

Only $2,500 Needed To Reach Chest Goal; Children Contribute

Tuesday, the Highland Park Community Chest was only $2,500 short of its goal of $45,000, according to the announcement made by General Chairman R. R. Wible, and all workers in the campaign, including volunteers on the Special Gifts Committee as well as those in the district solicitation group were urged to complete their solicitation work this week if possible.

"The General Campaign Committee has every reason to believe that the Chest goal will be reached this year as it has been in the past," said Mr. Wible, "if every worker who still has a prospect to call upon will do so at once. Do not miss anyone. We need the support of every person who has given to the Chest in former years as well as that of every new resident, if we are to succeed. With our goal now almost in sight, I am certain it will be reached within the week if every worker will complete his calls in the next few days."

New Residents Participating

"Many new residents of Highland Park are making their first subscriptions to the Chest this fall," Chairman Jerome P. Bowes Jr. of the Special Gifts committee stated last night. "Many are showing a splendid spirit in the matter and a desire to do their full share toward the support of the welfare agencies of the community in which they have decided to make their home."

Children Have Thanksgiving Spirit

Billy Riddle, Jimmy Kuhn, Sheila Blumenthal, David Schneider, Nancy Hickman, Leslie Chapman, Carol Grady, Mary Hadley, Martha Allen, Shelley Morris, Chuckie Hinshaw and Caroline Hinshaw, young students of Miss Kathryn Lemly's play school, 219 S. St. Johns avenue, a year ago made their first gift to the Chest in the form of special Thanksgiving baskets for several needy families. They informed Chest headquarters Monday that they planned to renew their gifts again this year and would deliver the gifts to the Chest for distribution Wednesday. The children themselves make the cookies and cranberry sauce contained in the gift baskets.

Headquarters Open Until 8:30 p.m.

The headquarters of the Chest Campaign at 4 North Second street are being kept open all this week except Thanksgiving day from 9 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. to receive workers' reports and subscription payments. Any persons who have not yet made their subscriptions to the campaign are urged to come in to the Chest Headquarters and make it personally in order to speed completion of the campaign.

Northshore Garden of Memories Records Unusual Interment

A rather unusual interment will take place at Northshore Garden of Memories on Thanksgiving Day this week. It will bring to the memory of the older residents of Michigan some of the early history of that state, as it involves a distinguished citizen of the earliest history of the state and a son who passed away last Sunday night in the northerly peninsula. Both father and son lived to the extreme age of 92 years.

One of these men was former Gov. Alpheus Felch who was chief executive of the State of Michigan from 1845-1847; U. S. Senator from 1847-1853. Previous to the reception of those high honors Alpheus Felch was graduated from Bowdoin college in 1827, practiced law for a time in the University city of Ann Arbor, was a member of the Michigan House of Representatives, bank commissioner of the state, auditor general, and Judge of the Supreme court. After his service as governor and in the U. S. Senate he was a member of the California Land settle territorial claims between the Claims Commission which served to U. S. and Spain and he spent a number of the later years of his life as a law professor in the University of Michigan.

A son of that early governor of the Wolverine State became a physician and practiced medicine in the city of Ishpeming—center of the great iron region—for a longer period than most men live.

When Dr. Theodore A. Felch was at the head of a large hospital in Ishpeming Mr. John Western, founder and builder of Northshore Garden of Memories, met him by introduction of a mutual friend, George A. Newett, then publisher of the leading mining journal of this country. That was 22 years ago and Dr. Felch and Mr. Western have been personal friends ever since. This friendship was strikingly illustrated by the fact that when Mrs. Felch died, 11 years ago—the doctor ignored the old graveyard at Ishpeming, bought a lot in Northshore Garden of Memories here in Lake county, Illinois, and made her grave there. This was done although the doctor was acquainted with only one person in Lake county and that person Mr. Western.

Before noon on Thanksgiving Day descendants of the Felch family, together with several personal friends, will gather on the Felch lot in beautiful section E of Northshore Garden of Memories and witness the burial of the late doctor's remains.

As the burial party from Ishpeming will arrive at Waukegan on an early morning train, a breakfast for the attendants will be held at the Western home near the east gate of the Garden of Memories.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Randall of Winnetka formerly lived at Ishpeming for a number of years and they will be among those who will meet the funeral party in the early morning at Waukegan and attend the breakfast before the final honors are paid to Doctor Felch.

