City Council Repeals Ordinance For Inoculation of Dogs, Monday

At a meeting of the City Council of Highland Park, Monday evening, on recommendation of Dr. Donald E. Rossiter, president of the Board of Health, repealed the ordinance calling for the inoculation of dogs. The ordinance was passed two years ago upon recommendation of Dr. Rossiter.

Pressure brought by a group of citizens who threatened to bring suit against the City of Highland Park on the legality of the act forcing dog owners to have their pets vaccinated, is said to have been responsible for the repeal.

The 1100 owners of canines who were conscientious citizens and paid the required fee in order to protect humanity, will no doubt regret their haste in the matter, while the 200 or more stragglers will rejoice in the fact that they save $1.50 by waiting.

News of the repeal which becomes effective at once, is followed by a statement from the police department warning that all loose dogs will be penalized, a fee of $5 being charged for the animals return to his home.

City Clerk V. C. Musser, stated that a new dog ordinance is being drafted by the Council which promises to contain some very stringent provisions.

Child Care and Guidance Course Offered at Y.W.C.A.

"Child Care and Guidance", a series of six talks, four given by Dr. Irene Josselyn, one by Dr. Gustave Weinfeld, one by Miss Madeline Swetland, offers Highland Park mothers an unusual opportunity to hear a psychiatrist, a pediatrician, and a nurse, in a single course. The series opens on Wednesday evening, October 20, at the Y.W.C.A., 374 Laurel Avenue, under the auspices of the Education Committee.

Irene Milliken Josselyn, M.D., psychiatrist on the staff of Juvenile Research in Chicago, will give practical advice in solving problems every mother finds hard. In her series of talks she will help mothers acquire a general philosophy toward their children so that they can meet situations without worrying about a specific formula. This natural attitude means that mothers will enjoy their children more even during the difficult periods because they will understand them. At the close of her talks mothers will be given a chance to ask personal questions.

Medical training at the University of Chicago, a master's degree in Psychiatric Social Work from Smith College, experience in the department of Pediatrics at the Billings Clinics of the University of Chicago, is just part of the background Dr. Josselyn brings to her subject. She is the wife of Dr. Livingston Josselyn and the mother of a four year old daughter. Many Highland Park mothers will have an introduction to Dr. Josselyn when she speaks at the Green Bay P.T.A. meeting on October 13. One afternoon a month she conducts a clinic in Highland Park under the auspices of the Social Service Committee for study of cases unable to afford private fees. As a resident of the community Dr. Josselyn will be particularly helpful to mothers who enroll for her talks at the Y.W.C.A.

Dr. Gustave Weinfeld, local pediatrician, who is a member of the faculty in the Department of Pediatrics at the University of Illinois Medical College, will contribute a valuable point of view in his talk "The Wholesome Attitude toward Illness and Health in Childhood." Miss Madeline Swetland, graduate of the Presbyterian Hospital School for Nurses and also an instructor there, who is now teaching the new High School course on Junior Nursing, will give the practical benefit of the nurse's point of view to the course on "Child Care and Guidance." Registrations may be made by phoning the "Y", H. P. 675.
