

Infantile Paralysis Proves Fatal to Mrs. G. Noerenberg

Mrs. Gerard Noerenberg of Wilmette, who was well known in Highland Park, died suddenly at 3:30 a. m. Monday morning at the isolation hospital in Evanston. She was being treated for Poliomyelitis, a form of paralysis often spoken of as infantile paralysis by the average layman, but a type of disease paralyzing the neck and respiratory organs. Mrs. Noerenberg became ill a week ago Sunday and was taken to the hospital that evening where she was placed in an iron lung. It was believed that she was making satisfactory progress until Sunday evening when sudden changes developed which resulted in her death.

Dorothy Ellen Hartman was born in Zortman, Mont. on Aug. 2, 1910. She was the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hartman, now of Chicago and Florida. As a child she came to Wilmette with her parents and gained her early education in the Grammar school of that city, later graduating from New Trier and then from the National College of Education in Evanston. Mrs. Noerenberg was very much interested in athletics and music. She was very quiet and unassuming in her manner. She maintained a poise and evenness of temperament that was envied by her many friends. She was very devoted to her home and her family.

On June 4th, 1932, she united in marriage with Mr. Gerard S. Noerenberg of this city. After making their home in Highland Park a short time they moved to Wilmette where Mr. Noerenberg has been employed as a chemist in the city water department. Three children have been welcomed to their home; they are Gerard Silas, 7, Shirley Ann, who was 4 years on the day of her mother's death, and Jacqueline, 11 months old. These children with the husband, the parents and one sister, Mrs. Douglas Boyer of Evanston, other relatives and many friends mourn the death of this young mother.

A private funeral service took place Wednesday afternoon with interment at the North Northfield cemetery. Rev. H. F. Siemen of the Bethany Evangelical church officiated.

Recover Body of Soldier Drowned Nine Days Ago

Saturday noon the body of Private Glen E Klug 19, of Chicago, was washed ashore at the foot of Cary avenue. This ended a nine day search for the Fort Sheridan soldier who lost his life when a home made sail boat collapsed three miles out from Highland Park on Lake Michigan, August 9. Two companions, Rudolph Pestalozzi, 19, and John Wachewicz, 21, suffered from exhaustion but were revived at the Fort Sheridan hospital.

The body of the young man was discovered about 50 feet from shore by a couple who were walking along the beach. They notified the Highland Park police, and the victim was later identified as the missing private.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death by drowning at an inquest held Sunday morning at Kelley's chapel on Sheridan road.

According to the story told by Wachewicz and Pestalozzi, the three young men had set sail from Fort Sheridan in their home made craft, and paused for a short time at the North Shore Yacht club on Park avenue. They then headed directly east into the lake. A heavy wind carried their craft further into the lake than they had intended going, and when about three miles from shore decided to turn back. A huge wave hit them broadside, filling the boat with water.

In attempting to keep the boat from sinking they decided to turn it completely over, while Wachewicz set out to seek aid from an unknown yacht lying a short distance in. While he was gone, the other two, Pestalozzi and Klug, started to try to swim to shore. Pestalozzi was rescued by Lorrain Thom, 642 Central avenue, and George Howe, 654 Central avenue, who were fishing in a row boat. Pestalozzi believed that Klug was directly behind him, but all efforts to find the missing soldier proved futile.

Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at Fort Sheridan with burial in Ascension cemetery.

Modenese Varieties of Cantaloupe Have Superior Flavor

Childhood memories of moonlight forays into the melon fields of the neighborhood assign to those cantaloupes of yesteryear a sweetness and flavor that has never been equaled by the modern cantaloupes. Although there are countless Highland Park residents who will argue to the contrary, present-day varieties of cantaloupes available in Highland Park are actually superior to their forefathers.

Outstanding among the modern varieties, bred from the best of older sorts, are the Honeyrock which was first propagated in Ohio, and the Hearts of Gold which is an older favorite that came to light at Benton Harbor, Mich., where today are being sold on the city-owned and operated fruit market thousands of choice cantaloupes.

