

This Week in Washington

by Ralph E. Church
Representative, 10th Congressional District

Washington, D. C., July 29—On August 15th the Thirty-fifth Conference of the Interparliamentary union will be held at Oslo, Norway. On that day delegates from practically all the parliaments of the world will assemble for a friendly exchange of views on the important international problems of our time. It is expected that 51 countries will be represented.

The assembled delegates will be without power to commit their respective parliaments or to bind their respective countries. It is not a conference for treaty writing but rather a conference to lay a basis for common understandings upon which treaties or agreements for the promotion of peace may possibly be formulated. The Interparliamentary Union Conference is essentially an international forum for a discussion of basic world problems and possible solutions. Even though resolutions may be adopted, they have no binding effect.

In many respects the Interparliamentary Union Conference is analogous to the Pan-American Conference. There are no treaties. There are no government commitments. There are simply discussions of mutual problems looking to a cooperative solution.

At no time could there be greater need for good will and understandings between nations for peace. The present world situation makes the Oslo Conference one of the most important held in the 50 years of existence of the Interparliamentary union. And it is a happy fact that this particular conference will be held in the quiet, peaceful country of Norway inhabited by a frugal, happy people.

Twelve important questions will be discussed at this conference: (1) World peace and neutrality, (2) Ethnic, colonial and refugee problems, (3) Overpopulation, food-stuffs and raw materials, (4) The calling of a new Hague Conference, (5) Promotion of peace by arbitration, judicial settlement and international law, (6) Outlawing bombing of defenseless cities and safeguarding food ships, (7) Reduction and limitation of armaments, (8) Economic and financial questions, (9) Social and humanitarian questions, (10) Intellectual cooperation, (11) Promotion of representative and parliamentary forms of government, and (12) Possibility of holding the next Conference in the United States.

The delegation representing the United States Congress will be headed by Congressman Hamilton Fish, of New York, ranking Minority Member of the Committee on Foreign Affairs. Six have been selected from the United States Senate and 19 from the House of Representatives, equally divided between Republicans and Democrats and representing the various sections of the country.

It has been my honor, if I may be pardoned a personal note, to be selected as one of the delegates and assigned to the Interparliamentary Union Conference committee which will deal with the question of "reduction and limitation of armaments." As to whether I will be able to accept the assignment is, of course, contingent upon the date that Congress adjourns.

Even so, it would perhaps not be amuse for me to indicate in a general way what thesis I expect to develop as a member of the Conference Committee on Armaments. While the United States is spending large sums of money on armaments, the governments of the world should understand that we seek no more than to build up an adequate national defense for our people. We will spend millions for defense but not one cent for aggression. We seek no territory. We covet nothing but liberty and peace, and our people are preparing to defend our liberty and peace. And we believe that can be best advanced by refraining from any alliances and keeping out of the territorial disputes of other countries.

It is my conviction, and I believe it is shared by the entire delegation of the United States to the Conference, that: "The cement of societies is liberty, together with mutual kindness not imposed by law." Those are the words of a distinguished French statesman of many years ago. In the words of his own language, which will be the language of the Conference: "Le ciment des sociétés, c'est la liberté, avec la bienveillance mutuelle non imposée par la loi."

Sheridan Rifle Club Will Hold Pistol Match, August 6th

According to the demands of the many North Shore hand-gun marksmen, the Sheridan Rifle and Pistol Club has announced that it will direct and manage an outdoor revolver and pistol match to be held on Sunday, August 6.

This tournament will be fired on the club's County Line range located one-half mile west of Waukegan road. Firing will commence at 1 p.m. and will continue until 6 p.m. Entries may be made at any time during the match. The National Match Course, open to anyone and any revolver or pistol, will be fired. This course consists of 10 shots slow fire at 50 yards, 10 shots timed fire at 25 yards, and 10 shots rapid fire at 25 yards.

The Camp Perry Police Course will also be fired but will be restricted to police entrants only, firing any center-fire revolver. This course is the same as the National Match Course except that the slow fire stage is also fired at 25 yards. There will be 1st and 2nd place gold and silver medals awarded in each match with bronze medals for the winners of the other classes.

The civilian, military and police shooters in this area have evinced considerable enthusiasm over the prospects of shooting under competitive match conditions in their own community.

Receives One-Fourth of $28,000 Estate

David R. Lasier, 555 Cloverdale avenue, Highland Park, is given a one-fourth share in the $28,000 estate of his late mother, Mrs. Minnie Lasier, of Winnetka, who died July 13, by her will which was admitted to probate in Chicago yesterday. As $20,000 of the estate is real estate, the estate is put in trust until such time as the real estate can be sold advantageously. In the meantime the four children are to receive their shares of the income.

Hospital Auxiliary Meets
The regular monthly meeting of the Highland Park hospital Auxiliary will be held on Wednesday, August 9, in the Episcopal church parish house at 10:30 a.m. Luncheon will be served.
