

Margot Jacks Paints Scenery For a Play

The scenery for the entire production of "Alice in Wonderland" to be given by the Children's Theatre of the Y.W.C.A. is being painted by Margot Jacks, the talented daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert E. Jacks of this city.

Miss Jacks gives great promise as not only a portrait painter but also a scenic designer and does both with rapidity and imagination. Miss Jacks has won several awards for her work in the past having been the recipient of the Versatile Scholarship given to the student of most artistic ability at Deerfield-Shields at the time of her graduation. Recently Miss Jacks was awarded a scholarship in Mrs. Peyraud's Art Class which is being sponsored by the Y.W.C.A.

Since her graduation from Deerfield-Shields, Miss Jacks has been studying art at Malenkroft and Sacred Heart Academies and copying some of the Masters in religious subjects at which she is also particularly adept. Several of her reproductions are hung in the various chapels and churches along the North Shore.

Bird Hikers Will Go To Sweeney's Woods

Upon next Tuesday morning, weather permitting, Bert S. Leech, leader of the bird hikes, plans to take the group to Sweeney's Woods. The group will gather just west of the fieldhouse in Sunset Park and then leave for the woods. Six o'clock in the morning is the starting time.

Last Tuesday morning the weather was fine for bird study and many interesting birds were seen; the writer having checked on his bird checklist 23 different birds. The checklist was supplied by Mr. Leech to make the study of birds more fascinating. An unusual bird, a Canadian goose, was seen. Other birds seen were: Heron, starling, hermit thrush, mourning dove, flicker phoebe, wood peewee, sparrow hawk, fox sparrow, yellow-bellied sapsucker, killdeer, bronzed grackle, cowbird, red winged blackbird, song sparrow, robin, meadowlark, slate-colored junco, prairie horned lark, herring gull, crow, and last but not least, the much-sought bluebird. Twenty-seven people were out on this trip.

Highwood Pirates Win Basketball Tournament

The Highwood Pirates, the girls team representing the merchants of Highwood, won the girls basketball tournament sponsored by the Highland Park Community Center last week. This team of girls play a fast passing game that had their opponents on the losing end of the score at all times in all their games.

Much credit is due also to the Highland Park Wild Cats, the second place winners, and to Port Clinton, third place winners. These two teams are composed of girls who have never played basketball before but have been practicing and improving all the past season.

Wilmette finished in fourth place also played very good basketball but were handicapped by the fact that they were playing on a strange floor. Much interest was shown by the girls toward this tournament and it is hoped that next year a bigger and better tournament may be held.

Last Winnetka Concert To Be Given April 16

The last concert of the Winnetka Music Club season will be given on April 16 at New Trier High School when Elisabeth Rethberg, world-famous soprano will be the artist.

Ten years ago a group of women, members of the Winnetka Music Club, decided to bring the music they so enjoyed to their own suburb. They reasoned: nearly all Chicago musical events take place on Sunday afternoon. Now those who live in the country do so because they enjoy it, and because the country is the proper place to rear children. Why not bring this music to our own neighborhood on a week night? Then we need not run off to Chicago on Sunday—the one day the family may spend together.

Thus these Winnetka music lovers argued, and this originated the plan for concerts at home and on week nights. A committee was formed, lists of names were secured, and the work went forward with increasing speed and enthusiasm.
