

Plans for Dahlia Show in Winnetka Being Completed

The fourth annual dahlia show of the American Gardeners association will be held Saturday and Sunday, September 24 and 25 in Winnetka Community House gymnasium. With the show only a little more than two weeks away, entries are already coming in for what L. E. Bird, association secretary, said promises to be the largest show the American Gardeners have ever conducted. This is true in regard to both numbers and varieties of exhibits, as well as in the quality of the blossoms, he said.

Several valuable entries from Villa Park, Arlington Heights and Ravinia, have been made and all North Shore gardeners, as well as scores of amateur growers, are preparing for the exhibit.

With the view always in mind of improving the show, floor plans are changed from year to year, and the association leaders assert that those who visit the exhibit this year, will witness the most artistic arrangement that has yet been designed.

There will again be 18 classes, of which 8 are for specimen blooms and seedlings and ten for arrangements. Included in the specimen group will be two classes for amateurs and for children under 15 years of age.

The association will again post eight beautiful silver cups. The Lake Forest Dahlia society is also giving a cup this year and there is to be a special award medal by the Central States Dahlia society. There will be scores of first, second and third ribbon prizes.

The specimen classes will again be judged by officers of the Central State Dahlia society. Those who will serve this year are: H. J. O'Brien, of River Forest, and B. B. Melgard, of Chicago.

Judges of the arrangement classes will be Mrs. Walter Brewster, of Lake Forest; Miss Cornelia Conger, of Chicago, and Mrs. Maurice Mandeville, of Lake Bluff.

George Brave, head gardener for Mrs. John Stuart, of Hubbard Woods, is president of the American Gardeners association. David Findlay, of Chicago, is vice-president; L. E. Bird, head gardener for Mrs. W. B. Hale, Winnetka, secretary, and Arthur Woodbury, head gardener for Mrs. Florence Marx, of Highland Park, treasurer.

Members of the show committee, headed by Otto Zachau, head gardener for Mrs. John Gary, of Glencoe, are: Fred Kirschnick, head gardener for Mrs. E. F. Wieboldt, Glencoe; John Trini, head gardener for Jesse L. Strauss, Glencoe; Bernard Rumbutis, head gardener for Mrs. Julius Rosenwald, Ravinia; Joseph Pfetzer, head gardener for Mrs. Curt Teich, Glencoe; Bernard Niemann, of Northbrook; Henry Carstensen, head gardener for Mrs. Edward Bagley, Winnetka; William Bailey, dealer in garden supplies, Evanston, and L. E. Bird, head gardener for Mrs. W. B. Hale, Winnetka.

Hospital Entertains Auxiliary Sept. 14

The Highland Park hospital will be host to the regular monthly meeting of the Hospital Auxiliary, which usually meets at the Trinity Episcopal church, on Wednesday, Sept. 14 at 10:30.

There will be a board meeting at 9:30 and luncheon will be served.

"Tropic Holiday" Showing 3 Days at Deerpath Theatre

Proving herself to be one of the screen's most delightful comedienne, in addition to her other talents, Kay Francis gives one of her best performances in "Women Are Like That," which will play Friday and Saturday at the Deerpath. It is delightful comedy, not so frothy that it isn't warmly, touchingly human at times, and yet so gay that the spectator has never a let down of spirits.

One of Hollywood's best-liked romantic teams, Dorothy Lamour and Ray Milland, joins forces with an equally famous comedy pair, Bob Burns and Martha Raye, to bring to the screen a new kind of musical romance in "Tropic Holiday," which will be shown Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Set to the rhythm of clicking castanets and merry marimbas, "Tropic Holiday" is the disturbing adventure of a restless young Hollywood writer in unspoiled rural Mexico.

Hollywood, which has searched the world over for novel and interesting motion picture backgrounds, brings a new setting to the screen in "Port of Seven Seas," coming to the Deerpath Thursday and Friday, for this picture has the colorful and unusual French seaport of Marseilles as its locale. Wallace Beery, in a role arrestingly different from his more recent "bad man" portrayals, stars in the new drama as the rough but tender-hearted owner of a water-front cafe and the distinguished supporting cast features the inimitable Frank Morgan, Maureen O'Sullivan, John Beal, Jessie Ralph, and Cora Witherspoon.

Local Athlete to Answer Grid Call at I.S.C. Sept. 10

Walter Stuenkel of Highland Park is making preparations this week to return to Iowa State college Sept. 10 for the opening of the fall gridiron training season, in response to a request from Coach "Smiling" Jim Yeager of the Cyclones.

Stuenkel will be one of 41 squad members reporting. Last year he won his freshman numeral in football at Iowa State, playing tackle. This year he will probably see plenty of action in the Cyclones' tough 9 game schedule.

