

GOURLEY TO HEAD SOCIAL SERVICE

nancial condition, receipts and disbursements for the year. "We examined the book showing individual disbursements for relief and found them all properly authorized by the required number of members of the Executive committee.

"With the help of Mr. Abercrombie and Mrs. Flinn, we went into the matter of relief outside of monetary payments to clients, in order to satisfy ourselves that the money used for expenses was in proper relation to the amount of help given.

"We believe credit is due to Mrs. Flinn for the efficient and economical manner in which this was handled.

"There is a slight typographical error on the sheet headed 'Disbursements'—the word advanced being used instead of the word transferred.

Yours very truly,
EDWARD M. STEELE
(Signed) HARRY B. ROBERTS
R. A. PRICE."

The shortage of State Funds for Relief has added to the responsibilities of the Highland Park Social Service, as it falls upon the local agency to carry on certain constructive policies if they are not to fall by the wayside in the interim in which federal and state governments make certain adjustments.

The State Employment Agency in the building was obliged to close its doors for lack of funds. The record of the agency was so creditable and the cooperation they gave so helpful, that the Social Service is endeavoring to aid in keeping open that office mornings as a medium for employment for people of this district needing and wanting work. It is hoped that by so doing that this may be made an accredited permanent Federal or State Employment office. To that end the committee is urging people to use it—Phone 1033—between the hours of 8:30 and 12:30 every day.

It may be possible to carry out the Community Garden project. If those needing gardens will register both their need and their willingness to spare their own plots, Social Service will probably be able to interest a few people in money to provide supervision now for planting, and to provide policing when that becomes necessary. Government seeds are available.

The question is being asked—"How many people really want gardens and will put their own effort in working them and canning the produce?" This is a splendid opportunity to find out what families wish to avail themselves a chance to provide fresh vegetables for the summer and canned ones for next winter.

Those in charge of the office, report a few men have secured steady employment, some in their own line of work and say that it is a gratification to see their enthusiasm when they come in to tell the good news.

This is an organization interested in the good fortunes as well as problems of the people of this community. It's four and a half years of service has made many friends among both rich and poor—those who have been able to give aid and those who have had to ask it. There have even been cases where one of the second, and visa versa. Whatever the reason for entering its doors, the Social Service gladly extends its welcome.

They can tell how one can share this bounty with his neighbor, or, if in need, and sensitive because of it, they can guide the needy to the help which may tide them over their difficulty.

This organization does not give budget relief nor carry families on a relief roll. It meets only the emergencies and can often encourage a man by finding a way for him to help himself and perhaps keep off the pauper list.

The organization looks forward, if funds are available, to another year of constructive service.

This Week in Washington

By RALPH E. CHURCH
Representative, Tenth Congressional District

Washington, D. C., May 18.—On November 3, 1934, proper approval was given for the construction of a warehouse at Fort Sheridan to provide storage facilities for the supplies of the Civilian Conservation Corps. The original plans called for a warehouse 400 feet long by 60 feet wide at an estimated cost of $21,000. Considerable number of CCC workers pass through the office and the 2400 square feet of storage space was much needed.

It developed that the cost was underestimated and a building one-half the size of that originally planned was constructed, necessitating leaving the supplies in the open with resulting damage and inconvenience. Several calls were made at the office of Mr. Robert Fehner, Director of Emergency Conservation Work, as well as the War Department, with a view to correcting the situation. The Director advised me this week that he had seen fit to approve the completion of the warehouse as originally planned and had authorized the release of sufficient additional funds for that purpose.

About 4,000 farmers "marched on Washington" this week to express their approval of the AAA. They were to be seen in the House Office Building, in the Capitol, and in the Senate Office Building, each wearing a state delegation ribbon or card on his coat. My passing observation was that they were a substantial looking group of men.

The assembling of the farmers from various parts of the country in Washington precipitated considerable discussion in the halls of Congress. Several Democratic Senators have privately expressed doubts that the "march" was spontaneous. Senator L.J. Dickinson, Republican, of Iowa, declared that it was "inspired from Washington," with the purpose of creating the impression that the Administration's agriculture program was popular. It has been informed that Mr. Chester Davis, AAA head, and the Secretary of Agriculture Wallace were responsible for the assemblage, with the claim that they used this means to "propagandize" the country for their program.

Another point of discussion precipitated by the assembling of the farmers in Washington, this week has been the President's address to the group on the White House lawn. In that speech he said: "As you know, a great many of the high and mighty—with special axes to grind—have been deliberately trying to mislead the people who know nothing of farming by misrepresenting—no—why use a pussyfoot word—by lying about the kind of farm program under which the nation is operating today."

Some of the members of the House and Senate reacted bitterly because of that statement. It was said that the President makes "fireside talks" on the radio in which he urges that the people feel free to criticize but when any one criticizes the program he brands them as a liar. It is interesting to note that several members of the President's own party are the sharpest critics of the AAA: Senators Glass and Byrd of Virginia, Tydings of Maryland, Bailey of North Carolina, Ellison Smith of South Carolina, George of Georgia and Gore of Oklahoma.

Ravinia Garden Fair to Be Held Saturday

club members. Mrs. A. F. Durand and Mrs. L. S. Harza are supervising the "donation table" which will contain plants, cuttings, bulbs, seeds—many which are rare or unusual, supplied by the gardens of club members.

Mrs. P. D. Stokes and Mrs. Stanley Grace have planned a table of bouquets and flower arrangements to be sold in containers.

Mrs. E. E. Leonard and Mrs. R. O. Nereim will offer some bright pottery for sale while Mrs. J. W. Corrington and Mrs. J. W. Haupt will sell balloons for the children. "Hot dogs," hamburgers, and coffee are sure to be popular, and will be dispensed by Mrs. C. V. Nichols and Mrs. H. E. Will.

There will also be garden tools, garden decorations and novelties, gloves, garden hats—in fact everything to make the garden more attractive, for sale.

The proceeds from the Fair will be used to beautify various spots in Ravinia which are now unsightly and outstanding—and for the upkeep of the Ravinia Rose Garden.

Community Garden Class to Hold Plant Sale May 25

the leadership of Mrs. Ellery H. Harvey, the program chairman, they visited the Colonel Blum lilac gardens at Lombard, Illinois, and the H. R. Lawrence Ornamental Nursery at Elmhurst, Illinois.

Mrs. Ellery H. Harvey will entertain the Community Garden class at her home at 987 Ridgewood drive on Tuesday, May 28 at 2 o'clock. Mrs. E. R. Baum and Mrs. E. F. Pratt will be co-hostesses. A very interesting program has been arranged for the afternoon. Mrs. Johnson of "The Fair" in Chicago, will speak on "Garden Implements" and as a special treat, Mrs. Maurice Westington, Canadian concert singer, will sing a group of flower songs.

The Community Garden class is making a gift of a number of books on gardening to the Highland Park Public Library.

Anyone interested in gardening is invited to attend the meetings at the Winnetka Garden Center every Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock. The Community Garden class is sponsoring the meetings during the month of June and promises four interesting programs, the subjects to be announced later.
