GRANDFATHER'S CLOCK

"Tick-tock, tick-tock!"
That is grandfather's clock.
"Tick-tock" all the day,
At the hour a tune to play.
"Tick-tock, tick-tock!"

At a corner of the stair,
This old clock is always there.
He's just a hundred today,
It must be quite a bore to say,
Just "Tick-tock, tick-tock."
Anna McPherson, Grade 6,
Elm Place School.

The Elm Place Band

The Elm Place Band played at the Green Bay Road school last Tuesday. The boys and girls liked it very much. Since the last program given at the Elm Place school the band has gained many new players.

The members of the band are:
Cornets—Junior Hutchison, Frank Russo, Arthur Swanson, Dick Hansen, David Johnson, Bob Zaeske, Bob Preus, Jack Shapiro, Burton Tillman, Don Burnham.
Clarinets—Dick Schaff, Harry West, Enid Ball, La Nelle Spalding, David Worth, Bob Wolters, Donna Jean Greene, Anita Werner, Susan Lackner, Verne Moon, David Sloan.
Flute—Ray Werhane.
Bass horns—Charles Shanafelt, Fred Clavey.

Drums—George Bard, Jim Kirk.

BRAESIDE SCHOOL

EIGHTH GRADE CLUB

The eighth grade of Braeside school have just organized an eighth grade club. The usual officers, president, vice president, secretary and treasurer were elected. The vice-president is also social chairman. The people have been voted for and elected to write the class prophecy, will and history.

A boy and a girl were chosen to work on each one of them. The four officers will plan a number of activities for the raising of money, so that they may leave a nice gift for the school.—Marilyn Will, Grade 8.

POETRY

We are studying poetry in our room at school. We are drawing illustrations of our favorite poems. Some of us are writing original poems for our poetry books. These are some of our favorite poems: Robert Louis Stevenson, Hilda Conkling, Dorothy Aldis, James Whitcomb, Riley and Nancy Byrd Turner. There are many other poets we like.—Howard Jacobs, Grade 4.

RAVINIA SCHOOL

EIGHTH GRADE PROJECT

For several months the eighth grade room has been a scene of much bustle. The outcome of it is a set of murals upon the wall and an extensive castle in the back of the room.

We began a study of Ivanhoe in the beginning of the school year after a short history of England from the Norman Conquest to King John's reign. We were all very interested in this romantic tale and later decided to make some murals picturing the story and also a castle of that time.

The boys drew up plans for the castle and the best was used. The girls began the murals in art and worked on them in their spare time. Altogether, there are 14 murals. Each girl had one scene to do except one of which two people worked. They were made in chalk and showed all of the most important periods in the story from Brian de Bois Guilbert's passage through the woods to Rebecca's farewell.

The castle was made from old salt boxes, oatmeal boxes and a various assortment of cartons. First, the foundation of beaver board was placed on two card tables. Then the girls helped make the bailey wall, the towers, turrets, stable and main house. A moat was fashioned out of blue paper and the stockades were made of corrugated paper. A little drawbridge was placed over the moat, fastened by real chains. The girls painted the whole castle in gray and the bricks were put on in black. As a crowning feature, the walls and towers were covered with tiny, paper ivy, and green paper grass was placed around the courtyard.

Small figures were made out of paper mache and a hill was built of sheets, which we painted to represent rocks, covering the table legs. We are very proud of our castle and murals and wish to invite each and all of you to come and view them.—Mary Binder, Grade 8.

LINCOLN SCHOOL

A TRIP TO MEXICO

My mother and father just came back from Mexico. They flew down in an airplane. Their trunk was held up in Laredo, Texas, because of a new law so they had to wear Mexican clothes. They brought back some Mexican coins and a relic from an old Aztec ruin. They enjoyed their trip very much and I hope that they will take me along on their next trip to Mexico.—Eddie Weil, Grade 3.

Tuesday the first grade and Miss Lantz went to the Highland Park Post Office. Mr. Schneider showed them the stamps and the way they send the letters to different places. The first grade learned a great deal about the handling of mail.

RIDGE SCHOOL

OUR SLEIGH RIDE

Shouts and laughter filled the air on the afternoon of February 13, as two sleighs pulled away from Ridge school. We were all going for a sleigh ride. When we started it was sleeting but this soon turned into big fleecy snow flakes which made the loveliest sight you could imagine. There were some bells on the horses that were tinkling as we rode along. Every time we came to a snow drift we would jump into it. In a short time we all looked like snowmen. After our ride all the way to Ravinia we came back to school where we found some hot cocoa and cookies waiting for us. I think that sleigh ride was one of the best times I have ever had.—Alice Johnson, Grade 7.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

by Kathryn Weinberg

A leap year dance held Saturday evening at the Lake Forest high school was pronounced a success by all who attended. The dance was under the direction of Mrs. Allen and Mr. Nelson.

