

NOW AND THEN

Twenty French college students left Paris last week in two de luxe freight cars for an eighteen day tour of Brittany. It is the first of a series of trips planned by the French University Tourist Bureau and will be followed by a larger group including Americans. The cars which are said to be more comfortable than the average camp tent can be sidetracked at interesting points for excursions on bicycles or canoes.

But the best part about the trip is that everything is included in the 95 cents a day which is charged each student.

July in Alaska means daylight until 11 p.m. At Fairbanks which is in the Tundra belt the mosquitoes swarm so thickly that the natives wear head-nets and canvas gloves.

Although amateur radio hours are drawing a good share of enthusiasts, John Watt, producer of the British broadcasting system thinks that such performances are "interesting but intensely cruel" because they make light of suppressed ambitions.

Mr. Watt is amazed at the punctuality practiced by our radio stations which he speaks of as being correct down to "split seconds." In England stations frequently run over time, and Mr. Watt wonders if this rigid time schedule doesn't make our broadcasting system robot-like and spoil the artistry of the program.

It is said that Grant Wood, well-known Iowa artist, recently paid $100 for a real old-fashion suit of red flannel underwear, which he intends to preserve in a fresco.

The latest thing—a solid gasoline which is non-combustive and non-combustible! It is called Solene and was invented by Dr. Adolph Prussin of New York. When heated like lard or grease it retains its solid form and can be cut with a knife.

Someday we will all be using Solene in our cars and never fearing an explosion. But what would happen if it was dropped on the toes?

Here's one the Fascists could think over. One gentleman who traced the origin of the Fascist salute found that it is an exact reproduction of the ancient Roman salute which can be traced further back to the Greeks who got it from the Egyptians who forced their slaves to use it as a sign of submission.

Highland Park Once Had a Real Pier—July, 1874

Item from the "Highland Park News," which later became the Highland Park Press:

"Highland Park has been favored with several picnic parties this season. The grounds on the bluff overlooking the lake near the pier present a very picturesque and attractive appearance on these occasions, and our visitors for a day never fail to go home pleased and refreshed with their sojourn here. The largest of the Goodrich steamers land at this pier without difficulty, and the distance consumes just enough time to make the sail desirable. Several more parties have arranged to come up this season, and an extra train or boat load of excursionists is now a matter of a daily occurrence."

"Dogdays," 1874

"We have received numerous communications, verbal and otherwise, concerning 'Dog Ordinances,' but not having space for all and desiring to be impartial, have been compelled to omit them and content ourselves with saying that whatever we may think of unmuzzled dogs, we are ardent advocates of unmuzzled pens and an unmuzzled press."

Levy is president.

This will be the eighth annual summer gathering of the Sisterhood always with a two-fold purpose in mind: To provide a source of revenue with which to carry on the philanthropic work outlined for the coming year, and to offer the privilege of assembly out-of-doors on a midsummer afternoon.

The concert will be preceded by many smaller social gatherings, as members are taking this opportunity of inviting their friends to a luncheon and then to hear the brilliant guest-artists of the afternoon. All are welcome.

INTERESTING BUSINESS BRIEFS

Employment: has gained 60 per cent in heavy industries since March 1933; shown a lesser advance in consumer industries. The unemployment rate now estimated at about nine million.

Industrial activity: has fooled the forecasters, by holding up better this year than was anticipated; was at 85 per cent of the 1923-25 average in May, and the first half of 1935 was 5 per cent better than the same period last year.

Automobiles: first half production was 35 per cent over same period in 1934, represented the highest volume since 1929.

Steel: Steel makers are hopeful, and the usual summer decline has been less severe than in the past. Structural steel business is good, due to government orders.

Mining: Copper prices recently took a sharp drop, following the elimination of NRA price-fixing. Silver values also declined lately, due largely to the Treasury's refusal to buy additional silver stocks in large quantities.

Agriculture: It is estimated that the farmer's 1935 income will be about the same as in 1934, which registered a billion-dollar jump over 1933. Crops will be larger this year than last, but prices will probably be lower.

Labor: Latest trouble has occurred in New England textile mills, where the union recently called a strike on one large operator, is threatening others. It is said to be inevitable that there will soon be a strike of cloak and suit workers in the east. Potential labor troubles have most big industries nervous.
