

Local Merchants Is Champion Bee Herder

A swarm of about ten thousand bees nesting between Duffy's furniture store and Art Olson and Company broke loose Monday noon and terrorized the vicinity for about one-half hour. Pedestrians were unable to pass on the sidewalk, while motorists pulling up to the curb had to close their car windows.

Mr. Duffy, long time bee herder, having once driven a swarm of bees across the Utah desert, in midwinter, without a single casualty, got out his pail and hammer. In true "pied piper" style, with a rhythmic beat upon the pail, the bees soon subsided and all was quiet within a few minutes.

However, it was not until Art Olson had been the victim of the bees retaliation for his having poked a hole in their nest, that Mr. Duffy took the role of the real hero.

For this noble ingenuity, Tom Duffy was presented with an engraved galvanized pail and nickel plated hammer, together with a pound box of honey.

Children's Theatre Begins Fall Term

When the Children's Theatre begins its fall term there will not only be groups in dramatics but also in the making and manipulating of hand puppets and marionettes, we are told.

Miss Geary, who organized the local Children's Theatre and has directed it since its inception three years ago, has been in charge of the puppet group at Mandel Brothers Playland during the past summer and will open the season there this coming Saturday with an original play for marionettes entitled "Koko and His Clowns."

Puppetry is rapidly becoming popularized not only because of its great fascination but because of its vast educational possibilities, we are told.

Besides the puppet groups, the regular schedule of the theatre will be followed.

The workshop groups, which are divided according to the various ages, are open to both boys and girls. In these groups work is done in the creative manner with a view to the development of good speech, poise, and a fuller appreciation of the folklore of the various countries and the best in children's literature.

The theatre group is open to all members of the various workshops who desire to participate in the season's plays.

Anyone desirous of further information of making reservations is urged to do so immediately by calling H. P. 340, as the groups are limited in number to insure individual progress.

Highwood Scouts Hard at Work for Court of Honor

It is evident that the Scouts and Scouters of Troop 36 of Highwood, under the scout mastership of Louie Young, are moving toward the regional district's highest and best Court of Honor. Although no one will reach the rank of Eagle at the Court of Honor, it is more than likely that thirty-one members will attain the Life Scout award.

The editor has been informed by those trying for the Life rank that it is only a stone's throw to the Eagle rank.

There is being erected in the city park in Highwood, 3 large theodolites showing 21 striving for the rank of first class scout; 7 for the rank of star scout and 31 for the rank of life scout. To attain these different ranks, the Boy Scouts of America have a merit badge system by which certain attainments (merit badge study) must be accomplished in order to qualify for these various ranks. It is the desire of the scouts of troop 36 at their meeting to show you the merit badge study and if possible, bring one study each week so that you might familiarize yourself with the knowledge they have attained.

An invitation is always extended to you for every Friday night at 7 o'clock at St. James hall.

Deerfield Auxiliary Meets Monday Eve

Safety Conveniences Are Incorporated in New American Home

Proper surroundings for children as well as for adults have been provided by the architects of the New American Home, now nearing completion at Michigan ave. and Roosevelt Rd., according to Stuyvesant Peabody, chairman of the New American Home committee, which is sponsoring the building of the home in cooperation with the Federal Housing Administration.

Taking heed of statistics that 34,500 persons were killed due to accidents in the nation's homes during 1935, the New American Home committee decided to make its house as safe as possible, especially for children. The modern six-room, two-story structure will have many safety conveniences when it is completed after the middle of September.

Scientific electric wiring principles are being followed in installation of the lighting. The wiring will be of correct size, eliminating the danger of carrying too great a "load" at one time. Wires will be carefully insulated to prevent any chance of short-circuiting and consequent fires.

Even though the home follows lines of efficiency, children will have plenty of space in which to play. The all-electric kitchen will be slightly larger than usual, as will the three bedrooms on the second floor. There will be a "utility room" on the street level.

The all-electric kitchen with its built-in refrigerator, cupboards and range also was planned to make work easier and safer in the New American Home. Large windows will cast sufficient natural light into the rooms. Artificial illumination will throw a continuous path of light on the stairways and halls. The garage, a notorious source of accidents, will have lights in each corner to give even illumination without shadows.

N. S. Art League Plans for Winter Classes

Plans for the winter classes of the North Shore Art league are well under way, with registration days and beginning dates announced for the latter part of the month. The summer sketch class is continuing its meetings, gathering on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 12, in the garden of Mrs. William S. Warfield, III, at 1124 Pine st., Winnetka.

Mrs. Nancy Coonsman Hahn is holding registration Monday morning, Sept. 21, from 9 to 12 o'clock, at the league's studio in Winnetka Community house, for her classes in sculpture. She is offering instruction in connection with the class conducted by Mrs. Hope Degenerhart and Mrs. Edna May S. Johansen, for children and juniors. This group meets from 9:30 to 12 o'clock Saturday mornings beginning Oct. 3. Mrs. Hahn's other course opens Sept. 28 and meets from 9 to 12 each Monday morning throughout the term.

Sept. 28 is also the beginning date of Frank H. Dillon's class in portraiture and still life. The group uses oil, water color, pastels, and charcoal as its media, and meets each Monday and Wednesday afternoon from 1 to 4 o'clock. Instruction in portrait and etching work will be offered by Allen E. Philbrick every Tuesday and Wednesday morning from 9 o'clock until 12, starting Sept. 29.

Among the new ideas of Mrs. H. L. Pratt and Mrs. Elizabeth Engelhard, co-chairmen of the studio committee, is a class in still life, using modern technique, with stress on composition and design, different media being employed. Further announcement regarding this class will be made later in the season, those interested being asked to leave their names at Winnetka Community house as soon as possible.

Registration for all classes except those of Mrs. Hahn is now being planned, and dates will be announced within a week or two.

Deerfield Board Licenses Junk Men

An ordinance was passed to license all junk dealers at the September meeting of the Deerfield village board. The ordinance, published in last week's Press, states the amount of the license, the penalties for purchasing from minors and the law against the purchase of lead pipe. The ordinance also regulates the business of dealers in second-hand goods.

Application for a grant for the building of a sewage disposal plant in Deerfield has been approved by PWA offices and the village trustees voted to draw up an ordinance calling for the issuance of sewerage and water revenue bonds and calling for bids. It is not absolutely certain that funds will be available for the project, but the village board will be prepared if the grant is allowed.

Leonard Barnes of County Line requested the village to have crossing signals installed at the C. M. & St. P. tracks on County Line road. Property owners in that locality will prepare and send a petition to the railroad offices.

Mayor Harry E. Wing was encouraged by the increased attendance of villagers at the meeting. Trustees present were M. H. McKillip, C. M. Willman, M. A. Pottinger, Ralph Peterson.
