URGE NEW SCOUTS TO REGISTER FOR DECEMBER

Boys who are waiting until the first of the year to become Scouts would do well to register with the troop of their choice immediately this month, because by so doing they will help their troop's standing in regard to the year program award for 1934. The national registration fee from now until the end of the year is 5 cents.

SCOUT LEADERS' CHRISTMAS PARTY THIS SATURDAY

Committees have been appointed and arrangements have been completed for the Scout leaders' party which is to be held this Saturday night at the Community Center at the corner of Laurel and McGovern streets, Highland Park, at 8 p.m. There will be games of a social nature for everybody, cards for those who want them, dancing and Christmas tree around which every one will receive a present. A committee has been appointed also to arrange for the refreshments. The party is for Scout leaders and their wives or sweethearts, whichever the case may be.

CUB PACK 85 HOLDS HOBBY AND PET SHOW

Friday, Dec. 14, at 7 p.m. the Cubs of Highland Park will hold their hobby and pet show in the Community Center gym, at the corner of Laurel and McGovern streets, Highland Park. A short program featuring Cub songs, motion pictures of Cubs in action and the picture of 1934 Camp Mack-Ja-Wan. There will be paper demonstrations and George Schenck's play (Mr. X) will be a high light. The admission price is ten cents. See what the Cubs are doing in their leisure time. Also see their pets. Everyone is welcome.

NATIONAL JAMBOREE GOES TO WASHINGTON

On Feb. 10, 1934, President Roosevelt in a special broadcast to Scouts, invited them to attend a national jamboree in the Capitol City. He said in part, "and it is appropriate also that we are planning for the celebration of the 25th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America, which will culminate in a great national jamboree here in the national capital in the summer of 1935. Of course, it would be physically impossible for me to have the whole membership of the Boy Scouts of America, a million strong, come to Washington at one time, but I much hope that it will be possible to have every nook and cranny, every section of our nation represented." The official magazine of the Boy Scouts of America, "Scouting," in the December issue has a special section devoted to the national jamboree information. Quoting from the article we read: "A magnificent camping site has been secured for the national jamboree which will take place next summer. It is south of the White House and under conditions where those who live in the camps will be in sight of the Capitol and the Washington Monument. Part of the land involves the Fort Myers Gardens, Columbia Island and the new development on the Mt. Vernon Highway, east of Highway Bridge. Other property near the White House, will be available as an overflow, in case it is needed. In addition, the monument grounds and the ellipse back of the White House, which involves about 150 acres will be available for activities and mobilization purposes."

The response to a special bulletin sent by chief Scout executive James E. West to the scout executives last July, received great response from the field and the answers to questions involved contributes to the planning of the jamboree and more definite information will be published from time to time. The following objectives of the jamboree were endorsed by 315 Councils with one opposing: (1) To mark the 25th anniversary of the inception of Scouting in America by accepting the sponsorship of our President, F. D. Roosevelt to celebrate in Washington our silver jubilee with the national jamboree. (2) To provide a new sense of brotherhood and stimulate friends among Scouts and Scouters who, from all over the country will camp together and have a chance to know each other better. (3) To give Scouts the chance to observe the methods and program Scouts of other sections of the country. (4) To display as nearly as possible the troop and patrol activities of the Boy Scouts of America. (5) To demonstrate on a sufficiently large scale and to permeate the whole movement with the practicability of the use of troop camps as a means of furnishing adventure and developing Scouts' resourcefulness. (6) To stimulate interest in Scouting on the part of the general public and in the objectives of the Scout program. (7) To promote an educational opportunity for Scouts, to see the historic shrines of the nation's capital. (8) To deepen the sense of responsibility and obligations as Scouts of this Republic."

SCOUT TROOPS WORKING TOWARDS PROGRAM AWARD

1934 ten year program awards will be made to all Cub Packs, Scout Troops, and Sea Scout Ships in which: (1) There has been conducted a program during their charter year ending 1934 which in judgment of the local council, after agreement with the troop (or pack, ship, etc.) committee, has been a satisfactory program for that particular unit. (2) There is a total boy membership at the close of its charter year ending in 1934 that is more than it was at the close of its charter year ending in 1933 (if the local council at least six months before the expiration of the charter in 1934 has set a limit of membership in a particular troop that troop will qualify in this requirement by equaling the limit so set.) (3) At least 50 per cent of all new Scouts (boys registered Scouts for the first time during its charter year ending in 1934) were less than 13 years of age when they joined (Cub packs and Sea Scout ships do not need to meet an age requirement with their new members.) (4) At least 50 per cent of all new Scouts who joined the troop during its charter year ending in 1934 registered for its charter year in 1934, and (5) The charter ending in 1934 is renewed within 30 days of its expiration.

