"C. A." THE PRESS

Lake, son of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Lake, was solemnized at the Presbyterian church. The Rev. Louis W. Sherwin, pastor of the church, officiated. The decorations of the church were very simple, a bower of greenery forming the background with a mass of white snapdragons and Easter lilies glowing in the light of four seven-inch candelabras. The wedding march was played by Harold Thomas and Miss Virginia Bach one of the bridesmaids sang. The bride was lovely in a gown of egg-shell satin, her tulle veil falling from a lace coronet. Her attendants wore dresses of blue ombre chiffon and carried bouquets of yellow marguerites and blue lupines. Miss Marjorie Watson, who served her sister as maid of honor, wore yellow ombre chiffon and carried blue lupine and deep orange daisies. The bridesmaids were Miss Bunnee Lake, the bridegroom's sister, Miss Aileen Clemons of Milwaukee, Miss Dorothy Voight, Miss Ruth Lenfesty, Miss Virginia Bach, and Miss Mildred Hobart. The bride's younger sister, Kathleen, was a junior bridesmaid and she wore a frock of pale blue. Walter Watson, the bride's brother, served as Mr. Lake's best man. His ushers were Preston Weir, Donald Vaughan, Morton Haavivig, Donald McClure, and Harold Browning. The Watsons' home was filled with spring flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Lake are enjoying a honeymoon trip in the south and upon their return will live in Waukegan.

POLITICS TODAY

by Alfred R. Esimz
It is the privilege of every citizen to express his dissatisfaction over any injustice in either of two ways. In the first place, he may throw his political and moral power to that which corrects the condition and in the second place, he may withhold his political and moral power from that which he feels to misrepresent his interests. In other words, he can support that which he believes in and refuse to support that which is un-American and undemocratic.

Tyrants of antiquity controlled people by fear. In modern times demoralization (born from destroying the people's will and purpose) is produced by cultured methods rather than fear. We are all held in bondage by selfishness, an emotion which has been simulated out of all proportion by economic psychologists. The vision of the people has been obscured by greed and love for power and until this is corrected the strength of the people is lost. Tricky politicians who live off of the vanities and follies of the general crowd control the public mind by appealing to its weaknesses, taking advantage of the people's ignorance and hence, real issues lose the name of action.

The line between legal and illegal matters today is entirely a question of statutes and codes, having little to do with integrity and human values.

Why don't the politicians pay to run the country stop filibustering their way through one season after another and take a little care of the people, whose rights they are supposed to protect? Can the men who put themselves into office with our consent come out of their coma long enough to take a few practical steps to prevent our losing everything we have and work out a prosperity program for us?

I fear very seriously that we are suffering from too opulent a system of politics. There are too many wealthy men in governmental positions. In their desperate effort to safeguard their own interests, these gentlemen have utterly forgotten that they are the servants of the people.

Never before have there been so many rich men and women in politics and never before have we had such "poor" politics.

Of course the average person is honest. That is, he thinks he is. It has been wisely discovered that if you tempt a man beyond his integrity, he will fall. The bootlegging industry could not exist without the financial and moral support of so-called honest citizens—Give the American people an honest government, an honest business system and a reasonable degree of rights and economic security, and crime, bootlegging and radicalism will become negligible elements in our social system.—A. R. Esimz.
