Barometers of Trade Indicate Business Recovery is Nearer

Washington — (IPS) — The most definite period of recovery since 1929 is the general forecast of those who study business trends in viewing 1935. This view is dependent, however, upon Congress and the Administration seeking to avoid further reforms and innovations which will upset the farm and business outlook.

Latest reports from the Relief Administration shows a slight decrease in those receiving relief during March instead of the customary increase at this period of the year. The automobile industry is geared for higher production, with the consequent gain in steel production. Retail sales have maintained a high volume and the coming of spring is expected to bring one of the most active retail markets in four years. Farm purchasing power has increased. Home building is gaining momentum.

Viewing the situation with satisfaction, C. L. Bardo, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, said, "I unhesitatingly predict a period of recovery if the boat is not rocked." Among factors which he listed as possibly working against recovery were enactment of the 30-hour arbitrary week legislation, which would increase the cost of manufactured products to farmers and further upset the balance; unwise enactment of so-called social security measures, including unemployment insurance, which would have the same effect and force higher taxes by states, and the Wagner Labor Bill which would create a labor dominance and perhaps stimulate a new wave of strikes.

Many areas in the south and southwest, where balmy weather has been prevalent for the last few weeks, have already experienced a heavy consumer demand for spring merchandise. Auto production, which has led recovery since December, is running close to 100,000 units weekly.

The construction industry has been the laggard of recovery, but the Federal Housing Administration is optimistic over a resurgence of home-building this spring and sum-
