NEW HOMES

The community is watching with interest the building of eight new homes in Woodland Park, the subdivision in the northwest part of the village, just south of Bannockburn.

Four of the homes are already in the process of construction and building permits have been issued to the following:

Home for R. S. Alexander on Crab Tree Lane, cost $9,000.

Home for Michael Palmero on Stratford road, cost $8,000.

Home for Erwin Dasso on Berkeley Court, cost $9,000.

Home for Ralph V. Hoffman on Woodland drive, cost $10,500.

It is expected that the four others will be started by spring. A residence for Mrs. Mary E. McDevitt, a teacher in the Bannockburn school, has just been completed in Woodland Park, and Mrs. McDevitt and children and her parents are now occupying it.

DEERFIELD JUNIOR AUXILIARY MEETING

The Juniors of the American Legion Auxiliary met at the home of Enith Uchtman on Saturday afternoon, Jan. 21.

This meeting of the Juniors was called "Do You Know" meeting. In line with the Legion Auxiliary's national program, January is designated as Legislature month and the girls were asked many questions about our state and also the United States, which proved very informative and interesting.

A letter of gratitude from the Veterans' hospital at North Chicago for the 175 tray favors made by the Juniors was read by the hospital chairman, Ruth Tennermann.

A report of the box of Christmas cards, which were purchased by the Juniors, was given. Half of the box were sent unaddressed and stamped to the district chairman of the Juniors, who in turn distributed them among the patients at North Chicago hospital for them to send away. The other half were addressed by the Juniors and sent to patients who are not remembered by any one at all.

The Juniors decided to bring valentines (with no writing on) and deliver them to the Dorcas Home for the children therein to send to their friends.

At this meeting the Juniors also discussed plans to have a Mother-Daughter banquet sometime in the future.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hutchison (Laura Fletcher) will be sorry to learn that their 13-year-old daughter, Louise Ann, has undergone a third operation on her brain, following a fall off a horse last November. Mr. Hutchison and his daughter were riding horseback in the Forest Preserve just before Thanksgiving Day and Louise Ann was thrown off the horse and hit her head. She was able to remount and apparently seemed all right, but by 4 o'clock in the afternoon had lapsed into a coma. X-rays at the Grant hospital, Chicago, disclosed the serious injury and she was removed to the Passavant hospital for an operation. Still later a second operation was undergone, and on last Sunday, a third brain operation was performed. The Hutchisons and Fletchers are former Deerfield residents.
