

Passengers Now Get First Hand Flight Information Enroute

Up-to-the-minute flight information is now available to passengers while in the air on the planes of American Airlines, Inc., Ralph S. Damon, vice president in charge of operations for the company, announced today.

First and second pilots on all flights throughout American's nationwide system are now provided with special printed forms, to be filled out periodically and sent back into the cabin for the information of passengers.

Including such information as weather, air and ground speed, altitude, and position, these forms are designed primarily to keep the passenger in possession of any pertinent facts which might make his trip more interesting or enjoyable, Damon said.

This is in addition to the flight plan made out by the pilot before each trip and given to the stewardess for passenger use, he said. The latter, which has been used for nearly a year on all of the company's planes, gives information compiled before the flight began. The new blanks are for current information from the pilots' control room.

A typical blank, the parts in parenthesis having been filled in by the first or second pilot, might read as follows:

"Our position at (12:37 a.m.) over (north leg of Goshen, Indiana, radio range). This information was given by radiophone to our ground station at (Chicago). Our next position report will be given to (Detroit) at approximately (1:00 a.m.) over (north leg of Archbold, Ohio, radio range). Our air speed is (172) m.p.h., ground speed (200) m.p.h. Altitude above sea level (5000) feet, above ground (3800) feet. We will arrive (Detroit) at approximately (1:28 a.m.). The weather there will be (clear with occasional scattered clouds at 9,000 feet). Temperature (32 degrees) F.

Space also is provided for the pilot to add any other information which may be instructive or interesting to the passenger, Damon said. Such information might include unusual weather reports from nearby vicinities or word of a standard instrument approach to be made at the next stop.

Damon stressed the fact that use of these blanks is optional with the pilots insofar as they are not to interfere in any way with their regular duties. Only infrequently, however, will it be necessary for them to omit this service, he said.

"The policy of American Airlines, Inc., is that the passenger is entitled to any pertinent information he may desire relative to his flight or the conditions under which it is being made," Damon said. "We have been working for more than a year on ways of making this information easily available and in such form that it can readily be interpreted by the passenger.

"In this way we believe a better understanding of air transportation will be gained by our passengers."

