D.A.R. Better Films Committee Review

June 6, Thursday "The Great Hotel Murder" featuring Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen. Author of mystery stories, visiting in a hotel, solves a murder in spite of the house detective. Adults.

June 7, 8, Friday, Saturday Edward G. Robinson in "The Whole Town's Talking." When a timid clerk is arrested because he is the double of a notorious criminal, the police face a dilemma that makes newspaper headlines and gives the criminal a temporary advantage. Amusing, suspenseful. Adults.

Saturday matinee only, Chapter 2 "Phantom Empire." June 9-10-11, Sun. Mon. Tues. Private Worlds with Claudette Colbert, Charles Boyer, Joan Bennett. Remarkable for its delicate handling. This picture vividly dramatizes the humane methods employed in the treatment of psychopathic patients, and gives the public the opportunity of realizing the delicate technique required. Unusual. Enlivened with an interesting romance. Excellent cast with outstanding direction. Adults.

June 12th only, Wednesday "Chasing Yesterday," with Anne Shirley. A pleasantly emotional story of a gentle old man whose interest is diverted from the pensive fragrance of an old romance to the very real problems presented by an imaginative young girl—the orphan daughter of the only woman he had loved. Slow-paced and whimsically humorous. The film reflects delicately the charm of an earlier day, with accurate settings and finished portraiture. Family.

June 13-14, Thursday, Friday Edward Everett Horton in "The $16,000 Raise." A rollicking tale in which a diffident office drudge, a creature of habit and routine, through an unexpected turn of fate masters his environment. Amusing situation and dialogue with expert comedy. Family.

Shirley Strattan Dies of Sleeping Sickness

Shirley Strattan, 11 years of age, daughter of A. G. Strattan, 1415 Wildwood Road, succumbed to encephalitis (sleeping sickness) at the Evanston Hospital Monday, June 3, despite the efforts to save her life by use of the hospital's "iron lung." She became ill with measles on Wednesday, May 29, and on Friday developed the sickness which caused her death.

Funeral services were held at the home Tuesday, June 4. She is survived by her father, A. G. Strattan, three brothers, William Strattan, and John and Frank Baches, a baby sister, Margaret, and her grandmother, Mrs. Volts, of Evanston.

Presbyterian Church Changes Schedule

Following the plan set up last summer, the Highland Park Presbyterian church is introducing a special summer schedule on Sunday, June 16 at the request of a great many members of the church.

An early service is held at 8:00 in the Parish house, lasting about half an hour. This is a brief service of worship with an address by the pastor. Many people have spoken very gratefully of this privilege to worship at the early hour. At 10:30 the regular morning worship period is held, the hour being changed from 11:00 for the summer period. The church school also meets at this hour in the three departments, the beginners, the primary, and the junior. The young people's department is adjourned for the summer so that the young people may attend the church service. This 10:30 hour will be observed through the first Sunday of September.

This schedule is introduced with the hope of meeting a need as suggested by many requests that have come from various individuals. A cordial invitation is always extended to everybody to attend these services.

MRS. M. J. O'BRIEN REPORTED IMPROVED

Mrs. M. J. O'Brien, of 121 Lake Avenue, Highland Park, who was critically injured Sunday evening is greatly improved, according to reports received from the family on last Tuesday.

A car driven by Marion Williams of Chicago Heights caused a four-car smash-up involving the car in which Mrs. O'Brien was riding.

State highway police said the accident occurred when Glenn Jensen, whose home is near the scene of the accident, stopped his southbound car in Mannheim Road to make a left turn into his own driveway. Another southbound machine, driven by Mrs. Williams struck Jensen's auto, the police said. The impact pushed Jensen's car into the lane of northbound traffic, where two northbound machines crashed into it.

One of these, according to police, was the car in which Mrs. O'Brien was riding. It was driven by her son Hayes, who was not hurt. Mrs. Williams was held on a charge of reckless driving.