The 10 year program is a program of growth and development within the Boy Scouts of America, nationally and locally. The objective is one boy of every four twelve-year-olds shall have four years of Scouting. The 10 year program ends in 1942 and objectives for the North Shore Area Council are much higher than the objectives of the national average and already the local council has set a goal of a greater total membership than expected of it by 1938. Dec. 31 will set a total membership of over 1400 Scout in the North Shore Area Council.

Mutual Coal Team Leads Local Bowling League

Mutual Coal led by Ray Carpenter's series of 550 annexed the team laurels in the Highland Park Business Mens League last week totaling 2568, and winning three games from the Duffy & Duffy Cleaners. The league leading Young Mens Club had little trouble winning three games from the American Legion.

The Sunset Cafe boys gave the strong H. P. Decorating Company a set-back for two games. Pet Stewart carried the load for the Decorators, while Loesch lead the Cafe boys.

The on coming Elks, led by Harry Rafferty nice series of 570 gave Colemans its first bad set-back of the season, the Elks winning three games. J. Coleman was high man for the losers with 569.

The Highland Park Press won two games from Picchietti's. The Press boys after a very bad start came back with games of 905 and 869, to take the odd game from the grocery boys. A. Picchietti had high game and high series for the week, 236 and 581.

Demand Grows For Health Education

Physical and health education has grown tremendously since the war and public school officials have available a far greater number of well trained teachers capable of carrying out a progressive program of health and physical education and athletics, according to a recent statement of the American Physical Education Association.

In 1918 but 11 states had physical education laws and only four states had directors of health and physical education, connected in most cases with the state department of public instruction. Today 36 states have legislation on physical education in the public schools and there are 19 state directors of health and physical education. Approximately 90 per cent of the population comes under the jurisdiction of these laws. Practically all of the states having laws also have courses of study which prescribe minimum standards for the type of work offered in the schools.

The number of teachers has increased from about 10,000 in 1918 to approximately 20,000 in 1934. There are now over 200 institutions training teachers of physical education while in 1918 there were but 20. Before 1920 the courses offered in teacher-training institutions were largely of two years duration and were concerned for the most part with only the physical activities in physical education. During the 1920's the course for teachers was lengthened to four years and made broadly cultural. In the last few years graduate courses have been demanded because of the increasing complexities of the administrative program with physical and health education, athletics, and community recreation oftentimes being administered from a central department. The modern graduate has to have a knowledge of anatomy, physiology, hygiene, sociology, psychology, and kindred subjects in addition to general education philosophy. There are now thirty-five schools offering graduate work in the field of physical education.

Considering the short time that adequately trained teachers have been engaged in the work, remarkable educational accomplishments have been made, according to educational observers.

It is pointed out by the American Physical Education Association that this growth in the movement for physical education came partly as the need for proper physical training was disclosed by the appalling war draft figures when a large proportion of the young men of the country were found to be unfit for military service because of poor health and physical development and partly because the strain of modern life requires physical vigor and the ability to relax. Children who can play together learn how to work together. The modern teacher leads his pupils in co-operative enterprises in which social contacts are made and in which training is offered in the constructive, healthful, and happy use of leisure.

Highland Park Athlete Wins N. U. Grid Letter

William Spears of Highland Park, end on Northwestern University's football team, was awarded a minor letter at the annual football dinner given to the squad by the Northwestern University alumni club of Chicago. Spears was one of fifteen players to win minor letters. He is a sophomore in the school of Engineering and played football during his freshman year.

Northwestern Coach Starts Eighth Year

Coach Dutch Lonborg, starting his eighth season as basketball coach at Northwestern University, has compiled an enviable record during his tenure of service with the Wildcats. In the seven years in which he has been head coach, Northwestern has never finished out of the first division in the Big Ten championship race.

Under Lonborg, the Wildcats won their first Big Ten basketball championships, finishing on top in 1931 and again in 1933. On three other occasions they wound up in second place, were in third place once and finished in fifth place once. During the past seven years the Wildcats have won 62 and lost 22 Big Ten games for a winning average of 73 per cent.