Interesting Speakers Scheduled For Jan. 4 At Woman's Club

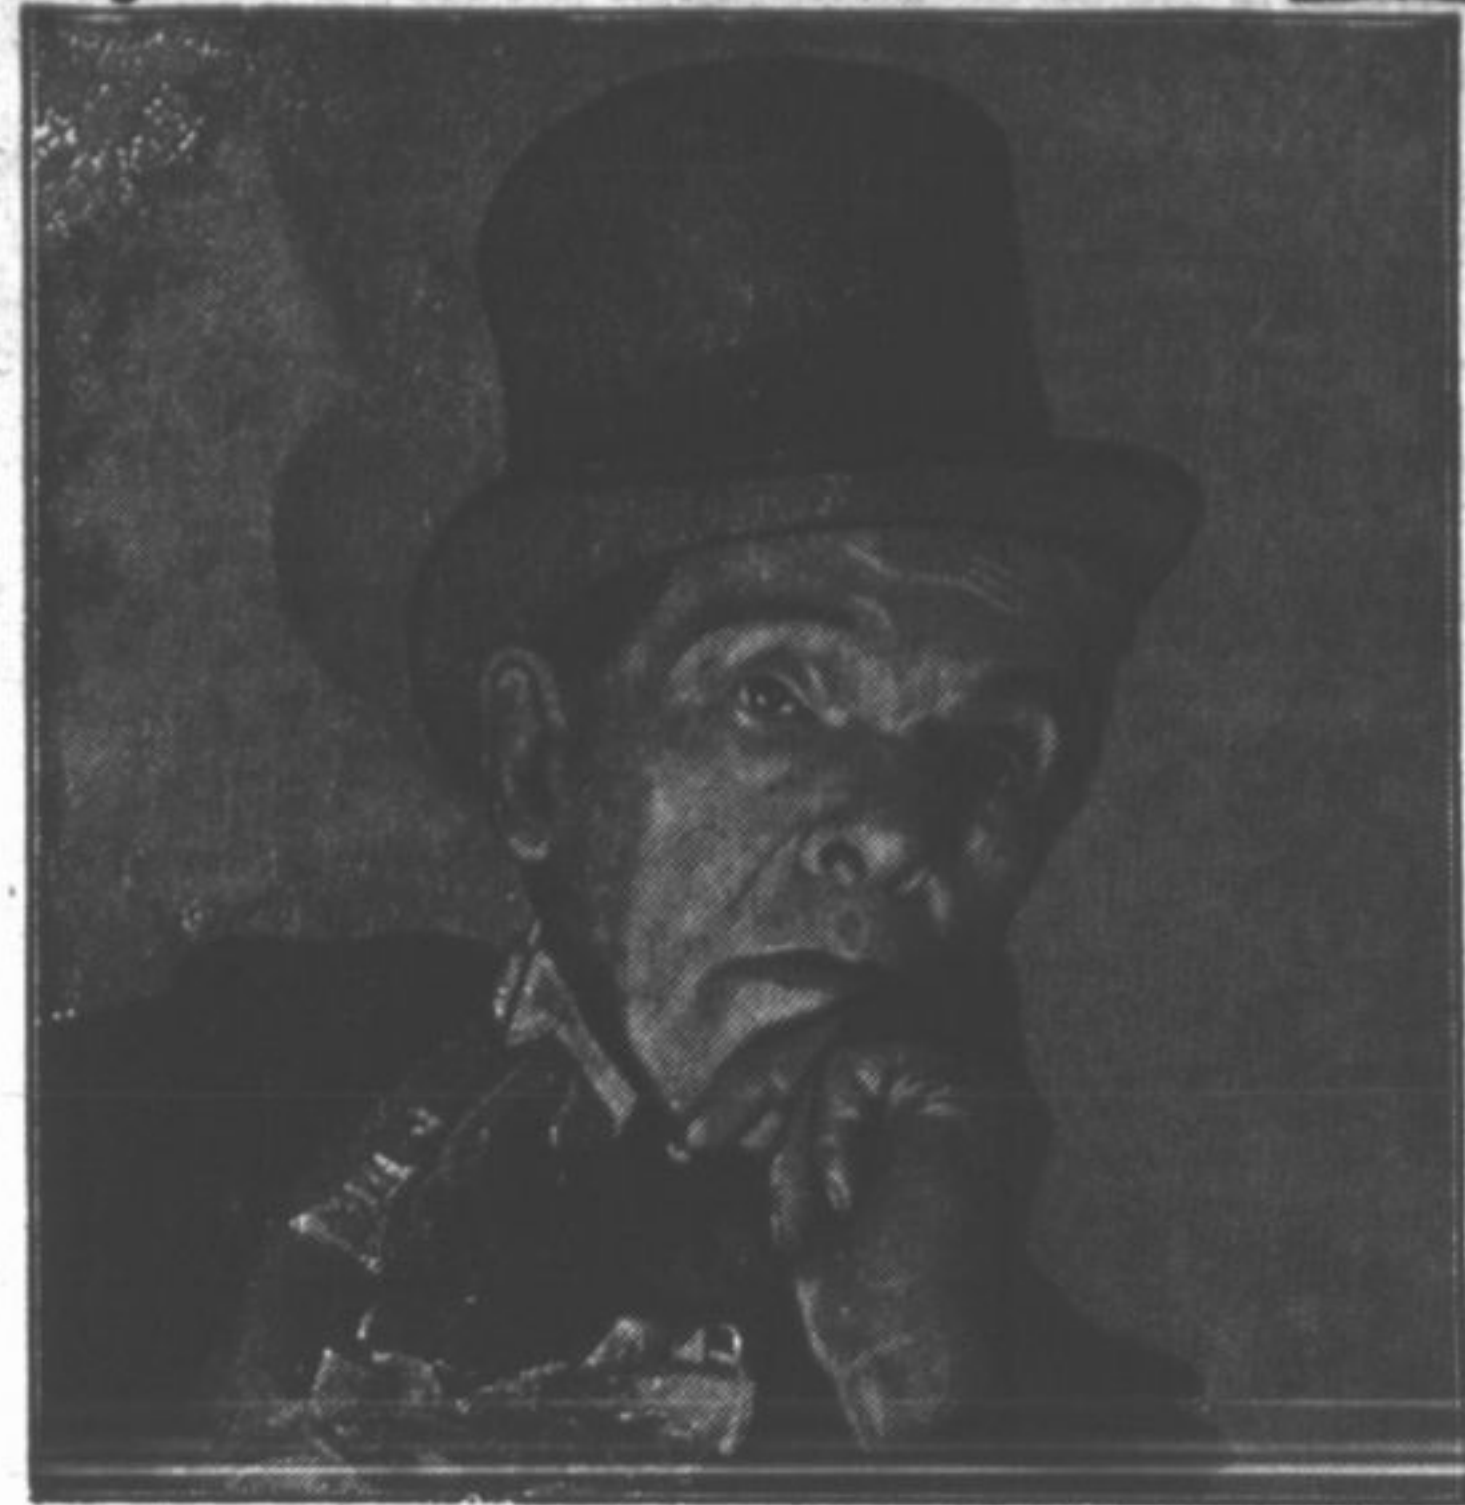

There will be two very interesting programs at the Highland Park Woman's club on Tuesday, Jan. 4, before the regular meeting in the afternoon, and anyone who wishes to avail herself of all that the club will offer that day will be welcomed at the Club House at 11 o'clock, and will without doubt enjoy the cafeteria style luncheon to be served at 12 o'clock, at which sandwiches, salads and coffee will be served in the always friendly atmosphere of the club.

At 11, under the auspices of the Home and Education Department, an engaging speaker, who is a resident of Highland Park, and well known under her radio name of "Martha Crane" of WGN, Mrs. Raymond Caris of Valley Road will speak on "Behind the Scenes in Radio." Anyone who has heard her over the radio will be eager to hear the interesting facts she will disclose in this talk. There will be door prizes for those fortunate enough to win them. This talk will be open to the public upon payment of a small guest fee.

Directly after the luncheon, at 12:45, the regular monthly Book Review will be given, and this meeting should be both highly interesting and thought-provoking. For a book which is one of the best sellers, "The Citadel" by Dr. A. J. Cronin, an English physician, written about the lives of physicians in England, will be reviewed by the President of our Board of Health,

LEARN YOUR LIGHTING

Careful lighting, low and to one side, gives this "character portrait" its unusual freilicht effect.

HAVE you ever tried shooting away a whole roll of film on one subject, not changing its position in the least but merely altering the way the light strikes it?

It may seem foolish and extravagant but it can be one of the most important photographic lessons you ever took.

Try it on this theory: that the objects in a picture have no real interest in themselves but that all the interest is in the way they are lighted—how the light strikes, how shadows are cast. Or, in the words of a great French photographer, that the subject is nothing, the lighting is everything.

Take a photoflood lamp in a reflector and arrange a number of small objects—say some fruit spilling from a bowl—on a white table top. Have enough general room light to give detail in the shadows.

