

Harry Wing, Mayor Pro-tem at Meeting of Deerfield Board

Trustee Harry Wing acted as chairman at the Deerfield village board meeting Monday evening, during the absence of Mayor Harry Clavey, who was unable to attend because of a death in the family.

Mr. Wing, as chairman of the finance committee, explained that the village had defaulted in two $1000 bonds. The bonds are held in trust in the First National Bank, Chicago. $545 was paid on them. Mr. Wing, also chairman of the health committee, reported that a certain restaurant had agreed to clean up its premises and dispose of a bus on the rear of its property.

William Johnston of the road and bridge committee, was authorized to have the sewers cleaned on Waukegan Road in the block north of Deerfield Avenue where sewage was seeping into store basements.

Carleton Scribner, chairman of the water committee, read a report of the water audit made by two local men, David Derby and Raymond Goodman (without cost to the village). These two generous citizens have established a new system of bookkeeping in the water department, and a vote of thanks was given them by the village officials. Their report showed that on Jan. 1 water users owed the village $1225. in back bills. Of that amount $159 was collected during the month. The January uncollected water bills totaled $197.40, so that on Feb. 1 the water consumers owed the village $1263.48.

Mr. Derby made several recommendations to the water chairman pertaining to the present system.

The bond for Florence E. Page, village collector, must be renewed through the bank every three months due to a new state ruling. This bond was voted renewed.

Bannockburn's request to have North Avenue, the division street between the two villages, closed during bad weather was referred to the road and bridge committee.

Trustees checked two maps designating six arterial highways in Deerfield and prepared an affidavit for the district engineer so that Deerfield may share in the motor fuel tax.

D. L. Derby and Homer Cazal asked about the board's authority in regard to the excessive whistling and smoke of the Chicago & Milwaukee railroad. The matter will be taken up later with Corporation Counsel George McLaughlin, who was not present at the meeting.

Chief of Police Percy McLaughlin reported that $50 has been turned in for fines in January.

The new radiator for the fire truck has been purchased and will be installed by Conrad Uchtmann. The village owes the firemen $250 in back salaries. They will be given vehicle tags as part payment of their salaries.

The Chamber of Commerce presented a check for $3.75 as its share toward paying for the lighting of the community Christmas tree.

It was a short meeting, just an hour's session, and was adjourned by Chairman Wing following the completion of its routine business.

Freight trains chugging across the landscape; express trains and sleek "limiteds" plunging through the night to glide smoothly into colonnaded terminals—all obey the signal of command of the dispatcher. As train movement depends on the dispatcher, so business and commerce depend upon quick and accurate personal communication—and this means the telephone. For production, for selling, for supervision, for conference and contacts of every sort demanded by the details of business, the telephone supplies the means. It is the day and night dispatch system of industry.

The Illinois Bell Telephone Company, specializing in communication, offers business the facilities now increasingly needed. To talk to the next office, the next block, the next state or to another continent—use your telephone.

YOUR "LIGHT BILL"

Once a month a meter reader calls at your home and reads your electric meter. A few days later a bill comes covering the electricity used in the preceding 30 days. Most people call it their "light bill." As a matter of fact, it's much more than that. Electricity does much more than illuminate the average home: it sweeps rugs, runs a radio, washes and irons clothes. It makes toast, bakes waffles, warms up drafty corners. Often it provides healthful refrigeration, mixes food, ventilates the kitchen, tells accurate time.

Electric service makes homes more comfortable for the whole family. It makes home chores easier for the homemaker. And its cost is but a small item in the home budget.
