Work of Pupils In Adult Classes On Display This Week

An exhibit of drawings, sculpture, pottery, metal work and various other crafts which has been on view in the Lincoln Market building during the past week-end has called attention to a little publicized social activity of last winter which represents a new and interesting development in modern education. The exhibit comprised the work of pupils in the adult education classes which were organized last fall in the Lincoln School.

Beginning last November the Lincoln School has been open two nights a week for classes of adult pupils from all parts of Highland Park, and something like 195 Highland Park people have availed themselves of the school facilities in regular evening classes, the seriousness of which is well proven by the high quality of the work which has made up the public exhibit.

Twelve courses were given during the winter. Six of them covered modern languages, Spanish and French, for pupils of varying degrees of skill under the direction of a professional teacher, M. Aillard, who was obtained with the aid of C.W.A. Other courses included a class in metal working under the direction of Mrs. Leslie Schaffler, manual training under the direction of Walter Borg, social dancing under Mrs. Raymond Smith, and an art class which covered drawing and modeling from life and which was under the tutelage of Tom Wilder. In addition a large group under the guidance of Dr. Ellory Harvey followed a lecture and discussion course which covered economic affairs and a study of modern educational problems. A number of lectures in this course were given by members of the faculty of the Northwestern University who are specialists in their fields.

The idea of evening classes for adults was originally sponsored by the Lincoln School P.T.A., with Mrs. Leslie Schaffler as president and with Mrs. Minna B. Hoffman as chairman of the committee on adult education. While the classes were originally conceived as a Lincoln School activity the organizers wisely broadened it to make the classes open to all who cared to enter with the result that more than half of the pupils were residents of adjoining school districts.

The marked interest which the classes have developed has created a demand for the continuation of similar classes next winter and steps are being taken to make available an enlarged curriculum during the next school season. The expenses of the school, including the costs of opening and lighting the school building were covered by voluntary contributions of the pupils. The unusually high quality of the art work and hand craft which comprised the exhibit is ample testimony to the value of the classes and the superior quality of the instruction. Equally worth while results are reported by members of the other classes, comprising languages, dancing, and discussion of public affairs. This latter class which consisted of lectures on subjects of current intellectual interest followed by open discussion of the subjects covered provoked enthusiastic interest on the part of the class members. The open discussion in this class was under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Weinberg, Mr. and Mrs. John Millar, and Mr. Jacob Hoffman.

The average attendance at all classes during the season just closed is reported as being in excess of 125 people and it is expected that with the continuation of this "adult evening school" next season the increasing popularity of worth while study as a pleasant social activity will attract even larger numbers.

Detailed information relative to future courses may be obtained from Mrs. Minna B. Hoffman who is the chairman of the committee in charge of organization. Any adult is welcome to enter any class in which he may be interested.

Clarence E. Pickett to Talk at Northwestern

Clarence E. Pickett, now in Europe investigating for the Federal Government methods used by England and Germany in caring for their stranded peoples, will make the opening address of the Midwest Institute of International Relations to be held at Northwestern University June 25-July 6. E. Raymond Wilson, dean of the Institute, announced today that Mr. Pickett had been secured for the first public address to be made after his return to America June 10. The subject will be, "America's Refugees."

The aftermath of the World War left hundreds of thousands of people unemployed through the over-expansion of coal mining and other industries. Last year the American Friends Service committee (Quakers), of which Mr. Pickett is executive secretary, fed as many as forty thousand children daily in the soft coal areas of the United States. Because of this experience he was named by President Roosevelt to serve as chief of the section on stranded mining and industrial populations under the Department of the Interior, in the subsistence home-steads division.

FOR YOUR VACATION
 Low prices now are an added inducement

Make the most of your summer respite from work—spend it in the foothills of the Cumberland where golf and riding, swimming and tennis and being lazy are the only things that matter. Life here is very gay—the crowd just the sort you like—and the rate reductions very advantageous. French Lick is just overnight from Chicago on the Monon (summer rates now in effect)—eight hours by motor—even less by plane to the Hotel Airport.

Plant Sale in Ravinia Will Be Next Saturday

Saturday, May 26, is the date for the annual plant sale of the Ravinia Garden Club, which will be held on the village green, just east of the station in Ravinia, from 9:30 a.m. until 6 in the afternoon.

The choicest annuals and perennials for every purpose will be on hand in great variety and at most reasonable prices. The Garden Club members will also gladly give whatever information they can concerning individual planting problems.

Mrs. E. E. Leonard will have a table of charming and inexpensive pottery from the South. Another interesting feature of the sale will be a "Donation Table" which will have only plants from the gardens of the members of the club. Mrs. A. F. Durand is in charge of this table, and it should prove a splendid opportunity to obtain choice bits from our neighbors' gardens.

The Girl Scouts will assist in various ways during the sale.

All proceeds will go to the Ravinia rose garden. Advance orders will be given special attention by phoning Mrs. Leroy Harza, H.P. 3405, chairman.
