

NOW AND THEN

It is only a three day's drive from Chicago to a country whose settlements are like Normandy towns of 200 years ago. Ninety per cent of the City of Quebec and all the villages around it comprise a French Canada which has its own laws and customs that are practically unknown even to the English-speaking residents who live within its borders.

Although the natives of French Canada do not live a great distance from the modern City of Montreal, most of them have never heard a radio, driven in a car, or seen a movie. They are governed by French civil law, not the law of modern France, but the Napoleonic Code, practically unchanged.

In order to keep their racial customs, the French Canadians have passed laws banning the use of all but French names for the numerous little inns and making it compulsory for the inns to do everything in keeping with the old traditions.

Religion is the great thing in the lives of the French Canadians. Each village clusters about a Catholic church and when the chimes for mass echo up and down the Saint Lawrence river the roads are filled with people walking to church, or riding in ancient buggies and dog carts, or bicycling.

After mass, the town erier mounts the steps of the church and cries out the news as in olden times. Spinning wheels, hand looms and hand-been furniture are in everyday use.

By the treaty of Paris in 1763 England is in possession of the Quebec territory, but the ancient racial ties have proved stronger to the people of Quebec than any treaty.

Rudyard Kipling provides funds for the sounding of a "Last Post" every night at the village of Loos in memory of his son Lieutenant John Kipling of the Irish Guards.

Perhaps, you saw the jeweled replica of Mount Vernon which was exhibited in the Japanese pavilion at the Century of Progress. Fifteen months of work were required to construct this pearl Mount Vernon which contains 12,000 pearls and 12,000 pieces of mother of pearl.

As a gesture of good will its maker, Mr. Kokichi Milimota, a Japanese scientist who is also the world's largest producer of cultured pearls, has given it to the Smithsonian institute.

Again turning back the pages of the "Highland Park Press" to October of 1874, we find the "Highland Park News," as The Press was then called, describing the feeling of Sunday in Highland Park.

"Sunday there is none at Highland Park. Here the Sabbath rules, the same old quiet, peaceable Sabbath which as children in our home we learned to love. In the city the day is Sunday; merely one of the days of the week. Here it is more."

"How often we hear men saying—men who make no pretensions to superior enjoyment of 'Sabbath Privileges'—'Well, it's worth a week's traveling to spend a Sunday at Highland Park.'"

"The day is so quiet here, no sounds save the voices of nature and our single Sabbath bell. Rest and restful thoughts these our Sabbath brings. And in the city there is something that well might be lacking of noisy streets and moving cars and thronging crowds and open doors emitting vapors of rum and ruin."

"We are no sticklers for rigid observances. We hold it no sin here to wander forth in our lovely ravines, in our beautiful woods, and along the grand sweep of our noble lake, and listen to the wind driven leaves and the spray tossing waters singing in unwritten music 'Holiness to the Lord.'"

"After church there are the quiet, dreamy, restful hours of the afternoon. There is home in them, home in all its sweetness; there is a peace in them, peace in all its loveliness. The hour's run into evening before we know it."

"The evening passes only too quickly and we require to sleep and rise better and stronger men and women, because we have spent a Sabbath at Highland Park."

Boy Scout News

Jamboree Scouts to Isle Royale

On Monday night of this week twenty-two Scouts of the North Shore Area council who were to have gone to the National Scout Jamboree in Washington, boarded the train at Highland Park bound for Negaunee, Mich., where they were to be transported to Houghton, Mich., where they boarded a fishing boat, which took them to Isle Royale, the largest island in fresh water in the United States. The Scouts will be there, on Isle Royale, for six days after which time they will return to Highland Park, arriving Wednesday 28th of August. The Isle Royale trip is a substitute for the National Jamboree and promises to be one of thrilling and valuable experience for all who are in the party. There are more moose on Isle Royale per square mile than any other place in the United States and a lot of good pictures will probably be brought home, of moose and other wild life. The trip is made possible through the cooperation of Mr. Charles P. Spurr, Scout executive of the Hiawatha council at Marquette, Mich., and the camp committee of the council. The party will be using equipment furnished by the Hiawatha Area council.

"This Week," a magazine section appearing in twenty-one Sunday newspapers including the Chicago Daily News, had as the cover design for its August 17th issue a fine painting of a Boy Scout, designed by Walter Beach Humphrey and a special article, "Boyhood's Jubilee" by Paul A. Siple, who represented the Boy Scouts of America on the first Byrd Antarctic Expedition of 1928-30 and who served Admiral Byrd on his recent second Antarctic Expedition as chief biologist.

Mr. Siple's article should have been of interest to everyone interested in Scouting.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Soul" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 18.

The Golden Text was, "I will set my tabernacle among you; and I will walk among you, and you shall be my people" (Lev. 26:11, 12).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "O bless our God, ye people, and make the voice of his praise to be heard: Which holdeth our soul in life, and suffereth not our feet to be moved" (Psalms 66:8, 9).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "If it is true that man lives, this fact can never change in Science to the opposite belief that man dies. Life is the law of Soul, even the law of the spirit of Truth, and Soul is never without its representative. Man's individual being can no more die nor disappear in unconsciousness than can Soul, for both are immortal" (p. 427:1-7).
