D. A. R. Better Films Committee Review

"Wagon Wheels" with Randolph Scott, Monte Blue, Gail Patrick, may be seen Thursday and Friday, Dec. 13-14. An exceptional western drama showing the hardships of the Covered Wagon settlers who blazed the trail from Missouri to Oregon. Excellent acting, good photography, and the constant use of the theme song, "Wagon Wheels" combine to produce an entertaining film for the family.

"Unlucky Strike," Tom Kennedy is the victim of the inventor of a magnetic bowling ball (Chic Chandler). Very good.

"Dumbell Letters," authentic letters written by dull people to public companies. Adults.

Saturday, Dec. 15 "Student Tour" featuring Jimmy Durante, Charles Butterworth, Maxim Doyle, Phil Regan, Nelson Eddy, U.S.C. students. Merely a series of frothy incidents built around a student tour, a college crew race, and a love affair. Gambling and drinking make it unsuitable for family. Adults.

"Along Came A Duck," a bullfrog rescues a duck. Family.

Saturday matinee: Chapter 1 of the new serial "Law of the Wild."

Sunday, Monday, Dec. 16-17, "The Fountain," featuring Ann Harding, from the novel by Charles Morgan. The struggle between love for the English sweetheart of her girlhood and loyalty toward her German husband who returns wounded in the war, is successfully though sadly fought by a sensitive young woman. A picture which is tense and dramatic but will nevertheless prove interesting. Fine entertainment with ideal cast, masterly direction, beautiful photography and capable interpretation. Adults.

Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Dec. 18-19-20 George Arliss in "The Last Gentleman." A deft and wholly amusing comedy in which Mr. Arliss, as a wealthy eccentric old gentleman with a strong family pride, has an enjoyable time with the relatives who are hoping for a part of his fortune when he dies. He arranges a romance for a granddaughter whom he loves, insults those whom he doesn't, punishes a worthless son, and arranges a surprise will. Mr. Arliss is superb in a light story that has an occasional serious touch and a strong cast ably supports him. Excellent entertainment. Family.
