D.A.R. Better Films Committee Review

July 11, Thursday: "Star of Midnight," featuring William Powell and Ginger Rogers. When a Broadway scandal-monger is killed and a popular actress kidnapped, a suave lawyer and his persistent, hard-drinking, would-be fiance solve the mystery in a surprising manner. A smart, sophisticated, fast moving film with sparkling direction, a capable cast; and many clever and risque innuendoes. Adults.

"The Peace Conference," a Krazy Kat cartoon is an amusing cleverly subtle parody on disarmament conferences.

July 12 and 13, Friday and Saturday: Will Rogers in "Handy Andy" a druggist retires because of the pressure of his socially ambitious wife, turns the tables by becoming "to social" and is rewarded when his perturbed wife allows him to return to business. An entertaining, human family picture filled with a healthy humor and hearty laughs. Family.

"Animal Intelligence," a Grantland Rice Sportlight, ten varieties of animals graded in order of their mental power. Very interesting. Family.

Saturday matinee only: "Phantom Empire," Chapter 7.

July 14-15-16, Sunday, Monday, Tuesday: Shirley Temple in "Our Little Girl." Much unhappiness and a threatened divorce between her parents are averted by a clever little girl who manages to restore their love for each other by her un-failing devotion to both. An old theme sentimentally handled, and trite in its development, is made interesting by the charm and ability of Shirley. The Scottie puppy must not be overlooked as he and the child make an excellent pair. Charming, wholesome and entertaining. Family.

July 17-18, Wednesday and Thursday: "Unknown Woman," with Marjorie Marsh and Richard Cromwell. A federal agent yarn that is somewhat different, since the agent in this case is a woman instead of a man. Family.
