

WILSON'S Weekly MEMO

by GEORGE RECTOR

When I tell you that Rector's cleaned up more than a million dollars almost solely by its reputation for two famous sauces—Margery and Mornay—you will understand why I feel sauces are such an important item on one's kitchen repertoire.

By all means, do learn how to make a few good sauces. But remember, always, that they are intended only to enhance the original goodness of the food, not to cover up any deficiencies in either the food itself or its cooking.

ALAS! POOR YORICK!

It is a bitter moment when the woman who has been carving away with reckless abandon into a "Wilson's Tender Made Bone-In Ham," has to face the fact that she is rapidly getting down to bare bone.

But there is no need for discouragement. Not only are more Tender Made Hams available, but even now, if she can glean together two cups of ham oddsments, she can wind up the affair in a blaze of culinary glory.

"The Ham you cut with a Fork"

Rector's Ham Mousse

Mousse is the French word for foam, and it implies frothiness, whipped cream and general palatability. A mousse may be either baked or frozen or as in this case, stiffened with gelatine and chilled.

Chop the ham very fine and pound it well in a chopping bowl. There should be 2 cupsful. Soften one tablespoon of granulated gelatine in a very little water, dissolve it in 1/2 cup hot water and add to the ham.

Season with 1 teaspoon mixed mustard, 1/2 teaspoon paprika and a few grains of our old friend cayenne. Then add 1 cup heavy cream, whipped stiff.

Turn into one large or 6 small molds, rinsed out in cold water, and chill.

Unmold, garnish with parsley or watercress. Serve with Epicurean Sauce. Serves 6.

EPICUREAN SAUCE

Coupled with the above, this becomes one of those calorie-defying. "Come on, Fat" gestures, but it is worth it, you'll agree.

1/2 cup heavy cream
4 tablespoons Wilson's Savory Mayonnaise
2 tablespoons freshly grated horseradish
1 teaspoon English mustard
1 tablespoon tarragon vinegar
1/2 teaspoon salt
Few grains cayenne

Beat cream until stiff. Stir in the mayonnaise, grated horseradish and the balance of the ingredients which have been mixed together.

Until freezing units are standard equipment in kitchens—and more particularly in kitchenettes—any housewife is justified in cutting down on large roasts during the summer months. A can of Wilson's Certified Corned Beef Hash can quickly be made into a hot dish that I can guarantee will make a hit with the man of your choice. It's

CORNERED BEEF HASH

in Pepper Cases

Cut off the tops of 4 green peppers, remove ribs and seeds. Cook in boiling salted water 5 minutes. Drain.

Heat the contents of a tin of Wilson's Certified Corned Beef Hash with 2 tablespoons minced parsley and, if desired, 1 tablespoon minced onion cooked in a little Clear Brook Butter. Fill the pepper cases with the hash, sprinkle the tops with battered bread crumbs and bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for 10-15 minutes. They will hold their shapes well if set in greased muffin tins. Serve with Creole Sauce.

Last week John Barrymore moved into the home of the Thomas Comptons, 679 Bluff street, Glenocoe, while they are away. He expects to remain there during the Chicago run of "My Dear Children" at the Selwyn.

Martin Ruby, 734 Westmoreland avenue, Lake Forest, last week reported to city police that he had been bitten by a dog owned by M. D. Morehouse of 1190 Edgewood drive, Lake Forest.

The animal was ordered impounded for a two-week period for observation and Ruby told to see a physician. It was the fourth dog bite case in Lake Forest this month.

Owners of some 800 bicycles in Lake Forest were requested Friday to come to the police station for city "license plates."

There is no charge for the plates. In reality they're metal tags to fasten to the frame. They are being issued to expedite the return of lost or stolen bicycles.

With the plates, Lake Forest police have a three-fold system of vehicle registration. The other two are the recording of the owner's names and the serial numbers of the bicycles.

The following patents have just been granted to Lake county parties:

Warren M. Conover, Waukegan, enclosed outboard motor. He has assigned it to the Outboard Marine & Manufacturing Co., Wilmington, Del.

