

D'Oyly Carte Opera Company of London Again in Chicago

The return of the only and superb D'Oyly Carte opera company of London to the Erlanger theatre, Chicago, has been a duplication, artistically and lucratively of the success achieved by this excellent organization, two years ago and will be limited to three more weeks only, as existing contracts made in America make it obligatory to reach Boston in time to sail for England to participate in the festivities attending the coronation of George VI.

The accredited reviewers all over this country unanimously acclaim this organization as the most perfectly equipped artistically and vocally that has ever given expression to the humor and melody of Gilbert and Sullivan comic operas.

With a record of triumphs that has spanned the globe, this masterful aggregation of artists from across the Atlantic are giving flawless presentations of the most popular and melodic gems of the entire series, including 'The Mikado,' 'Iolanthe,' 'The Gondoliers,' 'Patience,' 'The Yeomen of the Guard,' 'H.M.S. Pinafore,' 'The Pirates of Penzance,' 'Trial by Jury' and 'Cox and Box,' which prompted no less an authority than William Lyon Phelps of Yale to write: "Exquisite art! the wit and humor of Gilbert, the lovely melodies of Sullivan, have been a great revelation: it is not too much to say they have helped to educate us in an appreciation of the higher form of entertainment. Light opera as exhibited by this company is funnier than musical comedy and far more fascinating than jazz."

With the exception of four changes, the cast is exactly the same as won such golden words of praise upon the former visit:—including Martyn Green and Sydney Granville as the popular principal comedians, Darrell Fancourt, Richard Walker, Leslie Rands and Frank Steward remain the decorative leading baritones. Derek Oldham, a new face to Chicago, is the leading tenor with a glorious voice, dashing personality and splendid actor; John Dean and Robert Wilson return in the capacity of tenors. In the brilliant list of female voices there are three new artistes — Sylvia Cecil and Brenda Bennett, who sing the leading soprano roles; and Evelyn Gardiner who is the leading contralto. Ann Drummond-Grant, Marjorie Eyre and Elizabeth Nickell-Lean continue in their respective roles. The Savoyard ensemble of 40 voices is too well known now to need state any introductory comment and the orchestra of 24 pieces is under the direction of Isadore Godfrey, who made such an enormous success upon his last visit.

As this company will not appear any nearer to this community than Chicago, it behooves all lovers of genuine artistry to tabulate the name upon their calling list when they visit that city.

Charlotte Greenwood

Now appearing in "Leaning on Letty" at the Selwyn Theater, Chicago.

Charlotte Greenwood Is One of Chicago's Most Popular Stars

Charlotte Greenwood is one of the most popular stars today in America. Her admirers have crowded the Selwyn theatre, Chicago, for the past fourteen weeks. Her comedicalities in the new mysterious melodramatic comedy, "Leaning on Letty," is town talk. This play will never be made into a moving picture. The "Will Hay's office" ruled it the best arrangement of a perfect crime in kidnapping racketeering ever conceived, but hesitated approving picturization, realizing U.S.A. secret service officials would resent okay.

Miss Greenwood mindful of stage artistry regardless of governmental objections decided to stage play on account of the humorous treatment of the script. It appealed as an excellent vehicle for her return to the American theatre. Miss Greenwood has been entertaining Britishers at the Theatre Royal, Drury Lane, London, for the past seven years. Through success scored in "Wild Violets," "The Gay Deceivers" and "Three Sisters" she is now acknowledged to be the most popular International star dividing time between England and America.

Homesickness caused her return to this country. And like Al Smith, who walked out on the Democratic party, Miss Greenwood walked out on the musical play managers. Having aspirations to play straight comedy, she staged "Leaning on Letty." Chicago writers as well as legitimate theatre patrons acclaimed the talented comedienne in the new field.

Miss Greenwood mindful her popularity was earned through musical comedy has set an epilogue to "Leaning on Letty." After the comedy is finished the dashing, handsome, fast-stepping Charlotte indulges in songs and dances as a sweet reminder of the days of "So Long Letty." The public appreciates this courteous gesture, and if a vote was taken today for a Lady Mayor of Chicago, Charlotte would capture the office. At a voting contest of North Western university students recently held for the most popular player of the theatre today, Miss Greenwood won the honors by a tremendous vote.

D. A. R. BETTER FILMS REVIEW

"Our Relations." Cast: Laurel & Hardy, Alan Hale, Betty Healy, Thursday, Feb. 25. The dual identity of two sets of twins furnishes a fast-paced comedy of errors with fun provoking complications. A well directed screen play adapted from W. W. Jacob's story "The Money Box." Family.

"The Last Wilderness." Cast: Howard Hell, Thursday, February 25. Splendid photography and excellent family picture.

"White Hunter." Cast: Warner Baxter, June Lang, Alison Skipworth, Wilfrid Lawson, Friday, Saturday, February 26, 27. The African jungle furnishes the background for a story of love and revenge. Beautiful photography and seemingly authentic pictures of wild animal life. Warner Baxter gives his customary skillful characterization and Wilfrid Lawson is a superb villain. Suspense is continuously maintained. Family.

"Love on the Run." Cast: Joan Crawford, Clark Gable, Franchot Tone, Donald Week, Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, February 28, March 1, 2. A recent serial in a popular magazine is the story basis for a picture, packed with actors clever dialogue and amusing situations. Excellent entertainment, dominated by the fine performances of the three leading players and by the remarkable supporting bit of Donald Week as the mildly insane case taken of the Fontainebleau museum. The entire cast is exceptionally able and Van Dyke's direction is important. Family.

"Once a Doctor." Cast: Donald Woods, Jean Muir, Henry Kolker, Gordon Oliver, Wednesday, Thursday, March 3, 4. A story of two hospital internes and their reaction to their chosen profession. While the scenes of drunkenness in the hospital and the nurses of authority are to be condemned as inaccurate and incredible, the good direction and competent acting are to be commended. Adults and young adults.
