Large Attendance At Harvest Home Party

About 400 members and friends of Dumaresq Spencer post of the American Legion, attended the Harvest Home party Saturday evening at Victor Vienna cafe. Edwin E. Gilroy, chairman of the party deserves great credit for the success of this affair. Dancing during the evening was enjoyed with a floor show presented at intervals. Those who did not dance enjoyed games. It was a very successful party.

Because of the cold weather, although this is still the season for fall clothes, any of the better dressed women are already seen in their fur coats and winter apparel. Black coats, particularly in Persian Lamb or caracul, and grey are in great demand. The fur trims on cloth coats also run to these furs. Mink is ever popular among those who can afford it. Large sleeves, princess lines, tricky collars and fur edged hem are among the main points noticed this season. For sport, white lambskin jackets and coats are entering the scene.

Velours, soliel, satin and velvet hats are already shown for the holiday season. Many of these are for dress wear. Bonnets, height achieved through any means, veils for dress wear, white felts and fabric for evening wear, suedes and fur trimmed felts are primary notes on the hat situation.

Black may be worn for winter, but how about trying some of the new colors, such as the coronation colors or any of the vivid shades of red, blue, yellow, purple or green. Tunic lines, princess or straight skirts, braid trim and the colors mentioned above help mainly to make the dresses of this season.

Gloves for winter come to match some part of your costume. Your coat, dress, hat, purse, or shoes. Fur bands, odd colors, novelty clasps, hand stitching and new or old fabrics and leathers make the display at the glove counter.