Complete Plans to Entertain 2000 Farm Boy and Girl Delegates

Final arrangements for the entertainment and handling of 2,000 farm boys and girls who will be in attendance at the National 4-H Club Congress which runs concurrently with the International Livestock Exposition and Horse Show, November 26-December 3, were completed today by the National committee on 4-H Boys and Girls club work at a special meeting with Mr. Thos. E. Wilson, chairman of the board of the National committee on 4-H Club Boys and Girls club, and Mr. Guy L. Noble, managing director of the National committee on 4-H Club Boys and Girls club.

The boy and girl delegates from 48 states, Canada, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico, all of whom range from 12 to 18 years of age, will have a complete program throughout the Stock Show.

On Monday, Nov. 28, the boys and girls will be picked up by a fleet of 25 busses leaving the Amphitheatre at 2 p.m., arriving at the Medinah Temple about 3 p.m., where they will be feted at the 21st annual "Thos. E. Wilson Day" party. There they will be entertained with a lavish vaudeville show beginning at 8 o'clock and continuing until 6:30 o'clock when the entire party of about 2,000 will be entertained at dinner by Mr. Wilson. They will leave the Medinah Temple at 7:45 o'clock for the Amphitheatre in the Stock Yards where complete assembly of the 4-H Club Congress will convene.

During the affair at the Medinah Temple given by Mr. Wilson the first national winners will be announced and presented by Mr. Wilson; also Mr. Wilson will award college scholarships to the winners of the National 4-H club meat animal and junior live stock feeding projects. The meat animal champions will be crowned and acclaimed at this time. This part of the program will be broadcast by NBC from 3:30 to 3:45 p.m. (C.S.T.) over a coast to coast network—the local outlet being WLS.

For the past 21 years, Mr. Wilson has entertained all the farm boy and girl members of the 4-H Club Congress at the International Live Stock Exposition. This year's group brings the total in excess of 32,000.

Happiness Package Movement Launched In Silver Jubilee

Announcement of a "happiness package" movement, launched this week as part of the national celebration of the silver jubilee of parcel post, was made today by Postmaster Daniel L. Cobb.

"Make somebody happy with a happiness package," is the slogan adopted by the local postal authorities, and while it is desired to stimulate as large a mailing of "happiness packages" as possible for Thanksgiving, the idea which originated with a woman postmaster in a country town is to be pushed all during the holiday season until Christmas. Chambers of commerce and local merchants in all cities are co-operating in this new movement, Washington advices to Postmaster Cobb state.

To a countrywoman in the little town of Winthrop, New York, almost on the Canadian line, goes credit for the "happiness package" slogan which has leaped into national attention and advertising space over night. She is Mrs. Ada J. Folsom, assistant postmaster of Winthrop, and the idea was born of her experience of the yearning of the average small town and farm resident, particularly the wives, for a gift package, especially one that comes to her as a surprise.

Mrs. Folsom stated that she observed more gift packages are sent to the cities than to the country area; that it is common for the folks in the country to mail parcels of meat, fruit, cakes and cookies, or other foods to their relatives and friends in the towns and cities. Gift mailings to the country, on the other hand, are nowhere near in proportion.

"The housewife on the rural route loves a package. For many years I've grown accustomed to the inquiry: 'Hasn't my package come yet', or, 'I'm sending a package to thus-and-so, they'll be so pleased.' To the woman on the farm, the expected package is a thrill, the surprise package is a riot.

"And so when I was thinking about what I could do in our little post office for the silver jubilee celebration of parcel post, that began when my husband was a young postal employe under President Taft, I saw at our stamp window the happy face of a woman who had just handed to me for mailing a parcel post package. I thought how fine it would be, if a lot of our country folks would get more 'happiness packages' from town. I wrote to some friends in the city about it, and the first thing I knew the idea had become part of the national parcel post celebration."

Business establishments in various cities have been quick to adopt the slogan, and are using it in their newspaper advertisements, window displays, posters and other means of reaching the public.

As a result of the inspiration of this little woman postmaster in a country village, it is anticipated that this Thanksgiving-to-Christmas season will see the largest movement of gift packages from the farms to the cities, and in turn from the cities to the rural areas, in the history of the postal service.

"Dame Nature" Is Dramatic Comedy Of Domestic Strife

"Dame Nature", by Andre Birabeau, now produced by the Theatre Guild, Inc., at the Erlanger theatre in Chicago, so humanly portrays the dramatic situations of every day life that no parent can afford to miss this touching yet beguiling play.

It is a dramatic love story leaving a mixed feeling of indignation and admiration, deftly portraying the eternal domestic strife existing in so many present day households.

The more conservative may term it a bit outspoken, but the author has handled this very delicate situation with extreme tenderness.

No group of players would present a more finished production than those of "Dame Nature" cast.