"Student Stunts," the annual affair at Deerfield-Shields, will be held this year on May 19. Try-outs will begin on April 1.

Stunts is a program which is made up entirely of student talent. The profit from this affair is used for the Richard L. Sandwick scholarship fund.

The sailing club held its first meeting after school last Wednesday.

Advanced tappers in Miss Thompson's classes have been trying out their own original dances.

The first swimming club of the Highland Park high school has been organized by the girls' gym department. Instead of being open merely once a week, the pool will be available to girls every Monday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Miss Wood's art students were working on posters for the Girls' conference which is to be held this year at the Highland Park high school.

Representatives from many of the colleges will be here March 4 to discuss future education with the junior and senior students.

Paul Rubley, a graduate of Deerfield-Shields, has been "burning up" the track at Notre Dame. An article about him appeared recently in Notre Dame's official paper, "The Scholastic."

According to final senior ratings compiled by Mr. Pertz, Elise Fleagert will be valedictorian and Lorene Lindstrom will be salutatorian of the class of 1936.

Driving tests were given to the students by the Chicago Motor club Thursday and Friday last week.

Molly Grinnell, ex-Deerfield-Shields student, has been selected as the freshman member of the Social committee at Swarthmore.

David Canmann, former Deerfield-Shields student has been made a member of Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic fraternity of the Carleton College chapter.

Mary Lou Keaster will be initiated into Chi Omega sorority, and Lew Sarett will be initiated into Phi Kappa Psi fraternity at Northwestern. Both are former Deerfield-Shields students.

DEERFIELD SCHOOL

On Thursday, February 13, Mr. Russ Alford, the county clerk came to our school and told the 7th and 8th graders about the work of the county clerk. On Tuesday, February 18, Mr. R. M. Lobdell, the Superintendent of Highways came and told of his work. Both of these men were very interesting. Having these men, is a project of the Auxiliary of the American Legion and we are most grateful to them for making it possible for us to get first hand information about the county officials and their work.

Last Thursday morning States Attorney Charles E. Mason explained his duties to the upper grades.

The Love Pirates of Hawaii. A operetta full of good songs, pretty girls, daring pirates, snappy dialogue, zest, life, and "pep" will be given in the auditorium Friday, March 13, 1936. Save this date and save your coins so that you will have the price of admission.

banter filled the program. We are developing some very ardent collectors as well as some fine collections. Any body is cordially invited whether a stamp collector or not. The Michigan Centennial Commemorative stamp has two Latin inscriptions.

On the scroll above the eagle crest is the Latin motto of the United States—E Pluribus Unum, meaning literally, "One from Many"; that is one nation from many states. On a scroll underneath the shield is the Latin legend, Si quaeris peninsulam amoenam circumspeice, which may be translated, "if you seek a pleasant peninsula look about you."

Men's Chorus, Sunday at Bethany Church Throughout March

About 20 men, from a number of the Evangelical churches of Chicago, have formed what is known as the Albright Brotherhood Chorus. This group have been singing at many of the Evangelical churches in the Chicago area on the second Sunday evening of each month. This will be their third appearance at Bethany. All members and friends of the church are invited to hear this group. Their concert will be followed by a short message by the pastor, Rev. H. F. Siemsen. The service will begin at 7:45 p.m. next Sunday evening.

Candidate For State Senator

Leo Dailey
Permit me to extend my sincere congratulations on the 25th anniversary of the founding of the Highland Park Press. The record of achievement of your newspaper and the people of Highland Park during the last twenty-five years is one of which you may well feel proud. A quarter of a century is a long time in any business but when a newspaper serves a community ably and faithfully for that length of time the owners of that paper can take satisfaction in the thought that their's is a task well performed.

It is my earnest hope that you will continue to serve the people of Highland Park and surrounding communities as efficiently and conscientiously in the future as you have in the past.

Wishing the Highland Park Press and the people of Highland Park the fullest measure of happiness and success now and in the years to come, I am

Very truly yours,
LEO DAILEY,
Democratic candidate for State Senator.

