a garbage boat for the navy, loses his heart to a homeless girl and an abandoned waif. Scenes of San Pedro harbor, the fleet, and tuna fishing add interest to this rather commonplace story. Family.

"Hot Daze," Smith and Dale are featured in an amusing comedy.

"Kenneb King," a Granland Rice Sportlight. An excellent subject, is suitable for a junior matinee.

Jan. 19, 20, Friday and Saturday. "Invisible Man," with Gloria Stuart and Claude Rains. Experimenting with a powerful drug, an English chemist makes himself invisible, unable to return to his natural form he becomes insane and terrorizes the whole countryside with his finessed crimes. Gruesome, morbid, tense, is well acted by whole cast, with exceedingly clever trick photography to produce invisibility. Adults.

"Wild Roses" an Our Gang comedy. Spanky has his picture taken while the Gang looks on. The photographer's life is made miserable by Spanky's antics. An amusing subject. Children.

Second episode of "Tarzan the Fearless," at Saturday and Sunday matinee.

Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 21, 22, 23. Mae West in "I'm No Angel." From an original story by Mae West. Threatened with the companions of a torrid past when involved in a breach of promise suit, a sensuous, gold-digging lion tamer finally wins the man she loves. A matter of taste for adults.

Wednesday and Thursday, Jan. 24 and 25. "After Tonight," featuring Constance Bennett. A war romance in which an Austrian officer tracks down a troublesome Russian spy only to find her the girl he loves. A war picture in which the spy system is glorified. Exciting, well acted and directed but with improbable ending. Adults and juniors.

Mrs. Edwin Stupple
To Be Buried Today

Mrs. Sophie Marie Stuenkel, wife of Edward F. Stuenkel, of 153 S. Green Bay Road, passed away Tuesday following a brief illness of pneumonia.

Funeral services will be held at the home this afternoon at one-thirty o'clock followed by services at two o'clock at Redeemer Lutheran Church. Interment will be in Memorial Park Cemetery.

Besides her husband, she leaves one daughter, Mrs. Laura Bartelman, and two sons, Walter and Oscar, to survive her.

Lambeth Shop Moves
To 33 North Sheridan

The Lambeth Shop, interior decorating, has moved to 33 North Sheridan Road, Highland Park. The telephone number is H. P. 568.

Philip Rapp is the proprietor of the Lambeth Shop.

Miss Ravinia Marries
Mr. Braeside; Bridal Bouquets of Edibles

Deerfield

Township

Body

In

Following

Article

Cites

Reasons

For

Stand

The Braeside P.-T. A. had a masquerade last Monday evening, Jan. 15. It was a hilarious affair, engineered by the social committee, of which Mrs. W. A. Clinnin is chairman. High spot of the evening was the mock wedding of Miss Ravinia and Mr. Braeside, rendered unique by the fact that the bride and her attendants were characterized by bass voices and large feet, and the groom and his attendants by girlish figures and mincing gaits.

One of the bridal bouquets was composed of endives surrounded by a circlet of radishes. Others were equally gastronomic. This part of the program was so successful that it is to be presented by request at the "Forty-Niners" at Ravinia next Saturday evening.

The article, written by the officers of the Taxpayers' Association, follows:

First prize went to Mr. Knox who appeared as a flower girl. The prize for the most original costume was awarded to Mrs. Harrington.

David Seabury, Noted Psychologist, Will Be at Deerfield-Shields

Next Monday night, Jan. 22, at 8:15 o'clock, is to be one of the greater opportunities for the North Shore to hear an eminent and practical psychologist, David Seabury.

He draws from the whole country in his consulting practice in New York City. He is so busy that a gentleman wishing to make an appointment with him in January was told the first time available was three-months later, in April.

(Continued on page 5)

D. A. R. Better Films

Committee

Review

According to the Deerfield-Shields High School Board of Education, the United States Government would lend this amount of money and, in addition, make a free grant of about $75,000. This free allotment is made because the labor and material to

(Continued on page 5)

David Seabury

Mr. Seabury is working to bring psychology out of the class-room and the laboratory, into the light of common language that can be understood and appreciated and applied by the layman.

He anticipates that within the next fifty years psychology will have advanced to the stage where every child will have an annual psychological examination until the age of twenty one and every five years thereafter, and out of all the discussing and experimenting, a new and sane idea of the nature of man is emerging free from extremes shaped to meet the needs of every day life.

The Secretary of Labor began her talk by saying that in her opinion Highland Park represents all that is best and hopeful in American life. In other words, it was what a typical American community should be.

Miss Perkins went on to say,

"The American people are now responding to the fact that we can afford a decent standard of living for every family, and because of that we are standing back of the slum-clearance plan.

The unifying force in American life is as it has always been—moral purpose. And that moral purpose

(Continued on page 5)

David Seabury

Plans for low-cost housing should go far to stimulate recovery; in fact, these are one of the most important factors in industrial recovery," said Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor, in her address at the Elm Place Auditorium last Saturday evening, Jan. 13. She appeared at the invitation of the Highland Park League of Women Voters.

