Among my mail was a letter from a recent bride who asks some pertinent questions that I think my readers will be interested in, so in this issue is her letter and my suggestions.

Dear Mr. Libby:

I have recently been married and now after the honeymoon is over, I must prepare myself in the art of cooking, and since I was well up in my class work in domestic science in cooking—the matter of utensils and equipment that must be purchased for my kitchen becomes a problem. My mother has told me what I should buy in this line, but I feel that I want more modern and useful equipment.

Among my wedding presents were an electric food mixer and an electric glass coffee maker. The rest I must purchase—so please be so kind as to tell me what you think necessary to have in a well managed kitchen.

B.N.R.

B.N.R.—Had you told me what sort of a kitchen you wanted to buy equipment and utensils for, I would have been in a better position to answer your letter.

Assuming that you have selected or now have a range, refrigerator and work tables, I shall cover the other items briefly.

Fortunately you already have a food mixer which is an important piece of equipment in any modern kitchen. I would suggest that you follow the instructions that came with your machine carefully until you are fully familiar with it. I know you will enjoy the glass coffee maker. You will assure your guests of perfect coffee if you use it as directed.

In the selection of utensils, the matter of choice in aluminum or the new stainless steel saucepans and other pans and kettles, is a matter of personal opinion and taste, but when making the selection however, be sure it is a good brand—not cheap utensils, as in the long run they are not worthwhile.

Cutlery should be carefully selected—just enough for general use, such as a good butcher knife, bread knife, spatula and at least two paring knives, a grapefruit knife, and an ice pick. You will find many uses for the ice pick as you progress in your cooking, other than picking ice. I use it for many purposes, such as turning over a roast, turning bacon and numerous other jobs. Frying pans are another matter of choice, cast iron, aluminum or copper. Since I have used the solid copped, chromium plated type, I find them most satisfactory, as there is an evenness in frying that some of the other types of frying pans do not have. I think you should purchase a small size, a medium size and a large one. This gives you suitable one for all types of cooking.

Do not buy a lot of gadgets that will always be in the way and are not used. Aluminum spoons, wire whips, pancake turners, colander, tea strainers, sieves (a small and a large one will do), cake pans, at least one bread pan for possible meat and other loaves, all find uses in your kitchen.

Now one of the important and yet most talked of kitchen utensils is a rolling pin, many uses you will have for this item. A good flour sifter, one that does double or triple duty is best.

I would suggest a good enamel drip pot for every day use, and use your glass one for company. Aluminum measuring cup, a set of measuring spoons, a rubber plate scraper, a cake tester, all will come in handy.

Getting back to the saucepans and other pans. I would suggest that a small, medium and large sized sauce pan do for the time being, you can always add to them. A good covered kettle of medium size and a big one if you plan on any preserving this fall. Do not forget covers for your saucepans. Many housewives, select all the pans to match, that is in material, if so, your pie pans, cake pans, etc., should all be matched.

However, if any of my readers want further information on the above or have any problem in cooking or its field, write me care of this paper, enclosing a stamped addressed envelope and I'll answer you promptly.

Taini To Manage Highwood Indians

Sylvan "Pie" Traini, former Deerfield-Shields high school baseball captain, has been named manager of the fast semi-pro Highwood Indians ball club, it was announced over the week-end. He is succeeding Ed Malpell who has successfully handled the club for the past five years. Last winter Traini, accompanied by Al Bertucci, outfielder, and Nello "Zke" Campagni, first baseman, attended the Bill Terry baseball school held in Pensacola, Fla.

Teams desiring to book Sunday and twilight games with the Indians are asked to write to P. A. Lenzini, business manager, Box 83, Highwood, or call Highwood 1241 before 5 p.m.

D.A.R. BETTER FILMS COMMITTEE REVIEW

"Magnificent Obsession." Cast: Irene Dunne, Robert Taylor, Chas. Butterworth, Betty Furness. Thursday, June 25. Slightly changed in plot for film purposes but not in spirit. "Magnificent Obsession" becomes one of the most beautiful pictures of the year. The story is gripping in its spiritual message. The cast is capable with Miss Dunne convincing in a difficult role. Adults.

"Exclusive story." Cast: Franchot Tone, Madge Evans, Stuart Erwin. Friday, Saturday, June 26-27. Through the efforts of a newspaper reporter a young attorney, a gang of racketeers is apprehended, but not before several murders are committed. The story of the mercenary practices of gangsters and their stronghold on helpless citizenry is, through convincing direction and a strong cast, made most realistic. Adults.

"The Country Doctor." Cast: Dionne Quintuple, Jean Hersholt, Dorothy Peterson, Glen Summer-ville. Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, June 28, 29, 30. The problems of the isolated little community of Moosetown without a proper hospital or even adequate medical supplies are personal ones to the courageous country doctor. The story is told simply, humanly and convincingly, with a thread of romance running through it. The recording maintains the high standard set by the entire production. Family.

"And So They Were Married." Cast: Melvyn Douglas, Mary Astor, Edith Fellows, Jackie Moran. Wednesday, Thursday, July 1, 2. This is an hilarious comedy in which two precocious children, determined to prevent the marriage of their respective parents, see their error of their ways and bring things to a happy conclusion. The entire cast is well chosen, but, Edith Fellows and Jackie Moran entirely steal the picture. Family.

Mrs. J. Klemp, Sr., Dies; Buried at St. Mary's

Mrs. John Klemp, 71 years, passed away Thursday morning at her home on Fairbanks avenue, Deerfield, after a long illness. Funeral services were held Monday morning at the Holy Cross Catholic church in Deerfield and interment was in St. Mary's cemetery on Ridge road.

Mrs. Klemp was Theresa Hohler and came from Germany with her parents when she was a child. She was married almost twenty-two years ago and Mr. Klemp passed away July 18, 1934. The Klemp family moved to Deerfield about 23 years ago. Mr. Klemp was a brick-maker and stockholder in the Aaron Brick Co., where the present building is now located at 2200 Wadgett.

Surviving are her eight children—four daughters, Mrs. Charles Peterson (Martha), Anna, M. Henry Dierbert (Frances), and M. Peterson (Theresa) all of Deerfield; four sons, Frank of Culpeper, Calif.; John Jr., August, and Anthony, all of Highland Park; also fourteen grand children.
