Two-Hundred Species of Migratory Birds Here in May
 The spring migration of birds will soon be at its height. During May about two-hundred species of birds can be observed in our region. Half that number will stay with us and nest, while the others will go farther north to their nesting grounds. The weather determines how long our spring migrants stay with us. If it is warm in late April and the first weeks of May the birds pass through gradually. If cold weather prevails they are held farther south, and with the first warm days, come in a mad rush, stay a few days, then depart. Almost all birds migrate at night, stopping to feed and rest during the day. During the next three weeks about sixty kinds of birds will be nesting in and about Highland Park. Some birds are already nesting here; Sunday I found two robin nests, each containing eggs. More knowledge of bird migrations is obtained annually. The birds are trapped alive, a numbered aluminum band is placed on one leg and the bird is released unharmed. Other bird banders may by chance, recapture the bird and learn from whence it came. Bird banding in America dates back to the time of Audobon, who, about 1803 began marking birds with silver wire. Since that time the activities of other men, through extensive and systematic banding, obtained a tremendous amount of avian knowledge. All bird banders are required to have a federal banding permit. This is to give no one the opportunity to trap birds for food under false pretenses. The bander must also have knowledge of all the species of birds found in the region of the banding station. I have had many interesting experiences with the birds I have banded. Some have made long flights in their migrations, others have taken queer routes and others have met with disaster in the south. Monday I retrapped a bluebird which I had banded in our yard in the summer of 1933. I had not seen the bird since the fall of that year, but it has again returned to get food in Highland Park. Many birds are captured in the spring and then retaken in the fall during the migration to the southland. When the birds are retrapped no other bands placed on one leg and the bird is released unharmed. Other sent to the Bureau of Biological Survey. If you find a banded bird killed or injured remove the band and forward it to the Survey in Washington, D.C. If possible, give full details of how you believe the bird met with disaster.

North Shore Congregation To Observe Its Fifteenth Anniversary

The North Shore Congregation Israel of Glencoe is planning to celebrate the fifteenth anniversary of its founding on Sunday. A special service will be held on the morning of May 10 at which Rabbi Harvey E. Wessel of Duluth, Minnesota, will deliver the sermon. In the evening there will be a dinner in the auditorium of the Temple at which there will be present many notable leaders in the Jewish life of the country. Dr. Solomon B. Prehof of Pittsburgh, one of the outstanding rabbis in the United States, will be the principal speaker. Other speakers on the program will be Dr. Solomon Goldman of the Anshe Emet Congregation, Chicago, who will speak on behalf of the Chicago Rabbinical Association; Dr. Felix A. Levy of Temple Emanuel, Chicago, who is president of the Central Conference of American Rabbis; Dr. Gerson B. Levi of Temple Isaiah Israel, a former spiritual adviser of the Congregation; and Mr. Alfred S. Alschuler, president of the congregation. The celebration also marks the tenth anniversary of the founding of the Sisterhood of the Congregation and the end of five years' service of Rabbi Charles E. Shulman, spiritual leader. In its fifteen years of life the North Shore Congregation Israel has exerted an important influence upon the community. It is the only Jewish building between Chicago and Waukegan and serves the Jewish people living in Evanston, Wilmette, Winnetka, Glencoe, Ravinia, Highland Park, and Lake Forest. The membership has grown greatly under the leadership of Rabbi Shulman. The religious school has, at present, an enrollment of approximately three hundred children. The Temple is known on the North Shore for its beauty of architecture as well as for the cultural stimulus it offers to the community. Visitors are frequently attracted to the building from all parts of the city. The committee in charge of the anniversary celebration is: Mr. B. Leo Steif, chairman; Rabbi Charles E. Shulman, Mrs. Hugo Hartman, Mrs. Herbert Levy, Mr. Irvin I. Livingston, Mr. James I. Loeb, Mr. Joseph K. Arnold, and Milton Stern. "Fantasy Love," Dr. Donald Laird gives a psychologist's reasons why people get "mushy" over movie stars — Exclusively in the AMERICAN WEEKLY, the magazine distributed with NEXT SUNDAY'S CHICAGO HERALD AND EXAMINER.

INFANT WELFARE SOCIETY OBSERVES BABY WEEK

 nutritionist or of the mental hygiene supervisor. Last year the Alice H. Wood nurses (the station supported by Highland Park-Ravinia center) made 10,325 visits to the homes. The eagerness of the mothers to profit by what the Infant Welfare Society can give them is proved by the fact that they came to the station in 1935 for 506 conferences with the doctors. That represents 8,121 medical examinations, careful advice and individual attention accorded to the baby or to his mother. This is no new story to Highland Park and Ravinia, that in many ways co-operate with the Infant Welfare Society. Last year our co-operation reached a total of $3,125 contributed to the work, 1,452 garments made for the babies by the women of our centers, and 650 hours of volunteer service in the station. Without such co-operation, Alice H. Wood station with its heavy load of cases and its lightening of the lives of children could never be maintained. Mrs. William W. White, president of Highland Park-Ravinia center, with her able corps of conductors, expects to render equal service to Alice H. Wood children this year.

House of 1000 Suggestions Featured at Home Show

The "House of a Thousand Suggestions" will be one of the most impressive features of the National Home Show of Chicago May 16 to 24 in the Chicago Coliseum, according to H. H. Haylett, business manager of the Chicago Real Estate Board, sponsors of the exposition. The Federal Housing Administration is co-operating in staging the show. The house, designed by White and Weber, Chicago architects, will portray an up-to-date arrangement of rooms and maximum use of conveniences to fit the pocketbook of the average family desiring to build a home. The model home is not intended to be the type of home that the average person would want to build, according to the architects, but rather one that will offer to the visitor speedy ideas in building arrangement and furnishing that he may want to incorporate in his own home. The home, painted white, follows traditional lines for this type of structure and features two bedrooms, a bath, living room, dining room, kitchen and open porch. The kitchen follows the favorite U-plan designed for efficiency. An additional feature is a garage leading into the building with a door opening into the front hall and living room, avoiding the kitchen entrance. The entire arrangement of rooms has been based upon a practical point of view. No basement or second floor is shown. A paved terrace will be paved directly off the bedrooms, which are situated in a wing of the house. The house which will cover an area 26 by 54 feet will be erected on a lot 50 by 135 feet and will be surrounded by a low white brick wall enclosing a beautiful garden setting. Arrangements for the construction of the building are being made with the Common Brick association according to John A. Servas, managing director of the exposition. Another outstanding feature and one to attract unusual attention will be the "Talking Towers." These pylons, standing 16 feet in height, features of the Federal Housing Administration equipment, tell in a most entertaining manner the story of better housing in all its phases. Between these educational talks, musical programs, arranged with the precision of large chain radio broadcasts, are emitted from the

"Of course it feels different, Dad . . . it is different!"

IT took more than just good performance to win over 2,500,000 Ford V-8 fans in less than four years. It's an entirely different kind of performance that did it! It's the V-8 engine, first and foremost. The smoother flow of its 85 horsepower. Its pick-up in traffic. Its easy pull in the open and up the hills. For you can't expect any less modern engine to feel like a V-8. And you don't find another V-8 below $1645.

Then there's riding comfort. Ford springbase is 123" — almost a foot longer than wheelbase. You'll quickly feel the edge this gives a Ford on cars near its size and weight. Next, there's a type of chassis in the Ford not found anywhere else in the world today. That's why a Ford "keeps its feet" so remarkably on turns and over rough roads.

Why not try these advantages today? Before you decide on any new car — get the "V-8 feel" that put the Ford first among all cars last year!