Now set up your camera firmly with the light right beside it, for your first picture. Take another with the light far to the left and high up. Take one with the light directly over the subject. Take one with it behind the subject, shading the bulb so that no direct light shines into the camera lens.

Try as many positions as the length of the film roll allows. When the pictures are developed and printed, the differences will astound you. Study them and you will learn what can be done with light when it is properly used.

If you don't like still life, try a series of portraits, using the same person and the same pose but different angles of lighting. From picture to picture, facial expression will vary astonishingly—dead with flat front light, sinister with the light low and directly in front, startled or even terrified with the light low and to one side, and so on.

The same is true of landscapes. With each hour of the day they change, the deep morning shadows dwindling into noon and growing again into the grandeur of evening.

Light is the photographer's working material, the plastic clay from which he models his pictures. Study it. Learn what lighting can do and apply your knowledge and you will produce pictures of which you will be proud.

Second Term Of Adult Education Classes Opens Soon

The second term for Adult Education classes will open Monday evening, January 10 at the Highland Park high school. Classes will convene from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Persons enrolling from the high school district will be charged a small fee for each course offered, while any persons desiring to attend, outside the district, will pay double the cost of each class. Classes are held Monday and Wednesday evenings.

Courses offered Monday evenings are: Beginning typewriting, and advanced; shorthand, advanced; business English, elementary and advanced; sewing, cooking, woodwork, metal work, mechanical drawing, public speaking, Badminton, Boy's basketball, tap dancing, drawing-painting and puppetry.

On Wednesday evening classes are held in woodwork, pottery, book-keeping (beginning and advanced) leatherwork-weaving and business men's gymnasium.

All fees for course must be paid in advance, and no class will be started unless there are fifteen persons enrolled.

Vandals Hurl Dye Against Buildings

Early Tuesday morning it was discovered that someone had attempted to "paint the town red," for two homes and a business house here, had been besmudged with aniline dye.