Melville Keim, Highland Park, design for an insecticide. He has assigned it to the Clean Home Products, Inc., Chicago.

Mrs. David S. Lasier of 1271 Scott avenue, Hubbard Woods, died Thursday morning, July 13, after only a few hours illness, at the summer home of her son, David R. Lasier, at Minocqua, Wis.

Mrs. Lasier was born in Plymouth, Mich., October 6, 1866, the daughter of John T. and Elizabeth Radcliffe. She married David S. Lasier, a native of Freeport, Ill., and a former member of the Chicago board of trade, in 1893, and lived in Edgewater until the family came to Winnetka in 1910. Mr. Lasier died in 1918.

During the 29 years she lived in Winnetka, Mrs. Lasier had many community interests. An active member of the Winnetka Congregational church, she was at one time president of the Woman's society. She helped to found the "Stitch-in-Time" group within the society, and this remained one of her chief interests.

She is survived by two sons, David R. of Highland Park and John W. of Evanston, and two daughters, Mrs. James W. Harris, Jr. of Whittier, Calif., and Mrs. Donald Morrison of Winnetka.

Funeral services were held at her home Saturday, July 15, with private burial at Rosehill.

Impressions of California. Vivid sunshine—the blue Pacific—enchancing San Francisco with its antique cable cars, foreign restaurants, fish, ferry boats, and cosmopolitan population—impressive Yosemite Valley, beyond description—miles and miles of fruit trees—missions (no town complete without one)—overgrown Los Angeles—San Diego, with its ancient Old Town and North Island where the Government experiments with the new in aviation—Brown hills in the background—friendly people.

The 61st annual conference of the American Library Association was held June 18-24 at the Civic Auditorium in San Francisco with some 3,000 librarians attending. A special feature of the conference was a 5 day clinic on "Library staff relations with the public" with speakers outside the library field to bring new light on public relations.

Short speeches by the winners of the Newberry and Caldecott Awards gave librarians an opportunity to see and hear the artist-authors. Thomas Handforth, winner of the Caldecott Award, is young and very shy, born in Washington state and interested in all things Chinese. Miss Enright, winner of the Newberry Award with her book "Thimble Summer" is also young and very attractive.

A talk from Mr. Morse A. Cartwright, director of the American Association for Adult Education, gave the background for the "People's Library." Six books of this series have been published by Macmillan and another group is being prepared for fall issue. These books were the result of the feeling that the success of the democratic process depends upon a degree of education and that the book reading habit was one that should be encouraged. To reach a large group in these United States easier, cheaper, and more interesting books were needed. The difficulties in producing such books have been many and some improvement must still be made before they reach the peak hoped for by the Adult Group, the Carnegie Foundation which furnished the money, and the Macmillan Company which has undertaken the printing, binding and distributing. The Highland Park Public Library has three of the first issue: "Which Way America," by Lyman Bryson; "Let Me Think," by Harry A. Overstreet; and "Here Comes Labor," by Chester M. Wright.

Anti-Aircraft Demonstrations at Fort Sheridan

Brig. Gen. Karl Truesdell, commandant of Fort Sheridan, Monday announced two public demonstrations to be given by the 61st coast artillery anti-aircraft. Tuesday the battery fired 3 inch guns at targets towed by airplanes at 12,000 feet. Today the soldiers will shoot .50 caliber machine guns at hydrogen filled balloons. Each performance will begin at 3:30 o'clock on the lake front. They are designed primarily for the instruction of 300 reserve officers and 250 R. O. T. C. cadets in summer training at the post.

Pat went to an elegant restaurant for dinner, but the menu card was printed in French and he could not read it. Watching the man next to him, he said to the waiter, "I'll take the same as he orders."

All went well enough with the soup, the celery, etc., but when the waiter brought him broiled lobster, Pat shouted indignantly, "Well, I drank your dishwater and I ate your bouquet, but I'll be hanged if I'll eat that bug!"