Iowa State will play the following opponents:
 Sept. 23, Denver at Colorado.
 Oct. 1, Luther at Ames.
 Oct. 8, Nebraska at Lincoln.
 Oct. 15, Missouri at Columbia.
 Oct. 22, Kansas at Ames.
 Oct. 29, Marquette at Milwaukee.
 Nov. 5, Drake at Ames.
 Nov. 12, Kansas State at Manhattan.
 Nov. 19, Oklahoma at Ames.

International Air Thrill Circus and Races, September 11

All roads lead to Lansing Airport, 190th street and Burnham avenue. Sunday, Sept. 11, with the International Air Thrill Circus and Air Races as the lure for crowds expected to total close to 100,000. The advance sale indicates that spectators will converge upon the scene of the big spectacle from within a radius of 125 miles of Chicago to the north, south and west.

The show is a presentation of Steve O'Connor and Ben Orloff, who have engaged Capt. Art Davis, America's premier test pilot, to direct the sky performers in feats of daring such as have never before been seen in the United States.

Over the weekend, O'Connor was in conference with Capt. Davis at the National Air Races in Cleveland to sign up speed demons and perfect the time schedule of events for the classic at Lansing Airport. Both of them and the daredevils who will electrify the throngs Sunday have returned to the scene of the International Air Circus and Air Races and are supervising final rehearsals.

Capt. Davis and two of his chief "stunters" will make the populace Air-Thrill-Circus conscious in a large way this week through the medium of sky-writing. Assisting him will be... George Starr and Charles Zmuda. Incidentally, Zmuda and Starr will cooperate in one of the sensations at the circus, wherein they will change parachutes while catapulting toward the earth. Zmuda, noted Polish aviator, is America's only licensed "bat wing" man.

It will be Capt. Davis and Carl Hartley in the "Kiss of Death," which is as skillful as it is hazardous, since it calls for two planes to touch wings in such manner that a small hook of one plane removes a handkerchief from a wing of another.

Another among the stars in the Art Davis galaxy of luminaries who know not the meaning of fear is Lenard Witt.

The quintet just listed and others of the troupe will cause chills to travel up and down the spines of the crowd also as they engage in bombing a building from aloft, give test pilot demonstrations, show while traveling close to the ground all the crazy things a pilot shouldn't do, cut across ribbons and burst balloons with their planes, and stage a real war "dog-fight" in the air.

Then, too, there's Maj. De Breeze, who will be dropped from a plane 1,000 feet above the ground and land without even opening his parachute.

One of the death-defying acts on the program calls for two men diving from a plane at a given signal and pulling open their parachutes as near the ground as possible. Each flier will carry a sack of flour to be strewn during the earthward drop so as to mark the course of the descent.

Out with a challenge to all, a mite of a girl, Bee Gronde, is prepared to make a parachute drop from a greater height than anyone who accepts her def.

The first hour of the show will be given over to the nationally famed members of the Chicago Girls Flying Club, who will participate in races and stunts that call for plenty of nerve. The racing phase of the program will also engage winners in the air race classic at Cleveland.

Tickets will be off sale all this week at headquarters of the International Air Thrill Circus and Races, 56 East Congress street; the Hotel Sherman, and the Lansing Airport, where the box office will also remain open on the afternoon of the big show Sunday.

Give Reports on State Convention

The regular monthly meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary was held Thursday evening Sept. 1.

After a short business meeting, which was held informally, because of the number of members present, Mrs. David Johnston and Mrs. Henry Eitner gave very interesting reports on the State Convention which was held at Rockford, Ill.

Many of our members are planning to attend the installation at Waukegan Thursday evening September 8.

Stress Need for Motorists to Keep on Right Side

Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes in a safety bulletin issued in Springfield today, stressed the need for motorists to keep to the right side of the road.

"The careless habit of driving on the wrong side of streets and highways," the bulletin stated, "is second only to speed and reckless driving as a major cause of fatal accidents resulting from driving errors."

"The seriousness of this dangerous practice is best illustrated by facts," Secretary Hughes continued in the bulletin. "Throughout the nation last year, 3,440 persons were needlessly killed and 124,290 others were injured because of failure of motorists to keep to the right side of the road. Many accidents also were reported in which no tragedies occurred but economic loss was suffered due to damaged cars.

"While there are laws in the statute books prohibiting such negligence they are useless without the whole-hearted cooperation of the motorist himself. We can make no appreciable reduction in this or any other type accident until each of us realize his responsibility for safer driving."

The bulletin cautioned motorists to use care in passing. Never pass on a curve or hill and even though the road appears free of traffic, keep to the right side of the road.
