What's the Big Hurry?

..and here are some of the things he DID on the way up!

Was it worth the Risk?

Between 1925 and 1934, inclusive, the rate of death from automobile accidents increased 17 per cent in urban territory of the United States. But while this change was taking place, the rate of death increased almost 100 per cent in rural territory. (Urban territory includes all towns and cities more than 10,000 population, and rural territory the remainder.)
Many of these deaths happened because drivers took chances and drove too fast for conditions, as illustrated above. That speed is a more serious factor in deaths on highways than on city streets is indicated by the fact that at city street intersections last year deaths from about 300,000 accidents numbered only 6,000, less than half the fatalities from accidents on highways. This information shrieks a warning about the danger of driving too fast, no matter how good a driver a person regards himself.
Last year there were nearly 160,000 automobile accidents which happened on rural highways which resulted in close to 14,000 deaths.

Camp Ma-Ka-Ja-Wan, Pearson, Wis., June 29 — Here in the deep woods of northern Wisconsin lie four lakes, none large, but all fascinating to me. The waters of these lakes are refreshed by a stream of spring water which meanders into the Wolf river.

region, and they have been on the increase at a fast pace during the past decade. Deer have been seen on the camp site this week. Fishing along the lake chain, muskrats swimming every night in the lakes, blue winged teal, so tame boys can get within ten feet of them, forty birds observed on daily bird hikes, virgin timber, fishing for wall-eyed pike, bass, bluegills are only a few of the interesting things boys can see while they are with us.

The museum always has a visiting group of boys, watching our live animals, using our nature library or bringing in a specimen to be preserved for furthering the knowledge of nature now and in the future.

Boys are taken in small groups to all the interesting places about the camp. We collect specimens and do the things real blooded American boys are interested in doing.

These future sportsmen will have a better understanding of the principals of conservation. The less favored boys who otherwise could not get to this region this summer are going to hear and learn more about the times in these north woods. Parents surely will be pleased to know their sons are learning more about the little known of subject, nature lore.

On the largest of these lakes, Spring Lake, the site of the North Shore Area Boy Scout camp is situated. This is not a commercial advertisement for this camp, it does not need it. With the many activities of the camp creating an interest for the campers, a tremendous volume of the boys here for the summer have the greatest opportunity to learn and know about the outdoors than any group in the middle west.
