John Langdon-Davies, 1936. .

With appropriate services in temples and synogogues the Jewish people will begin its celebration of the festival of New Year - called in Hebrew "Rosh Hashanah" - on Sunday evening, September 5th. The observance of this holy day, which ranks in sacredness and solemnity next to the Day of Atonement, will usher in the year 5698 of the Hebrew calender. The holiday will close at sunset on Monday, September 6th.

After an absence of three months during which he traveled extensively in Poland, Rumania, and Palestine, Rabbi Charles Shulman has returned to his congregation and will conduct the New Year services at the North Shore Congregation Israel in Glencoe on Sunday, September 5th, and on Monday, September 6th. The Temple is located at the corner of Lincoln and Vernon avenues.

"Whither, Israel?" will be the subject of Rabbi Shulman's sermon on the evening of September 5th 8:15 o'clock; and at the New Year morning service at 10 o'clock on Monday, September 6th, he will have for his subject, "Four Approaches to Life,"

Lake College of in Waukegan Sept. 7

After a late summer vacation, the Lake College of Commerce in Waukegan will open its doors for the annual fall term on Tuesday, Sept. 7. By that date the remodeling of the school building will have been completed. The new additions and alterations will make it much easier to accommodate the many students expected to matriculate as the present quarters have become congested because of the rapid increase in the size of the student body.

The intensive training given in the various courses offered at Lake College enables the students to learn correct technical skill, and then gives him actual practice in applying that training to the problems of the modern business office. Whether the prospective student chooses the secretarial, accounting, stenographic, or comptomery course, he is sure to gain not only a working knowledge of his particular sub-Young China and new Japan, by jects, but also a greater understanding of the fundamental rules The Far East; a political and of business transactions in general.

The former bookkeeping room will be used for the beginning shorthand and penmanship classes to be taught by Miss Marjorie Best.

The typing room contains a variety of standard machines of every make as well as a number of comptometers and calculators. An additional amount of machines was purchased this fall as well. Mr. Walter Brunet is the instructor in charge.

The ever increasing demands of Lake County employers for welltrained office workers, and the success of the school in furnishing such efficient graduates in the past, has resulted in a veritable bombardment of inquiries as to the details of the courses offered. Therefore,
