TROOP 324 MEETS LAST FRIDAY NIGHT

Troop 324 had a very interesting meeting last Friday night. The patrol leader, Billy Lett, and his patrol had a treasure hunt from Central to Linden avenue and from Prospect to Dale.

After the hunt everybody was served refreshments. The troop had a few visitors last night and George Bensch, field scout executive, was one of them. The troop's next meeting will be on Sunday, playing "tag."

REGIONAL MEETING AT MADISON MONDAY

On Monday, Oct. 22, Scouters of the North Shore Area Council will go to Madison, Wis., to attend the annual meeting of the morning and will continue until 8:30 in the evening with addresses by George J. Fisher, deputy chief scout executive, and E. Turner Goddard, director of the division of program of the regional council, Boy Scouts of America. Both of these men are capable leaders and fine speakers who will have much inspiration for the Wisconsin and Northern Illinois delegates who will be at the meeting.

Region 7 comprises the four states of Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan and Indiana, and is holding its annual meeting in four divisions, one section in each of the four states. Anybody wishing to find out more about the meeting can do so by calling the Boy Scout headquarters, Highland Park 629.

SCOUTERS BACK AT SCHOOL OF SCOUTING

The fall term of the University of Scouting of the fall term, began last Monday night at Christ Church parish house in Waukegan. The meeting was the first of six which are conducted to better acquaint Scout leaders with the tasks before them and to equip them for more successful service to the Boy Scout movement. Stanley Miller, assistant Scout executive of the Chicago Council, was present and opened the meeting with an address on the subject of "A Scout Program which meets the boy's needs." The next session of the University of Scouting will be held at the same place on Monday evening, Oct. 29, the intervening Monday night being devoted to the Madison meeting.

LAST CALL FOR "LOST AND FOUND"

There are still a number of articles in the Boy Scout office which have not been claimed by Scouts who lost them at camp. They will be held no longer than a week after which time they will be distributed to the Scouts at Arden Shore. If you have lost anything that you feel might be in the assortment, now is the time to see about it because—soon—it will be too late.

Teachers Meeting Oct. 29 in Evanston

Deerfield Rotarians Hear Good Speakers

Rev. Gilbert H. Smith of Northbrook was the guest speaker Thursday at the Deerfield Rotary Club and was introduced by Edward Reagan. Rev. Smith's subject was "Life; See, Understand, and Follow Through."

The following announcements are taken from last week's "Pinion," the weekly publication of the Deerfield Rotary Club:

Last week: We had as our guest John Zahn, past director Rotary International, past governor district 7, manufacturer of portland cement, and a former resident of Deerfield. He now resides at Denver, Colo. He said when he read about a Rotary Club being formed in Deerfield, nearly four years ago, he made up his mind that he would visit that club at his first opportunity. John gave us a splendid talk about the meaning of the "Sixth Object of Rotary." We were certainly glad to have John Zahn with us and hope he will come again soon.

Next week: Charles Seago has the program next week.

Look on the bulletin board for your date with the Scouts. Don't miss this. If you can't go, send some one in your place.

"AS WE RIG OUR SHIP"

If we stopped to ponder over All the past we ever knew As we rig our ship for sailing In our future stage of glory Would reflect but little fame When its curtains gently open On the deeds that bear our name.

It's the eye o'er looking forward That can guide our destiny All the past is gone, forever And has left us on the sea If we ever make the voyage As all good pilots do We must muse on what's before us For it's always something new.

We can but unveil the future By the things we do today And our ship for sailing In our future stage of glory Would reflect but little fame When its curtains gently open On the deeds that bear our name.

May our cargo be our conscience As we sail life's sea across And our mast a beam of friendship That will er stand tempter's foe May our ship the soul within us Anchor harbor free from the sea There are storms to rise before us Quite as violent as we've passed.
