

BEDDING FOR DOGS

—by—
Albert Butterworth

The sanitary arrangements for house dogs are often a source of a great deal of anxiety on the part of their owners, especially when the weather is apt to be wet and rough.

Many dogs are unwilling, to say the least, to go outside in wet weather, and are therefore inclined to be dirty in the house. However, if training to paper is attempted, it will be found that the puppy will learn in surprisingly short period of time to adapt himself to this system, which enables both the family and the dog to enjoy freedom from unnecessary inconvenience. Those animals which are particularly clean in the house and who will not go out into wet weather for the performance of their natural physiological functions are often subject to kidney, liver, and intestinal troubles which may lead to more serious systemic disturbances, unless arrangements are made for their relief through the paper, or some other similar system.

People who have no real facilities for the exercise of the dog, such as a yard or garden, and those who keep the larger breeds such as the Shepherd, Airedale, or Collie, can at least following the fundamentals laid down for the care of the smaller dogs.

However, it is not often possible or convenient to provide a basket or box large enough to administer suitably to his comfort, in which case a "bed" may be made up anywhere there is a minimum of draft and cold air, though the hall is never a good place for the housing of man's best friend despite the amount of protection and security this would give to the household, unless a great deal of care is taken to exclude the breezes which find their way under the average front door.

Edwin Burgess, Candidate for Clerk of Circuit Court

Edwin Burgess, popular and widely known Lake Forest official, is a candidate for the office of clerk of the Circuit Court in Lake county. Rumors that Mr. Burgess would be a candidate for a county post only after being petitioned to do so by citizens generally throughout Lake county, declared Mr. Burgess. "I have already been assured of sizeable support in every one of the 75 precincts of Lake county. I believe I possess every qualification necessary to properly and fittingly conduct the office of Circuit Clerk."

Mr. Burgess is married and the father of three children. His home is in Lake Forest at 391 East Deerpath. He is 50 years of age and has resided in Lake Forest for the past 30 years. He is police magistrate of Lake Forest, being now in his third term, or 11 years, in this office.

Mr. Burgess was primarily responsible for the building of the beautiful and highly modern Deerpath inn at 255 East Illinois road, Lake Forest, which is considered one of the best and most exclusive hotels in the Chicago area. This structure was constructed at a cost of $500,000 in 1929 by the Lake Forest Hotel company, and Mr. Burgess was president and manager of this corporation from 1929 to 1932.

In politics Judge Burgess has always been affiliated with the Republican party. He has for many years worked tirelessly in national, state and county campaigns for the interests of the Republican party. Only once before has he sought a county office, being defeated in the race for the Republican nomination for the office of County Treasurer in 1934 by the present holder of this post. Although Mr. Burgess entered that campaign at a late date after many of the voters had pledged themselves to support other candidates for this office, he received a large vote and made a most favorable impression on the public by the clean and highly spirited campaign he waged. After losing out in this primary he supported the Republican nominee in the fall. In fact in the 1934 election campaign he managed the Republican headquarters in Waukegan and performed this arduous job in a splendid manner. He is a member of the Republican county central committee and for the last 3 years has served on the executive committee of this organization.

Deweyers Ask $11,000 for Accident Injuries

Vincent Quarta Sr., owner of the Bartlett theater in Highwood, and his son are named defendants in a suit started in circuit court by Matt Deweyer and his wife, Alice, for $11,000 for injuries received in an automobile accident.

The bill of complaint filed by the law firm of Gail & Behanna in behalf of the Deweyers alleges that Vincent Quarta Jr. was driving the automobile owned by his father and used in the administration of business of the theater when it was in collision with the automobile driven by Deweyer with his wife as a passenger at Highwood and Waukegan avenue, Highwood, on August 19, 1935.

Community Forum Discusses Neutrality

Assets and liabilities under the mandatory or discretionary powers allowed the President in proposed neutrality laws were balanced and counter-balanced around the Neutrality Round Table held Tuesday night at the Y. W. C. A. A representative and keenly interested audience questioned and tried to think through the many angles of how to keep out of war entanglements and still throw our power on the side of justice wherever possible.

Among the opinions that seemed to grow out of the discussion were that this country cannot remain safely out of future continued wars until there are no more wars between any nations; that the league, while an inefficient machine as it now exists, is one of the most possible means for world peace; that economic boycott or applied sanctions is the powerful force that can be used most wisely.

Professor S. A. Hartzog, head of the political science department at Lake Forest college brought out some surprising facts from the early days of "freedom of the seas." Mrs. Clifton Utley reviewed the difficulties of being a fair neutral as shown in our problems of the world war. Elbridge Bancroft Pierce pointed out the main points of difference between the two current bills of neutrality.

A difference in opinion between the leaders of the Round Table on whether future actions could be likened to a football team wherein the success of the game depended on the wisdom of the players, or on whether international relations should not be such a game of strategy, but rather one of definitely defined rules that all nations know in advance, added to the keen interest in the discussion. How far up and how far down neutrality can be enforced in view of air and submarine travel made listeners realize the far reaching new problems of this century. Comments on definitions of what goods are contraband,—"everything except ostrich feathers and pulpits" it was remarked—increased the opinion that an economic boycott or applied sanctions, while difficult to enforce, would be the most effective and least costly means of stopping war in the long run.

Mrs. Corliss Anderson, chairman of the Leadership Council of the Y. W. C. A. and chairman of the evening, had to call the meeting to a close while questions still waited for more discussions. Edith Lovejoy Pierce, chairman of the Public Affairs committee of the Y. W. C. A. encouraged by several in the audience suggested the possibility of having some national topic for the next discussion since an international one had been presented at this first in the series. Summing up the value of discussions such as that on neutrality Mrs. Pierce commented "I feel that a balanced and enlightened public mind immune to propaganda is our greatest safeguard against war or any international misunderstandings. The press and the radio are powerful means that can be used for either constructive or prejudiced attitudes."

Miles Conway Dies; Funeral Friday

Miles Conway passed away Tuesday at his farm home in West Lake Forest (Everett) where he was born seventy-two years ago. Funeral services will be held Friday morning at St. Patrick's church in West Lake Forest and interment will be in St. Patrick's cemetery with Father Fielding officiating.

Mr. Conway was a director in the Vernon school, later moved to Everett and was for years a trustee of St. Patrick's church.

His wife, who before her marriage was Minnie Carroll, passed away about fifteen years ago, and since that time his eldest daughter, Mary, has kept house for him.

Surviving him are eleven children, Mary, John, Esther, Coletta, Vincent, Carroll, Rose and Rita (twins), Anna, Bennett, and Ambrose. A daughter, Florence, preceded her father in death. The sons and daughters all live in this vicinity except the youngest son, Ambrose, who is a Christian Brother in a Minneapolis Monastery.
