

A Girl Scout Camp in Miniature

Girl Scouts Display Miniature Handiwork

What a Girl Scout camp really looks like was portrayed in miniature by members of Troop 27: Rosemary Schiff, Gale Bray, Shirley Mayer, Marion Gale, and Nancy Goodman. Judy Howes and Genevieve Maurizzi also assisted in the work.

The project has three sections not shown in the picture: a circle of tiny Girl Scouts engaged in a flag ceremony, another view of camp life, and an exhibit of Scoutercraft with examples of knot tying and handi-craft.

Craftsmanship is a large and important part of Girl Scouting. Some of the projects in handi-craft undertaken by Scouts are basketry, clay pottery and modeling, leather work, construction and operation of marionettes, block prints, weaving, decoration of textiles, wood carving and wood finishing.

An early response to the letters which were sent to Girl Scout parents and friends is expected by the Highland Park Council, in its drive for funds to carry on the Girl Scout activities.

Mrs. Charles A. Wright, chairman of the finance committee, says that there would be no delay if parents would stop to realize that an immediate contribution to the drive is doubly valuable, as it saves the committee from personal follow-up appeal for funds, and releases them for other constructive activity.

Members of this committee are Mrs. Kellogg Patterson, Mrs. William Jones, Mrs. W. H. Rutherford and Mrs. H. R. Will.

In connection with the drive the following facts about the Girl Scout movement are contributed by the national organization of Girl Scouts:

What is the purpose of the Girl Scout movement? To give the growing girl opportunities for self development through practice of the cultural and domestic arts. To develop character; to encourage a love of outdoors; to foster resourcefulness and a spirit of self reliance; to help different social and national groups toward a better understanding and appreciation of one another; to develop in the girl a sense of civic responsibility and a practical knowledge of community service.

Why should the community support a program of this type? Because every progressive community is now conscious of the need for such a program; because the community will benefit ultimately in better citizenship and better womanhood; because for the child play is almost as important as food (the Girl Scout program is presented as a game which the girl plays with others of her own age); "because children cannot wait for tomorrow."

D.A.R. Better Films Committee Review

Dec. 6-7, Thursday, Friday Will Rogers in "Judge Priest" this film, based on a series of short stories by Irvin Cobb, provides a fit vehicle for Will Rogers' talents. Recommended for all audiences.

"Black Sheep" drama of three little white sheep and one roguish black sheep. Excellent for family.

Dec. 8, Saturday "Ready for Love" with Richard Arlen, Ida Lupino, Marjorie Rambeau. An adaptation of the novel "The Whipping" which concerns the stage-struck daughter of an actress, sent by her mother to live with a small town maiden aunt, the mischievous gossip and evil insinuations given her harmless actions, which all but destroy the girl and her rescue by a young newspaper man. A Puritan benefit party and an old-time ducking stool are featured. Family.

"Domestic Bliss-ers" York & King receive a consolation trophy in golf and lose a bridge prize. En route home the bridge game is replayed to discover the reason for the lost prize. Adults and young adults.

Dec. 9-10, Sunday, Monday, Janet Gaynor and Lew Ayers in "Servants Entrance" from the novel by Sigrid Boo. A poor little rich girl, wishing to acquire the assets of a good wife, seeks employment as a housemaid and not only accomplishes her purpose but finds herself in love with a fellow employee. This picture is charming, fresh and amusing, with its capable cast, understanding direction and beautiful photography. Family.

Dec. 11-12, Tuesday, Wednesday "Age of Innocence" featuring Irene Dunne and John Boles. Desires of protecting the family name and honor, two young people, raised in the conventionalty of the mid-Victorian period, part and live their lives in the memory of their deep love. A beautiful interpretation of a lovely story laid in the New York of the late nineteenth century, portrayed by a competent cast, with masterly direction, exquisite photography and old-fashioned atmosphere, which adds much to the general entertainment. Adults.

Dec. 13-14, Thursday and Friday, "Wagon Wheels," with Randolph Scott, Gall Patrick, Monte Blue. An action drama with romantic interest built around the experiences and hardships of the early settlers who broke the first wagon trail from Missouri to Oregon territory, although a story of the West, it is epic in its conception and presentation and favorably recalls "The Covered Wagon." The haunting theme song "Wagon Wheels" carries throughout acting and direction, excellent photography notable, exceptional entertainment for family.

In Memoriam

(Jesse Louise Smith)

He lived among us with such simple taste,
We scarcely knew how great till he was dead.
"Not length of life, but how I live," he said;
Yet all who knew him felt the eager haste
With which he garnered beauty, lest it waste
And perish ere its deeper meaning shed
A hallowed radiance. With him children read
From sky, from flowering field, from woodland's mast,
God's benediction. — Is he still near?
The haw and apple trees will bloom as fair;
The fields will turn to miracles of gold;
The music of the stars we still may hear;
And when small hands reach out to others there,
It is his grasp they feel, his arms enfold.

—Sidney D. Morris.

Highland Park Defeats Lake Forest Gridders

Highland Park defeated Lake Forest in their annual Turkey Day game at Farwell Field by the score of 14 to 0. The field was very wet and slippery which was a handicap to both teams since both teams are fast and depend on the open style of game for the greater part of their gains.

Highland Park had the better of the play throughout the game although Lake Forest fought hard.

Both the Highland Park touchdowns came in the final period. The first was the culmination of a determined march down the field, with P. Allens, J. Allens, Rogan and Jorgenson taking turns at carrying the ball. J. Allen took the ball over on a short end run and a moment later counted the point after touchdown on a cutback through the Lake Forest line.

The second score came when P. Allens intercepted a Lake Forest pass to run thirty yards for a touchdown. He also scored the extra point on a pass from his brother. Highland Park's line opened up some big holes in the Crimson line and the blocking of the Parkers backs made many long gains possible.