BURTON HOLMES' "TOURISTS" TO VISIT NORMANDY & BRITANNY

Continuing his interesting and colorful travel revues at Orchestra hall, Burton Holmes will present on Friday evening and Saturday afternoon of this week, his pictured impressions of the East Coast of South America when he will highlight the animated life and tempo of those ultra-modern cities which stretch along the Oriental coast line of this vast continent—Buenos Aires, Montevideo, Santos, San Paulo and Rio de Janeiro. On next Wednesday and Friday night and again on Saturday afternoon, Mr. Holmes is to lend his knowledge and guidance on a tour through "Normandy and Brittany."

Abroad the splendid "Normandie" Mr. Holmes takes his auditor-spectators to the great port of LeHavre. Thence by motor car to proud old Rouen with its great Gothic cathedral and its abiding memories of Joan the Maid. Nearby we are to see the famous ruins of Jumièges, the marvelous cloisters of Saint Wandrille and Lisieux, with its shrine of Ste. Therese. Also with their special claims on the visitor are Falaise and Caen and Bayeux—all calling to mind the pomp and splendor of Norman times. In Falaise, William the Conqueror was born in 1027, in beautiful old Caen he is buried, Bayeux has a magnificent cathedral and is the proud possessor of a world famous tapestry, depicting the Battle of Hastings and the Norman Conquest. Beyond our road leads to Brittany—Land and Pardon—unchanging through the centuries, and filled with such charmingly quaint old places as Pont Aven and Concarneau, haunts of artists from all over the world, lovely old Quimper, all fables and gables, picturesque Paimpol and the "Pierre Loti Country" of the Iceland fisherman, St. Malo, with its encircling ramparts—famous as the birthplace of Jacques Cartier the explorer. And of course, Mont St. Michel, one of the wonders of Europe, with its Abbey of the Middle Ages, its chapels, cloisters and dependent town.

What are believed to be the oldest ostrich eggs in the world have been unearthed during excavations at Maadi, suburb of Cairo, Egypt. They are said to be more than 50 centuries old.

Ravinia Garden Club Meets Mar. 13

The regular meeting of the Ravinia Garden club will be held at the home of Mrs. E. L. Easton, 1875 Groveland avenue, at 2 o'clock on Friday, March -13.

Mrs. Raymond Watts will speak on "The Origin of Garden Plants." Mrs. Jacob Weinberg, garden counselor, has consented to give us a bulletin for each monthly meeting, informing us of the work which should be done in our own gardens. The first of these monthly bulletins will be read at this meeting. Mrs. H. H. Small and Mrs. P. D. Stokes will be co-hostesses.

When C. M. GARLAND wrote the

if he had desired to be sensational, he might legitimately have called this remarkable book

The Prostitution of The U. S. A.

For it is no dry compilation of economic data, but an intensely gripping recital, a vivid pictorialization of a perverted era in civilization that threatened the existence of a nation. Never before have the corrupting, demoralizing influences that even yet menace the stability of this country, been so ruthlessly exposed or so vehemently denounced, as in this that honestly, fearlessly, and competently sets forth the causes of depression, and points out the obvious remedies. Do not be deceived by the wrangling of clever politicians, too often secretly controlled by the emissaries of selfish interest, or by the ravings of commercialized press. Know for yourself the conditions that brought on our last debacle and the ones that foretell another of possibly greater intensity.

ASTONISHING WORK

Is the First Great Book on Depression

"One reads Mr. Garland's book, 'Depressions and Their Solution,' with a sense of knowing just what he is talking about. . . . This author's outstanding recommendation is his lucidity in treatment and his method of attack. . . . His analysis is an all embracing one, including not alone economic but moral and philosophical issues. . . . The seriousness of the context is enlivened by a sense of humor."—Investment News, N. Y.