Mrs. Marc Law, president of the league, in her introduction of Miss Perkins, stressed the fact that she was addressing a group of individuals in whom the urge to become social-minded was making itself very strongly felt.

The Secretary of Labor began her talk by saying that in her opinion Highland Park represents all that is best and hopeful in American life. In other words, it was what a typical American community should be.

Miss Perkins went on to say,

"The American people are now responding to the fact that we can afford a decent standard of living for every family, and because of that we are standing back of the slum-clearance plan.

The unifying force in American life is as it has always been—moral purpose. And that moral purpose

(Continued on page 5)

David Seabury

Plans for low-cost housing should go far to stimulate recovery; in fact, these are one of the most important factors in industrial recovery," said Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor, in her address at the Elm Place Auditorium last Saturday evening, Jan. 13. She appeared at the invitation of the Highland Park League of Women Voters.

Mrs. Marc Law, president of the league, in her introduction of Miss Perkins, stressed the fact that she was addressing a group of individuals in whom the urge to become social-minded was making itself very strongly felt.

The Secretary of Labor began her talk by saying that in her opinion Highland Park represents all that is best and hopeful in American life. In other words, it was what a typical American community should be.

Miss Perkins went on to say,

"The American people are now responding to the fact that we can afford a decent standard of living for every family, and because of that we are standing back of the slum-clearance plan.

The unifying force in American life is as it has always been—moral purpose. And that moral purpose

(Continued on page 5)

David Seabury

Plans for low-cost housing should go far to stimulate recovery; in fact, these are one of the most important factors in industrial recovery," said Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor, in her address at the Elm Place Auditorium last Saturday evening, Jan. 13. She appeared at the invitation of the Highland Park League of Women Voters.

Mrs. Marc Law, president of the league, in her introduction of Miss Perkins, stressed the fact that she was addressing a group of individuals in whom the urge to become social-minded was making itself very strongly felt.

The Secretary of Labor began her talk by saying that in her opinion Highland Park represents all that is best and hopeful in American life. In other words, it was what a typical American community should be.

Miss Perkins went on to say,

"The American people are now responding to the fact that we can afford a decent standard of living for every family, and because of that we are standing back of the slum-clearance plan.

The unifying force in American life is as it has always been—moral purpose. And that moral purpose

(Continued on page 5)

David Seabury

Plans for low-cost housing should go far to stimulate recovery; in fact, these are one of the most important factors in industrial recovery," said Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor, in her address at the Elm Place Auditorium last Saturday evening, Jan. 13. She appeared at the invitation of the Highland Park League of Women Voters.

Mrs. Marc Law, president of the league, in her introduction of Miss Perkins, stressed the fact that she was addressing a group of individuals in whom the urge to become social-minded was making itself very strongly felt.

The Secretary of Labor began her talk by saying that in her opinion Highland Park represents all that is best and hopeful in American life. In other words, it was what a typical American community should be.

Miss Perkins went on to say,

"The American people are now responding to the fact that we can afford a decent standard of living for every family, and because of that we are standing back of the slum-clearance plan.

The unifying force in American life is as it has always been—moral purpose. And that moral purpose

(Continued on page 5)

David Seabury

Plans for low-cost housing should go far to stimulate recovery; in fact, these are one of the most important factors in industrial recovery," said Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor, in her address at the Elm Place Auditorium last Saturday evening, Jan. 13. She appeared at the invitation of the Highland Park League of Women Voters.

Mrs. Marc Law, president of the league, in her introduction of Miss Perkins, stressed the fact that she was addressing a group of individuals in whom the urge to become social-minded was making itself very strongly felt.

The Secretary of Labor began her talk by saying that in her opinion Highland Park represents all that is best and hopeful in American life. In other words, it was what a typical American community should be.

Miss Perkins went on to say,

"The American people are now responding to the fact that we can afford a decent standard of living for every family, and because of that we are standing back of the slum-clearance plan.

The unifying force in American life is as it has always been—moral purpose. And that moral purpose

(Continued on page 5)

David Seabury

Plans for low-cost housing should go far to stimulate recovery; in fact, these are one of the most important factors in industrial recovery," said Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor, in her address at the Elm Place Auditorium last Saturday evening, Jan. 13. She appeared at the invitation of the Highland Park League of Women Voters.

Mrs. Marc Law, president of the league, in her introduction of Miss Perkins, stressed the fact that she was addressing a group of individuals in whom the urge to become social-minded was making itself very strongly felt.

The Secretary of Labor began her talk by saying that in her opinion Highland Park represents all that is best and hopeful in American life. In other words, it was what a typical American community should be.

Miss Perkins went on to say,

"The American people are now responding to the fact that we can afford a decent standard of living for every family, and because of that we are standing back of the slum-clearance plan.

The unifying force in American life is as it has always been—moral purpose. And that moral purpose

(Continued on page 5)

David Seabury

Plans for low-cost