The Recipe Box

Conducted by PHIL LIBBY

Director, Home Service Department
Highland Park Press and Deerfield Press

(Editor's Note: You are invited to write your questions about recipes or household information to Phil Libby, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. He will be glad to answer you promptly. It will be impossible to answer questions received by telephone.)

Starting tomorrow and running through until the 11th of February, (except Sundays.) I will be at the North Shore Gas company's model kitchen, at 47 S. St. Johns avenue, for the purpose of preparing food by both methods, hot and cold cooking.

Each morning will be devoted to the main dish of a dinner, a different meat, fish or fowl each day. The afternoons will be given over to cake baking, pie and refrigerator dishes. Salads also will be prepared one afternoon.

You may come in any time during the day and watch the preparation of these dishes. I will be glad to give you recipes of the dishes I am preparing.

As you no doubt know, it is hard to find a real true orange flavoring extract. I have found a real good one, one that holds up under baking, it is manufactured by the Seely Mfg. company. If you can't find it write me or ask me where to get it at the demonstration.

Deerfield Building Destroyed by Fire

Hampered by bitter cold (28° below zero on local thermometers in the business district) that froze water as soon as it left the nozzles, Deerfield and Highland Park firemen battled a blaze in Mayor H. E. Wing's $35,000 building on Waukegan Road, Deerfield, for six hours Wednesday night.

The building (which is occupied by the Deerfield A & P store and two second floor apartments leased to Frances Golden and Helen Mau) was considerably damaged, only the walls remaining standing.

The fire started in the boiler room on the upper floor where the apartments are located. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Mayor Wing's loss of at least $12,000 is covered by insurance. The entire stock of the A & P store was a total loss, but the manager, Albert Bartels, could not estimate the amount of the stock carried. It is presumed that value exceeded $10,000. It was sold out to Maxwell Street Merchants on Friday.

The fire broke out about 10:20 p. m. and for a while the entire business district was threatened.

A roof is being put on immediately before heavy snow hampers the work. The rebuilding is also under way and contracts will be let this week.

Mayor Wing anticipates that the remodeling will be completed within thirty days.

Deerfield Club Postpones Meeting

Because of sub-zero weather on Tuesday, the Deerfield Woman's Club did not meet. Mrs. Marc Law who was to have spoken on "American Citizenship," will give her talk before the group on March 24.

The next meeting of the Deerfield Woman's Club will be held on Feb. 11. Mrs. Leslie Brand of the home and education department will introduce Mrs. O. F. Paisley, who will speak on "International Relations," at that time.

Mrs. H. Plagge Dies; Buried Saturday

Mrs. Henry Plagge, age 84 years, died Thursday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Floyd Stanger in Deerfield.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at Bethlehem Evangelical Church with Rev. Earl J. Brusco officiating and burial was in the North Northfield Cemetery.

Mrs. Plagge, who was Sarah Fritsch, a daughter of Frederick and Barbara Fritsch, was born on April 9, 1851, in West Deerfield Township. Her early life was spent in this vicinity and she attended the Wilmot school. She married Henry Plagge March 22, 1878 and they lived in the Fritsch homestead on County Line Road. In 1894 they built a fine brick home in Deerfield (now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Weigle) where they lived until the death of Mrs. Plagge in 1922.

Mrs. Plagge continued to live in Deerfield and made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Stanger.

Surviving are three daughters, Miss Louella Plagge of Chicago; Mrs. P. N. Butson (Winifred) of Estherville, Iowa, and Mrs. Stanger (Una) of Deerfield.

1936 IS THE TIME TO BUILD

The Revival of an American Tradition

Americans are home-seekers. Down through the years—the early colonists, the pioneers trekking across the western prairies, even the development of our modern metropolitan centers—always the establishment of a home has been an ultimate objective. It has become an American tradition.

An impulse so deep-set in the heart of the American family as is the desire for a home, cannot long be checked by even a great economic upheaval. A business depression, no matter how severe, is only a momentary interruption in the American procession toward the comfort and security of home life.

Today all over this country the procession has started again, after almost a decade of interruption. The hearthstones now being laid throughout Chicagoland not only typify this native desire to create a home, but also indicate the diversity of this great residential area where desirable living conditions and attractive homesites of all sorts can be found.

For the metropolitan Chicago area holds everything the home-maker is looking for. Whether a suburban city close to Chicago's business center, a countryside community more removed from the city but with all the city's conveniences—whether a country estate, a farm under cultivation, or a home in one of the thriving downstate communities—whatever the ideal in the home-seeker's mind, it is to be found here.

Having served much of this widespread homeland with electricity and gas for a quarter of a century, our Company takes a natural interest in the home development that has only lately been resumed. This interest is obviously based both on the prospect of serving an increasing number of customers, and on a desire to assist in bringing to the attention of home-builders something of the new comforts and conveniences which modern science and engineering have developed while building, itself, has been dormant.

If you are contemplating a home in the attractive residential area served by this Company, give us a chance to help you in planning for your electric or gas service requirements. We can also give you practical cost estimates—perhaps helpful ideas—on other features of modern homes: automatic heating—insulation—air conditioning—electric kitchens—modern laundries and basement recreation rooms—latest lighting and wiring improvements and other conveniences that increase the comfort of living. We will be glad to consult with you, your architect or your contractor. Inquire at any of our offices, or write—
