

Highland Park Camera Club Is Organized

The Highland Park Camera Club held its first regular meeting Thursday night, March 8, at the Elm Place School with the following members attending: W. Reed, T. H. Morris, Jesse Lowe Smith, G. E. Hamlin, F. F. Selfridge, Robert Harrington, B. Schroeder, Alfred Pfanstiel, M. S. Flinn, E. Hecketsweiler, and Kellogg Patterson.

Enthusiasm was shown over the formation of a camera club in Highland Park, and a very worthwhile program was laid out for future meetings.

It is planned that the club remain very informal in organization, the meetings to be of the open forum type with the members discussing various features of photography, methods of development, printing, enlarging, and so forth. This program to be varied with field trips, talks by experts and specialists in various branches, demonstrations by representatives of the camera and film companies, and by criticism of the work of the individual club members.

No membership limit has been set. Everyone interested in photography is welcome to join. Several members are interested in taking and projecting movies, using the usual black and white as well as the color film. Several members are miniature camera fans while others use the regular size equipment. The members realize that the majority of people interested in photography have a lot to learn and for this reason there will be plenty of interest to the beginner as well as to the advanced worker in the programs planned for the coming weeks.

In order that no one who is interested in joining the club be deprived of membership because of cost, the dues will be very low, amounting to only about a dollar a year.

The club meeting this week will be held on Thursday night, March 15, at 8 o'clock, in the Hecketsweiler Studio, at 22 North Second Street. This will be a "studio night," lighting for portrait pictures will be discussed and its use demonstrated with a model. Those attending will be permitted to take pictures during the evening, so it is suggested that everyone bring their cameras, and portrait lenses and tripods if they have them. It is best that super-sensitive film be used for this work as it is much faster than the ordinary film under artificial light.

The following Thursday night meeting, on March 22, will be held in Elm Place School at 8 o'clock. For this meeting Mr. Sallert, of the Eastman Kodak Co., will speak on "Photographic Papers." Mr. Sallert is one of the Eastman experts and will explain all forms of printing and enlarging papers as well as those used for making paper negatives, and the various processes used in handling them. This meeting will be of special benefit to those making their own enlargements and prints as well as to those who have their work done commercially, because it will give them a better idea of the changes and improvement that can be made in a picture by the use of different papers in finishing.

Persons not enrolled in schools of Highland Park will also be given an opportunity to show their ability. For the most part these contests will be held at the Community Center during the regular class periods and also at the convenience of the contestants, that is, at any time that the person wishing to enter the contest may report to the Community Center and he will be given an opportunity to enter and will be given instructions as to what to do. CONDEMNED to 52 DAYS at hard labor!

Many housewives in the blindness of false economy buy home laundry equipment. They accordingly strip 52 days from each year of their life. They sentence themselves to almost a month and a half each year at back-breaking, mind-trying labor!

And you, Mr. Husband, if you buy such equipment, condemn that woman, whom you promised to cherish and care for, to a task one day out of each week that you yourself would only do once. It's the same if a laundress, requiring constant supervision, does this work. More expensive, too!

Actual figures prove that the average home washing and ironing costs $1.94 weekly. The Thrifty-Hydro Service of the North Shore Quality Laundries is more economical and better! Thrifty-Hydro relieves of back-breaking labor. Everything is washed. All the hard-to-handle flat work is beautifully ironed and folded. Wearing apparel is returned damp, ready to iron.