Brand's paint shop, probably one of the oldest business houses in Highland Park, located right in the heart of the town, resembled a bad case of scarlet fever, for vials of red dye had been hurled against the side and front of the building. A new coat of paint had recently been applied to the property.

A two story flat building owned by Mrs. Anna Niles of Deerfield, and situated in north Highland Park on Green Bay road, was also given a shower of dye.

The Joseph Delhayes at 720 S. St. Johns ave., received a similar treatment. It is reported that all three buildings had been newly painted during the past year by non-union painters and it is thought that some disgruntled workman was responsible for the vandalism.

F. H. Skews Takes Over Service Station

F. H. Skews, who formerly operated a service station in Waukegan has assumed the managing of the Reliable Service station at the corner of First street and Laurel avenue.

Mr. Skews will handle Standard Oil products, and in the near future will install a complete lubricating service, including tires and batteries.

Thank You

We the members of the Highland Park Police Force are deeply grateful to our many friends who so generously remembered us on Christmas.

We appreciate your thoughtfulness and take this means of thanking you and wishing you a most Happy and Prosperous New Year.

Dr. Donald E. Rossiter. Dr. Rossiter is a capable and sincere-minded physician, with an attractive personality, and his point of view will be well worth hearing. Non-members will be welcome upon payment of a small fee.

There will be an intermission of 15 minutes before the afternoon meeting, which starts promptly at 2 o'clock.

The speaker of the afternoon is one that should attract a big audience, for Clarence W. Sorensen is a world traveler, a special reporter who scoops the world with pictures, an adventurer who hunts tigers in India, and a serious student of world affairs, whose keen observations are most interesting. Endowed by Nature with an excellent voice and personality, Sorensen speaks with force and enthusiasm. His talk, "Caravan Trails in Arabia," illustrated with slides and motion pictures, will depict his journey by camel and car across the Sinai Desert, and in the peasant villages of Syria and Palestine, where he discovers beauty, drama and adventure in that fascinating country.

On the walls of the Auditorium will hang pen etchings of interest and artistic merit, the work of a local artist, Mrs. Ethel Berkson.

7795 Christmas Seal Sale Letters Have Not Been Heard From

The Lake County Tuberculosis Association is very appreciative of the response to their letters with Christmas Seals mailed during the Thanksgiving season, and wishes to thank the many persons who have encouraged the organization with kind letters enclosed with their contributions. Many regular contributors who are out of work have written the association regretting their inability to contribute this year and hoping someone will find it possible to buy the Seals they are not financially able to purchase.

Up to December 27th the association has received $5882.42 from the sale of Christmas Seals. This is $1422.27 short of the total amount received in the 1936 Christmas Seal sale. The association has not received answers to 7795 letters and is urging an early response from these in hopes that the replies may bring the receipts it now has up to the amount raised last year.

The next chest clinic sponsored by the Lake County Tuberculosis Association will be held Wednesday, January 5, 1938, at the St. Therese hospital in Waukegan. Hours from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Examination is free to anyone who is not able to pay for such service. Executive Secretary.

Two Christmas Fires Cause No Damage

The Highland Park Fire department responded to two calls on Christmas day, but neither of the conflagrations caused much damage. Hot grease caught fire in a stove at the W. Menway home 1870 Lyman court, but was extinguished in a short time. A lighted cigarette in a rubbish can caused a fire at the Mullen home, 252 Laurel avenue, which is occupied by the R. Anderson family. Damage was very slight.

Earlier in the week the department responded to a call to the W. E. Madson home, 321 Lambert Tree road, where oil had overflowed from a heater in the basement. A chimney fire at the Fred Bonson home, 610 Grove avenue, was also responded to.

On Sunday a car owned by E. E. Obendorf of Lake Forest caught fire near 1122 S. Greenbay road, due to an electric short. Damage to the car was estimated at $200.

Former Resident Is Taken By Death

Word has been received of the death of Mrs. E. L. Brown of Sumner, N. C., better known to earlier residents of Highland Park as Lillian Cushman, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Cushman, for many years residents of this city.

Mrs. Brown was well known as an artist and was formerly in charge of the art work at Elm Place school.

H. P. Elks To Hold New Year's Eve Party

Highland Park lodge No. 1362 B.P.O.E. will hold a New Year's Eve party in their headquarters for members and their families and friends. Features of the evening will include dancing, entertainment and refreshments. An excellent orchestra has been secured for the occasion, and a midnight dinner will be served. This promises to be one of the outstanding events on the Elks calendar.
