Rectors Guild Sponsors Ticket Sale for Summer Drama Festival

It was stated in last week's edition of the Highland Park Press that the Rectors Guild of Trinity church was sponsoring the series of plays to be produced in Glencoe this summer by Ben Guy Phillips. Mr. Phillips' project is his own, and is being sponsored all over the North Shore and in Chicago by organizations who have subscription tickets for sale. The Rector's Guild of Trinity church is one of the sponsors for the sale of tickets in Highland Park. The North Shore Drama festival which opens on June 24 at the Central school auditorium, Glencoe, is being given prominence in all the Chicago and North Shore papers, and a number of socially eminent people are co-operating by means of teas, luncheons and the actual sale of tickets. Friday afternoon, May 24, Mrs. Cyrus Garnett had a tea at her home in Evanston at which Mr. Phillips spoke. Saturday, May 25, Mr. Phillips addressed the Arts club. Mrs. George L. Wilkinson acted as hostess at her home in Evanston for the Southern Women's Alliance, where Mr. Phillips also spoke. Among those who have already purchased their season tickets are the following names: Mrs. Hayden B. Harris, Mrs. Harold Pynchon, Mrs. Townsend McKeever, Mrs. John R. Winterbottom, Jr., Mrs. Hamilton McCormick, Mrs. Cyrus Garnett, Mrs. George L. Wilkinson, Major and Mrs. Lenox Lehr, Mrs. Graham Aldis, Mrs. Chaucey Blair, and Louis Eckstein.

The season for the festival will open on June 24 with the presentation of Sir James Barrie's "Mary Rose," in which Edith Barrett will star. Miss Barrett has just completed a run in "Symphony" on Broadway, where last season she created the role of Anne Ronette in "Moor Boon." She has played leading roles opposite Walter Hampden, Henry Hull and Sir Guy Standing.

Following is a list of the four plays Mr. Phillips is presenting this summer, each play to run twelve consecutive nights:

June 24—Sir James Barrie's "Mary Rose," with Edith Barrett as the star and Eric Dresler leading the supporting cast.

July 12—Mordant Shairp's "The Crime at Blossoms," with Jessie Royce Landis and Ernest Glendinning as co-stars.

July 21—Andre Obey's "Kosh," produced for the first time away from Broadway, with Burgess Meredith as star.

August 19—Ashton Stevens' "Prospect Avenue," with Tom Fowers, Rosemary Ames, and Katherine Krur (Mrs. Ash-ton Stevens), as stars.

As a supporting cast for these eight stars Mr. Phillips has enlisted the following professional actors and actresses: Edith Atwater, J. W. Austin, Harold DeBecker, Helen Jeffries, Edgar Kent, A. Frothingham Lyons, Aliee John, Brina Ravel, William Post, Jr., and Marco Stevenson.

It is said that this promises to be one of the most worthwhile undertakings ever initiated on the North Shore, and that people everywhere are watching with keen interest the development of a summer theatrical colony in the middle west. Katherine Cornell, in an interview, has said that this is the "finest theatre season to be offered in America." The Rector's Guild of Trinity church is one of the organizations selling subscriptions for the series. Information or tickets may be had by calling Mrs. W. L. Winters, H. P. 2760.

Antique Exhibition To Be Held in Evanston

The modern hostess, antique dealer and collector, have an unusual opportunity this week, we are told, because a group of antique dealers of Chicago, northern Illinois, and Kentucky, are displaying their rarest and choicest pieces for the First Chicago and North Shore Antique Exhibition, sponsored by the Rockford College Club, at the Evanston Woman's Club on Chicago Avenue and Church street, beginning June 5 and continuing through June 8, 1935.

These usable and authentic antiques are well adapted to present day usage against the background of the modern home of moderate means or wealth. This simplest and most interesting room is often built around one fine piece, and in the collection there are many which may be used as a keynote for color harmony in a room.

Services Held May 25 for Mrs. Ellen Clarke

Mrs. Ellen Clarke, for 60 years resident of Highland Park, died suddenly on Thursday, May 23 in Evanston. The funeral was held at the home of her son, George Clarke, 643 Vine Avenue Saturday, May 25, with services at the St. James church in Highwood. Interment was in the North Shore Garden of Memorial.

Mrs. Clarke is survived by her son, George Clarke, of Highland Park and two daughters, Mrs. Edith Barrett of San Francisco and Mrs. Lillian Campbell of Indianapolis.