Some of these, now that Illinois and Indiana harvests have ended, are finding their way onto markets at Highland Park. Either the Honeyrock or the Hearts of Gold is a better melon than the old-time melons, but just the same buyers are taking Benders and Osages and the other older sorts from the fruit market because those were the melons that were toted under the fence by barefoot vandals of another year.

Must Pay $25 If You Buy Auto in Another State

Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes announces that under the provisions of a bill recently passed by the legislature, any Illinois citizen who purchases a motor vehicle in another state is required by law to pay an investigation charge of $25 in addition to the fifty cent certificate of title fee.

"I think that Illinois citizens should all have knowledge of this Act in order to save themselves penalty fees," stated Secretary Hughes. "If one of our citizens buys a car in another state he should have previous knowledge that the Secretary of State is required by law to collect a $25 fee."

The only exception that the law permits the Secretary of State to make in this instance is when an individual shows that he had the motor vehicle which he purchased registered in another state for at least ninety days before application for Illinois registration, or when an accident occurs out of state occasioning the purchase of a new car. If the applicant, in this instance, forwards an affidavit from the dealer who sold him the car, and an affidavit of his own that the cost of repairing the old car would have cost one-third or more the price of the new machine, no $25 charge will be made.

WILSON'S Weekly MEMO by GEORGE RECTOR

George Rector
Food Consultant
Wilson & Co.

A woman's capacity for being cook, waitress, hostess and even wife and mother all at the same given instant is an achievement that rises almost to the height of genius, and never fails to fill me with admiration, not to mention awe.

At Rector's, everyone had his own specific job and nothing more was expected of him. The chef with the responsibility of Pilet of Sole Marguery on his mind did not have to discuss the trend of modern art while his masterpiece was under the broiler. Nor did I, as chief maker-at-homer to our patrons have to concern myself at the moment with affairs culinary or whether Junior had washed his hands before coming to the table.

I give the American housewife three of the deepest salams my figure will permit.

P. S.—I will be lecturing all summer in the Court of Flame, New York World's Fair. I'll be happy to have you visit me. G. R.

It is good marital technique to lure a husband into spontaneous expenditures by first feeding him. Steak is quite properly felt by most women to be the fitting bait. However, if I may be forgiven a poor pun, it is a mistake to suppose the bait must always be of bovine origin. A Certified Tender Made Ham steak, properly prepared, can open a man's pocketbook just as wide as any piece of "Blue Ribbon" beef.

Tender Made Ham Steak
in Apple Juice

The steak should be neatly cut from the center of a Wilson's Tender Made Ham. Have it cut about an inch thick. Spread over the top a paste made from 1/4 cup dried bread crumbs, 1/4 cup brown sugar, 1/4 teaspoon mustard and about 2 tablespoons of cold water. Place in a baking pan and carefully pour over it 1 cup of apple juice. Bake at 350° F. for 25 minutes, basting frequently and adding more apple juice if required. Sprinkle with minced parsley and serve on a garnished platter. Served as the piece de resistance of the following menu, this ham steak should drag down almost any woman's passing fancy.

TIME FOR A SOUP-RISE

About this time of year it is a good idea to keep one eye on the thermometer and a can of Wilson's Vienna Sausage on the pantry shelf.

To my mind, there is nothing like the first soup-meal of the season, following a rather steady, career of jellied-this and frosted that.

LENTIL SOUP with VIENNA SAUSAGE

1 can Wilson's Certified Vienna Sausage
2 cups lentils
1 1/2 pounds soup meat
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup celery, chopped fine
1 onion, sliced

Soak the lentils in cold water over night. Drain. Cover the meat with cold water, add the lentils and salt and bring to a boil. Add celery and onion and boil slowly for 2 to 3 hours. Remove meat. Press soup through a sieve, reheat, season to taste with salt and pepper.

Arrange innumerable half-inch slices of the Vienna sausage in the bottom of the tureen and pour the soup over them.

WHY TENDER MADE HAM COSTS LESS PER SERVING

There's no extra salt—no soaking time. The ham goes to the ready-to-serve.