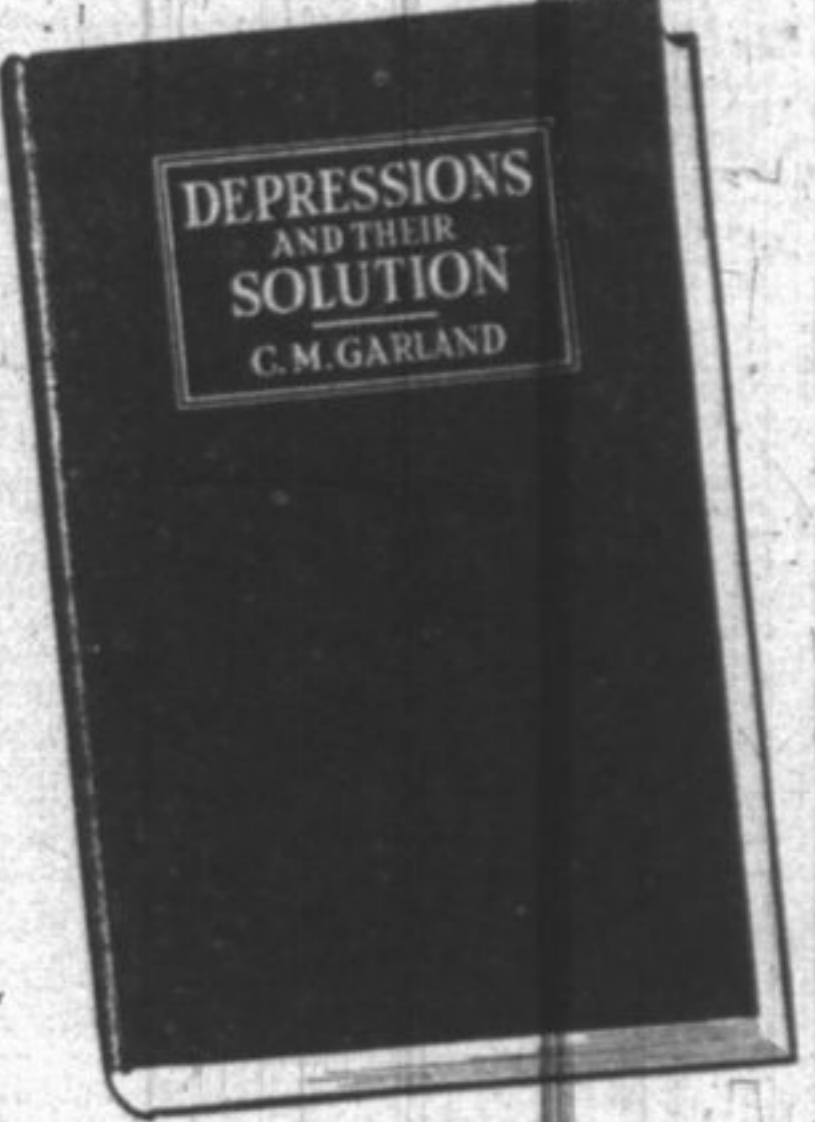

A well-known minister writes, ". . . much in the author I admire and he has revealed situations I did not dream existed and given me view of depressions and their cure. . . . startlingly new."

". . . there probably has been written no book so scathing in its denunciation of the pernicious practices of the last two decades, or so radically different in its treatment of the economic, moral, and philosophical aspects of the problem of depression. . . . the book is timely. . . . interesting. . . . informative."—Vanderbilt Alumnus.

"A timely book on a timely subject and written by a man who knows. . . . his frankness at times verges on brutality in its refusal to recognize as sacred or holy any creed or theory existent in either the financial, industrial, mercantile, or political fields of thought and action. If anyone wants the low-down on the causes of depression, Garland surely supplies the answer. . . ."—Federation News, Chicago.

A well-known lawyer writes: "Here is a book that should be used in every high school and college as a text book. Every student, business man, professional man and citizen should secure a copy of this book and read and digest the contents of this startling criticism of our economic system."—Paris E. Woolery, in "Book Chat."

"There is not space here to follow the earnest, thoughtful writer through the ramifications of his argument, but it will pay any conscientious citizen to give the necessary time for individual perusal of Mr. Garland's book."—Times, Trenton, N.J.

There is much in it that is commendable. . . . the book is well worth reading."—The News and Observer, Raleigh, N. C.

"Garland. . . rips into the Republicans, Democrats, and large predatory interests with an animated gusto that makes his printed pages fairly scream to the blue skies. . . . He grabs the depression by the horns and attempts rather well, in the opinion of this department, to tell John Q. Public the low-down on the situation."—Philadelphia Daily News.

"A well known commercial writer says: 'It is a book that should be in every public and school library. Your fearlessness in the exposure of the lion, etc., . . . gives the book a unique place. . . . It is entertainingly written and once it is started, it will be read through to the end.'

"He (Garland) knows history, uses it concretely, with power, and does not hesitate to call a spade a spade, no matter how high up. He writes with a peculiarly charming fluency and aptness of illustration. . . ."—Nashville Banner.

Every earnest, conscientious citizen who has read DEPRESSIONS AND THEIR SOLUTION looks you squarely in the eye and says:
