SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 17

is the Anniversary of the Framing of the Constitution, 1787

On September 18th, 1814, one hundred and twenty-five years ago, the words of our National Anthem were written by Francis Scott Key as he watched for the flag on Fort McHenry in Maryland during the war of 1812.

Then conquer we must,
 When our cause, it is just,
 And this be our motto
 "In God is our trust"

And the Star Spangled Banner
 In Triumph shall wave
 O'er the land of the free
 And the home of the brave.

Harriett Mason in Berlin Broadcast

The following is a quotation from the German Short Wave Station Press service bulletin for September 1939.
 "Harriett Mason, recital Sept. 16, 8:30 p.m. The young American pianist from Chicago has won this year's scholarship of the 'Alexander von Humboldt Foundation' for the second consecutive time and is at present studying in Berlin. The German Short Wave Station has invited her to play for her American countrymen and to arrange a half-hour program with works by Mozart and Brahms. Harriett Mason since her stay in Berlin has won the hearts of many Germans with whom she came in contact, not only because of her great musical talents, but also because of her charm and pleasing personality."

MARIE PIGNATARANELO CAMPAGNI WED

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Pignatari of 216 North avenue announce the marriage of their daughter, Marie, to Mr. Nello Campagni, son of the Evaristo Campagni's of 312 Highwood avenue, last Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock. At a beautiful ceremony performed at the St. James church in Highwood, the young couple exchanged their vows before Father Ward. A bridal breakfast followed at the home of the Ray Fini's for the bridal group. The dinner and reception was held at the Labor Temple in the evening, for their many friends and relatives.

The bride was dressed in a white satin gown, shirred in front, and a reddingote coat of satin trimmed in white lace with a circular blushing veil. She carried a white prayer book decorated with two white garlands and streamers of flowers fell from the book. Her sister, Miss Lucille Pignatari, was her maid of honor, and she wore a blue taffeta gown trimmed in dubonnet velvet. Mrs. Elsie Fini attended her as bridesmaid, and her dress was of Fuchsia taffeta trimmed in dubonnet. Both carried old fashioned bouquets of blue lepiniums and pink lillies. WILSON'S Weekly MEMO by GEORGE RECTOR

Whenever I see a school child trudging along with the familiar tin lunch box, my sympathies are divided between the mother who has to fill it and the child who has to empty it. On the whole, I think I am on the side of the consumer of this eternal triangle of sandwich, fruit and cake. From time to time, therefore, I shall make suggestions that I hope will keep the school lunch box from becoming as monotonous as a rainy vacation and as dry as the history lesson that preceded it.

The Earl Said a Mouthful
 When the Earl of Sandwich demanded a slab of meat between two slices of bread, he laid down the specifications for what has been standard equipment for portable meals ever since. As a change for the school lunch box I suggest a sort of inside-out sandwich, not exactly a piece of bread between two slices of ham but any one of a number of interesting fillings between two slices of ham.

A BREADLESS HAMWICH
 Buy a whole or half Tender Made Ham in the yellow wrapper. It is ready to serve as you buy it. Cut two firm slices for your Hamwich, about 3/4 inch thick. One treatment is to spread the slices lightly with mustard, apply a filling of chopped olives or other relish, and cut the "hamwich" in fingers for easy eating. Other suitable fillings are Wilson's Certified Cheese, Clear Brook egg salad or pineapple marmalade. A bun, roll or muffin as part of the lunch makes a change from the usual parallel slices of bread.

Bringing Home the Bacon
 I urge the American housewife to buy Wilson's Certified Canadian Style Bacon now. If not by the whole piece, then by the half, but never will she be satisfied with a mere pound, once she has realized the convenience of having a large piece in the house. It may be sliced for broiling or pan frying, or boiled or baked in large pieces.

Baked Canadian Bacon
 Remove the transparent casing from a 2-pound piece of Wilson's Certified Canadian Style Bacon. When it is at room temperature, place in a baking dish or small roaster and add one cup of water or, if preferred, pineapple juice or sweet cider. Bake for one hour in an oven preheated to 325° F. Baste several times. Then pour 1/4 cup honey over the bacon or sprinkle with brown sugar and bake 16 minutes more, until brown. Serve hot.
