

Local Men Embroiled in Legal Tangle

Court proceedings were started Monday afternoon in the assessor's courtroom by Ernest Belmont of Highland Park against Richard Martin and Harry Eichler, both of whom are also from Highland Park.

Mr. Belmont stated that Mr. Eichler and Mr. Martin disagreed with his statement made last week, that "before they return home, the Chicago Cubs will have disposed of Klein and Kowalik and will have acquired Davis and Allen." He further alleged that the two had disagreed so violently that they were willing to make a small wager as to the correctness of their judgment against his.

The complainant further stated that after deriding, ridiculing and making light of his judgment to the extent of causing him much personal embarrassment, mental anguish and insomnia, they now, having lost the wager, by virtue of his predictions having been correct, refuse to keep their part of the bargain, thus causing him further embarrassment, mental anguish, moral indignation and mental perturbation.

In light of these statements he therefore prayed the court to take immediate action to prevent the defendants from willfully, wantonly, wrongfully and maliciously, refusing to pay their honest debts, legally contracted and agreed to by both parties in the action.

In their defense, Mr. Martin, who threatens to become a lawyer, and Mr. Eichler, who is naturally adept at argument, (when it will save him money) stated that the wager was made with the distinct understanding that if any information to that effect had already been broadcast over any radio station, published in any newspaper, or otherwise disseminated through any public agency whatsoever, the wager was not to be valid, binding or legal and the agreement heretofore entered in upon by the said parties was to be disregarded. Mr. Martin corroborated this statement and also a statement to the effect that such information had been made public at the time the agreement was made.

The complainant, Mr. Belmont, with a remarkably convenient memory, professed no knowledge or recollection of any such provision and stated that the agreement was made with no loopholes for the defendants to slip through should his predictions regarding actions of the Cubs prove to be correct. He further stated that the action of the defendants in attempting to evade their legal and moral obligation was a sad commentary on contemporary sportsmanship and hardly worthy of two citizens so much in the public eye and to whom younger members of the community are wont to look to for guidance.

At this point Mr. Belmont was called from the courtroom by the call of business. Mr. Martin and Mr. Eichler made vague indications that it might be worth the judge's while to render a verdict in their favor, so the case will not be settled until the judge has to hear what Mr. Belmont may be willing to offer.

Women Investors To Hold Meeting at the Palmer House June 3 and 4

For the first time in the history of the country, America's women will convene to hear leading authorities on finance and to discuss their own rights as investors and taxpayers, with special attention given to developing safeguards for their investments in the nation's wealth.

This gathering will be the First Finance Congress of Women, which will be held at the Palmer House in Chicago June 3 and 4. It will be sponsored by a committee of women from nineteen states, according to the official call for the gathering, made by Miss Cathrine Curtis, national director of Women Investors in America, Inc., under whose auspices the meeting will be held.

According to Miss Curtis, the full status of women in the country's economic life has never been fully considered.

She said that some idea of the roles they are playing in the financial world was seen for the first time recently when a survey was made by the organization, revealing that of the first forty corporations in the United States, forty-eight per cent of the stockholders were women.

"If labor unions, trade unions and business organizations are accepted as necessary units in our economic machine, why not a union of women investors and taxpayers, who are, after all, the major investors in our country, whether their investment is in money, in brains and labor, in citizenship or in government?" asked Miss Curtis.

"Women believe the time has arrived when they need representation, recognition and consideration, if their life savings are not to be dissipated. Women Investors in America is a non-partisan organization, but we are militantly pro-American and opposed to any socialistic attempts to destroy the American system of government."

Among the speakers who will take part in the two-day program in Chicago are Mary Vail Andrews, cashier of the Chase National Bank, New York; S. Wells Utley, president, Detroit Steel Castings Co., Detroit; Mme. Cantacuzene of Sarasota, Florida, and Washington, D.C., the former Julia Grant, granddaughter of President Grant; and Dr. James Shelby Thomas, president of Clarkson College of Technology, Potsdam, New York.

Many other well known figures in the field of finance will participate. Admission will be by ticket only. However, tickets can be obtained through the courtesy of Women Investors in America by writing to the western headquarters of the organization at the Palmer House, Chicago.

Horner Club Holds Meeting in Highwood

The Lake County Veteran's Horner club held its regular monthly meeting on Friday, May 22, at the city hall in Highwood, with fifty delegates representing every precinct in the county present. Paul A. Blum was elected president, Fred D. Beeman, of Round Lake, first vice president; John Horan of Antioch, secretary and treasurer; Paul Chase, also of Antioch, second vice president; Mike Dyer of Lake Bluff, sergeant at arms; Raymond Sussi of Highwood, delegate, and John P. Dorney of North Chicago, delegate.

Delegates were also elected from all other Lake county towns. All officers will serve for one year term. Monthly meetings will be held, the next regular meeting to be at Round Lake under the sponsorship of the Round Lake club, under the direction of Vice-President Beeman of that city. Support was pledged to all of the Democratic candidates at the regular election in November.

James Cox, secretary of the State Department of Public Welfare, and district chairman of the tenth district of the Veterans Horner club, guest speaker of the evening, made a very interesting report of the benefits gained by veterans, during Governor Horner's term of office, and also fully explained the workings of the three cent sales tax and told how the money was expended.

Mr. William Jacobson of Waukegan also spoke for Democratic candidates generally, and Governor Horner and Franklin D. Roosevelt in particular. Attorney Jack Bairdow, Democratic candidate for states attorney for Lake county, was also present and thanked the veterans for their support in the primary and for their pledged support in the coming general election.

The president of the organization extended an open invitation to all Democratic veterans to affiliate themselves with the present Veterans Democratic Horner club, stating that now the primary being out of the way all Democrats had but one purpose in view, namely, the success of the party.

The Lake county organization at the present moment has a membership of 150 members, and it is expected that before November, there will be at least 1,000 members.
