Safetygrams

"The accident was caused by the glaring lights of a passing automobile." So reads an accident report. Every motorist in the country knows well what that statement means. It is dark and a motorist driving carefully is suddenly blinded by the glare of an approaching car. From that instant, it is as if he were without eyes. He cannot see the road ahead, judge the speed, or decide definitely the position of the approaching car. He may slow down or come to a stop, but in that time in his blindness he may drive off the road into a ditch or into a railing.

Courtesy is the answer to the elimination of these accidents. If all drivers would dim their lights, this glaring condition would be eliminated. It can be done if we all cooperate, and it is certainly our duty as citizens to protect the other fellow and be protected.

Dim your lights!

The Lucky Seven
A golfer needs seven clubs in his bag, and anyone who carries more is either a big showoff or a sucker for sporting equipment salesmen.

The uses of these clubs follow:
1. The driver is used to top the ball off the first tee into the bushes near the club house, where your witty friends are watching.

2. The brassie is used when you need a good long slice over onto the other fairway; also, is an ideal club for whiffing.

3. The midiron is used to hook the ball into the woods to the left.

4. The mashie is used for those safe and sane dribbles straight down the fairway which usually drop into a bottomless pit.

5. The niblick is used for those long low screaming line drives which land about a 100 yards beyond the green in some farmer's cornfield.

6. The spade niblick is used when you are in trouble, which is every other shot.

7. The putter is used for over-shooting, under-shooting, rriming the cup, and, in general, to effect the last six strokes on every hole.
