D.A.R. BETTER FILMS COMMITTEE REVIEW

"Bonnie Scotland" with Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy—Thursday and Friday, Dec. 19-20. In search of a legacy, Laurel and Hardy unintentionally join the Scotch army. Off to India they go, burlesquing the Bengal Lancers. They perform their usual hilarious antics. Family.

"Slightly Static"—Thelma Todd and Patsy Kelly add unscheduled merriment to a radio program.

"Harmony Lane" featuring Douglas Montgomery. Dec. 21, Saturday. The biography of Stephen Foster forms the theme for this charming musical film. The beloved Foster songs combine with Negro spirituals and exquisite photography to create a fitting background for the tragic story of the composer's life. William Frawley gives a notable characterization of the minstrel-thirsty. Family.

"Broadway Melody of 1936"—Jack Benny, Robert Taylor and Eleanor Powell. Dec. 22, 23, 24. Sunday, Monday, Tuesday. The story in which a keyhole columnist popularize the success of an extravagant New York revue is amusing and human. A notable cast. Each an artist in his particular field. Captivating music, a scintillating ballet, exquisite novelty dance numbers—all combine to make excellent entertainment for any audience. Family.

"Special Agent" with Bette Davis, George Brent. Federal conviction of a powerful public enemy is presented from a new angle in a series of thrilling episodes. High moral standards and a hearty respect for "governments"—methods are maintained throughout. A competent cast supports the fine acting of the principals. Excellent direction and photography. Adults.
