

HAVEN CONFERENCE OFFERS

PRACTICAL HOMEMAKING ADVICE

District 21 P.-T. A. Conducted Sessions in Evanston Friday

Practical suggestions in the art of homemaking were offered in abundance by speakers at the home-

Mrs. D. G. Robertson of the Hearstone, Hubbard Woods making conference held by District 21 of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers last Friday at Haven school, Evanston.

Several hundred parent-teacher members from the entire north shore and communities to the westward gathered for the event, which was the first of its kind held in this state and may possibly serve as a model for similar conferences in other districts.

Exhibit Handicraft

All the local P.-T. A. groups, under leadership of the Central Council of School Clubs, participated and contributed to the exhibit of handicraft which was held during the afternoon. Included in the display were knitted garments, articles of pewter, brass and wood, paintings and sculpture, and quilts dating back to colonial days. The handicraft classes of the bureau of recreation lent an exhibit of their work, and among other features were samples of Russian art and a display of dolls and doll clothes made by an invalid girl.

The answer to the perplexing problem—what to have for Sunday night supper—was answered by Mrs. Don Robertson of the Hearstone, Hubbard Woods, who gave a cooking demonstration on the auditorium stage at 12:00.

She gave menus for Sunday evening suppers of unusual touches which delight the guests and which help to make a dinner or supper party a success. Among the recipes demonstrated were cucumbers chicken, tulip-tomato salad and butter flowers.

For the children's luncheon or dinner the following: Rabbits made of mashed potatoes, boat salad and clown desert.
